French Strike Curb Measure Wins Approval

Premier Is Armed To Fight Sabotage

PARIS, Thursday, Dec. 4 (AP) — The French National Assembly approved Premier Robert Schuman's anti-sabotage and strike control bill early today after more than five days of bitter debate on the instrument designed to arm the government against a growing wave of industrial strife.

An official count showed the Assembly approved the measure 403 to 183. Only the chamber's Communists voted against the bill.

The vote came as mass demonstrations and damage to industrial equipment grew to alarming proportions throughout the nation, while leftist-inspired strikes appeared to be declining.

The whole bill was approved by approximately the same majority as each of its five component articles and dozens of amendments which were put to individual votes during 126 hours of debate on the controversial law. All of the non-Communist members of the Assembly present at the session voted approval and there were only a few absentees.

Assembly Building Guarded

Under the terms of the law, which Schuman presented to the Assembly last Saturday, he will have a new weapon against the rising incidence of sabotage. The law probably will be put into effect later today when it is published in an official government bulletin.

During the final debate, a cordon of steel-helmeted police and troops guarded the Assembly building against the possibility of a demonstration against the government.

As finally approved, the new law raises the maximum prison sentence for sabotage from six months to 10 years and fixes fines as high as 1,000,000 francs ($8,000). The use of fraud, threats or violence to start strikes, keep them going or spread them will be punishable by maximum five-year prison terms and fines up to 500,000 francs ($4,000).

One section of the law which was under heavy fire as a violation of freedom of the press was eliminated yesterday. It made equally punishable the "direct provocation" of sabotage or illegal strike tactics by "speeches, cries, threats, writings, printed matter, signs, posters or tracts."

Strikers Fire On Troops

A government communique said French troops in Northern France had been fired upon by strikers but that the troops had not fired back.

The communique said the soldiers stood the fire calmly "resisting the pressures of many hundreds of strikers."

The firing was said to have taken place mostly at "small outposts" in the Valenciennes region where striking coal miners have clashed frequently with police and troops in hand-to-hand fights.

Warned of a possible demonstration against the government in the Place De La Concord just in front of the Assembly building, a high police official said, the government stationed troops, mobile guards and police in a mile-square cordon blocking off all traffic while the assembly was in session.

When no demonstrators appeared, traffic was again allowed to pass through the area, but the steel-helmeted forces, estimated at several hundred, remained in place.

Jones Offers To Testify In RFC Investigation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—Jesse Jones, former Secretary of Commerce and head of the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation for 13 years, volunteered today to testify before a congressional subcommittee investigating wartime expenditures of the RFC.

Chairman Bender (R-Ohio), of the House Subcommittee on Executive Expenditures, announced that Jones would be given "the privilege of a hearing" tomorrow.

Across the Capitol, a Senate Banking Subcommittee laid the groundwork for its investigation of the RFC, opening December 11.

"Wave Of Panic Buying" Sweeping Russia, State Dept. Says In Broadcast

MAY FACE TRIAL—Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino (above) faces prosecution on treason charges—providing the Justice Department can locate two witnesses to say she made wartime propaganda broadcasts from Tokyo, the Associated Press reported last night. The department has issued an appeal for "any persons who witnessed the actual broadcasts" made by Mrs. D'Aquino or "recognized her voice while receiving programs broadcast by her." Born in Los Angeles, Mrs. D'Aquino has sometimes been called "Tokyo Rose," although the Justice Department has no evidence she used the name.

Rumor Of Impending Price Hikes Blamed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The State Department's official "Voice of America" radio broadcast overseas in 23 languages tonight a report of "a wave of panic buying" in Moscow and other Soviet Russian cities.

"The buying runs were reportedly caused by widespread rumors of impending price increases and changes in Soviet currency," the broadcast said, adding:

"The raids for durable goods reached such proportions that some Moscow stores were said to have been forced to close their doors."

The official radio's dispatch was under a New York dateline and was ascribed to "reports reaching here from Moscow."

It was supplemented by more detailed reports from authoritative sources here which said there were runs on savings banks and that Moscow was swept by rumors the Soviet government was preparing to put out a new currency issue December 5 which would devalue the ruble.

No Immediate Confirmation

There was no immediate confirmation in dispatches of Moscow news correspondents, which are subject to transmission facilities under Soviet control. A secretary at the Soviet Embassy here denied knowledge of such developments.

The supplementary reports, which come from persons in a position to know of Moscow developments of the last few days, nevertheless added such details as that a main Moscow department store, the Mostorg, had closed its doors, along with all its branches, and posted signs reading "store closed for repairs."

Other closed stores were said to have posted signs saying inventories were in progress. Buyers reportedly were eager to exchange rubles for dry goods, jewelry, rare books, furs—any durable goods.

The reports here said that because of pressure to withdraw funds from savings banks, withdrawals have been limited to 200 rubles a day. (At the official rate, a ruble is avalued at 20 cents American money, but its purchasing value varies. The diplomatic rate is 12½ cents United States currency.)

Rationing Changes Rumored

The advices received here reported the rumors about Soviet currency plans without expressing belief they were valid, but gave them as the explanation for the rush to buy durable goods.

Coupled with the report of a contemplated new currency issue was another that the present system of rationing would be abandoned about December 15 and its place taken by a single system of higher prices for unrationed goods.

The Soviet government in September, 1946, raised the prices of rationed goods in the hope of blotting up excess currency, officials recalled.

Although the broadcast was carried in virtually every language used by the State Department's official radio, it was not beamed to Russia itself.

House Group Says Russia Has Army Of Four Millions

Eaton Asserts Reds Out To Win World

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — Chairman Eaton (R-NJ), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared today that Russia is out to conquer the world, and his committee produced figures to show that the Soviets have an army of 4,050,000 to help in the attempt.

Eaton appeared before the House Rules Committee to get clearance for the opening of debate tomorrow on a bill authorizing $590,000,000 in emergency, anti-Communism aid to France, Italy, Austria and China.

The rules body recommended that the bill be opened for amendments after 12 hours of debate, which will take place tomorrow and Friday.

"What could stop Russia from taking over all of Europe in 24 hours?" asked Rep. Cox (D-Ga), a member of the Rules Committee.

"Not a thing," Eaton replied.

Committee Stands By Figure

The estimate of Soviet military strength was prepared by the Army Department and made public by the Foreign Affairs Committee, which said Russia was trying with "fear" and "desperation" to prevent the United States from strengthening Western Europe.

Some members cited the implied Soviet menace as a reason for raising the emergency relief fund to the $597,000,000 already authorized by the Senate for the three European countries only, leaving aid to China until later.

But the foreign affairs group stood by its own figure, saying in a report:

"We must not fall into the Soviet trop of bleeding ourselves white economically through expensive, extended and ineffective aid plans. We should plan our aid to other countries so as to remain strong at home, while strengthening free nations for all eventualities."

The committee said China, left out of the stop-gap program requested by President Truman and adopted without major change by the Senate, "is rapidly approaching the time when aid would be too late."

Stassen Decision Is Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen's associates said today he probably will decide within a few weeks whether to challenge Sen. Taft and Gov. Dewey for a portion of Ohio's 53 and New York's 97 Republican presidential nomination delegates.

Earl E. Hart, Stassen's Washington secretary, said he recently completed a survey in Ohio which indicated Stassen stood to win eight to 20 delegates if he cared to joust with Taft-pledged slates in the big cities.

Ohio picks 44 districts and nine at-large delegates to the GOP national convention in a primary May 4. New York selects 97 delegates in a primary April 6.

Both Taft and Stassen are announced candidates. Dewey is an undeclared aspirant.

Stassen has said he will enter the New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Nebraska presidential primaries in March and April and has asked that a primary be held in Arkansas. A law there permits a primary should a presidential nomination candidate request it.

Milan's Unemployed Demand Works Projects

ROME, Dec. 3 (AP)—Several hundred jobless marched to the provincial governor's palace in Milan today demanding immediate public works projects to provide work and emergency issues of foodstuffs.

Thousands demonstrated in Milan last week protesting a proposed transfer of the province's prefect or governor. Troops were ordered to stand by. Today, 24 light armored cars carrying machine guns and a crew of two arrived at the barracks of the 23rd Anti-Tank Artillery Regiment.

Possibility of other labor trouble in that city appeared in a breakdown of negotiations between stores and their clerks. The clerks threatened to close the shops to Christmas buyers.

Meat Ceilings Are Necessary, Anderson Says

House Committee Cool To Statement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson predicted today that meat price controls will be needed soon to avoid "distress everywhere" in living costs.

Unless demand drops, "I don't see how we can go through the spring" without meat ceilings, the Cabinet officer told the House Banking Committee. He got a cool reception.

Rep. Cole (R-Kans.) told Anderson there are some things worse than high prices, and one of them is regimentation, except in an extreme emergency.

Tax Avoidance Charged

Anderson said tonight in a separate statement that more than 600 persons, following "novel" trading and accounting procedures, are using the commodity future markets to avoid income taxes on profits from commodity trading or other sources.

The Secretary, while not passing on validity of the operations, said they should be stopped. He said it had contributed to more speculative trading in grain and other commodities while markets were soaring.

Anderson told the committee that the present upward trend in meat prices "need not continue, but it looks like it will unless something is done." He pointed out that the per capital meat supply next year is estimated at 146 pounds, compared with 156 this year, but still is above what the nation consumed before the war.

He observed that if a shortage develops in the spring, "fantastic prices" might result.

Wheat Prospects Boosted

Anderson informed the committee that rains in the southwest have given wheat prospects a boost, and that with reasonably good weather 1948 might produce 1,200,000,000 bushels. This year's output was 1,400,000,000.

Schwellenbach, who preceded Anderson before the committee, was accused by Rep. Smith (R-Ohio) of "asking for political control of labor." But Schwellenbach, supporting Mr. Truman's request for modified wage control authority, replied that he will offer Congress a set of standards by which it could limit any wage controls it authorizes.

OIL FIRE IS BELIEVED CLUE TO MISSING PLANE

FRANKFURT, Germany, Thursday, Dec. 4 (AP) — The United States Air Force said early today it had received what it believed to be its "best clue" to date in the six-day-old search for a missing C-47 transport plane with 20 persons aboard.

Officers at air rescue headquarters said a 30-foot-long "oil fire" had been sighted in a valley in the French zone of Germany near Berschweiler, 11 miles northwest of Kaiserlautern, late last night.

Lt. Thomas Neal, Athens, Ga., pilot of a search plane, said he sighted a black object near the fire. Each time he flew over the spot, he said a light, "almost like a pistol flash," pierced the darkness.

Air Forces planes flew immediately to the area to drop flares. Ground search parties, including radio-equipped trucks and ambulances, were ordered immediately to leave Pirmasens and go to Kaiserlautern, 30 miles to the north. Berschweiler is about 40 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

World Fliers Rest

AMARILLO, Tex., Dec. 3 (INS)—Round-the-World Flivver Pilots George W. Truman and Clifford Evans prolonged their rest in Amarilli, Tex., tonight after a heavy overcast walled in all air transportation. Next stop for Truman and Evans is Oklahoma City, Okla.

ARAB DESTRUCTION—Clouds of smoke rise in the background as Arab mobs—often numbering up to 5,000 — engage in an orgy of looting, robbing, shop-wrecking and rioting in Jerusalem. A number of automobiles were set on fire during the Arab protest against the United Nations partitioning of Palestine into Arab and Jewish states. Yesterday, skirmishes were reported in all quarters of the Holy Land with 17 Jews and 14 Arabs counted dead.

Murray "Sending Up Trial Balloon," Bunting Believes

Doesn't Think CIO Head After Pay Hike

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today he believes CIO President Philip Murray was "sending up a trial balloon" in announcing that his unions would ask "substantial" pay hikes when present contracts expire.

"I don't think Murray is after a wage increase," Bunting told a news conference at the NAM's 52nd annual congress of American industry.

Opposes General Pay Hikes

"If I were Murray, I'd send up a trial balloon and find out how the American people and CIO members feel about another wage increase."

Bunting was asked what his answer would be to Murray if he were "a $50-a-week steel worker" and the NAM president answered:

"I might say, well you got me a wage increase and you got me another and each time the cost of living went up and it hasn't done me any good. If there's any other way I'd like to see it tried."

Bunting's conference was held shortly after he had asked labor to forego demands for further general wage increases, in a speech that highlighted the opening session of the three-day congress, which is spotlighted by the slogan—"Production—key to world peace and prosperity."

Higher Meat Prices Seen

Murray made his announcement in Washington last night and said that the CIO proposal was aimed at offsetting high prices.

The NAM president, who also is president of O'Sullivan Rubber Corporation, Winchester, Va., urged labor to forego new general wage demands without corresponding in-

Three Youths Arrested For Stealing Airplane

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Three high school youths who liked to fly around at night were arrested today for stealing an airplane.

Police said the joy-hoppers—aged 15, 16 and 18—got an airplane away from, and back to, an airport three times before they were caught. Their final flight was a 15-minute trip over Washington last night.

The pilot was the 16-year old, who made the successful night trips although he had had but 10 hours instruction.

The boys' names were not disclosed.

Meek Man Who Killed Tattooed Lady Gets Year

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Larry Riemer, the meek little piano player who amazed everyone by marrying the tattooed lady and then did it again by killing her, got a year for it today.

Judge Joseph Sherbow said it all goes to show what a woman can do to a man.

A jury convicted the 37-year-old husband of manslaughter last week. The evidence was that Agnes Riemer, 57, and covered from head to toe with exotic needlework, badgered him into taking her out on the town the night they had been married four months. Riemer spent most of the evening trying to keep her decently quiet. Finally he strangled her with his belt. He said he didn't remember it.

Russia Proposes Two-Month Delay In Treaty Study

Suggests Big Four Each Draw Up Pact

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov surprised the Foreign Ministers Council today with a proposal that each of the Big Four powers prepare their own drafts of a German peace treaty and submit them to the council in two months.

The suggestion brought from French Foreign Minister Bidault the quick observation that if the council accepted the idea of a two-month delay it might just as well go home now.

Meanwhile, shortly before the meeting it was learned United States Republican Advisor John Foster Dulles would leave for France tomorrow on a "personal" trip to study the French situation in relation to current foreign policy and report to Secretary Marshall.

More Disagreements

The Foreign Ministers were plodding from disagreement to disagreement on procedural matters—which they finally sent to the deputies for the third time without solving any major problems—when Molotov suddenly took the floor. He made a long speech on the necessity of a German peace treaty and then made his proposal that each government produce draft German treaties within two months.

Bidault, who was presiding, asked:

"If preparation of a peace treaty is not envisaged under these items why have these items been adopted for the agenda?

"If our governments are to be asked to state their views within two months, in accordance with Mr. Molotov's proposal, it will mean a quick end of this session since our purpose here is precisely the preparation of a German peace treaty. If we are to follow Mr. Molotov's course our presence in London will become superfluous."

Key West Gives Cheering Welcome To President

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Key West put on its best holiday attire today to give a cheering welcome to President Truman on his third visit to Florida since becoming the nation's Chief Executive.

The President flew down from the cold of Washington in the C-54, the "Sacred Cow," to the tropical weather of Boca Chica airport where he took off his overcoat for the 8½-mile ride to the naval submarine base.

Streets in Key West were lined with shouting flag-waving school children as Mr. Truman moved through in a black convertible for his five-day vacation here.

U.N. Looking To Britain To Keep Holy Land Order

Lie Is Considering Visit To Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 3—(AP)—A top United Nations official indicated today that the United Nations was looking to Britain alone to maintain order in Palestine as long as the British continue administering the Holy Land under their League of Nations mandate.

This view was expressed by Assistant Secretary-General Arkady A. Sobolev, a Russian national, at a news conference where Secretary-General Trygve Lie said he was considering a visit to Palestine early next year by himself or one of his chief aides.

Lie announced the appointment of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, an American negro formerly with the State Department, as principal secretary to the five-nation commission approved by the 1947 United Nations Assembly to supervise partitioning of the Holy Land into separate Jewish and Arab countries by next October 1.

"Hands-Off" Policy

At the same time, a six-nation working group of the United Nations Trusteeship Council began preliminary work on plans for the government of Jerusalem as an international city.

A United Nations "hands-off" policy on the Palestine disorders was indicated by Sobolev when Lie was asked whether the United Nations had taken official notice of the disturbances since the partition decision was taken last Saturday in the Assembly just before it adjourned.

"Don't forget," Sobolev said, "there is still an administering power in Palestine."

This was a reminder of the fact that the league mandate for Palestine still is in effect and will be until it is terminated by Britain. During the assembly's Palestine debate, Britain declared she would end the mandate at an "early" date and would withdraw her administration and troops by next August 1. Britain also said she would be solely responsible for law and order as long as the mandate remained in force.

U. S. Closes Pacific Atoll

Lie said he himself would leave for Europe soon after the first of the year to survey prospective sites for the 1948 Assembly.

The United States formally notified the Security Council that Eniwetok Atoll, designated Monday as a United States atomic testing ground, has been "closed for security reasons." Eniwetok Atoll, in the former Japanese-mandated Marshall Islands, is part of the Pacific trust territory which the United States administers under United Nations jurisdiction. All parts of trust territories are subject to periodic United Nations inspections unless the Security Council has been notified that they are closed as "strategic areas."

31 Are Killed And Hundreds Are Wounded

Entire Arab World Reports Disorders

JERUSALEM, Dec. 3—(AP)—The flame of hatred against those who played any part in the United Nations' decision to partition Palestine burned fiercer and hotter through the Arabian world tonight and reports from Alleppo to Aden brought news of new bloodshed, destruction and pillage.

Palestine alone counted its dead at 31—17 Jews and 14 Arabs by unofficial tabulation—and its wounded in the uncounted hundreds for the past two days as Arab mobs and Jewish defense forces, backing up British police and troops, skirmished in all quarters of the Holy Land and fought a major hand grenade and machine-gun battle on the "border" separating the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa.

In Cairo, "Queen City" of the Middle East, Egyptians stormed through the streets smashing windows and laying waste foreign property. Policemen used their clubs in beating back demonstrators before Egypt's royal palace, reports from Cairo said. British and Russian property appeared to be the main target of the Cairo mobs.

The fighting in Palestine continued tonight following the bloody battle on the Tel Aviv-Jaffa border and the nights operations indicated also the Arabs were out to inflict property damage wherever possible.

Lumber Yard Destroyed

A large, Jewish - owned lumber yard in Haifa was destroyed by fire and shortly afterward a small Arab shop in the same area was burned. Sporadic gunfire was heard in Jerusalem. Special Jewish police beat off an attack on four bus convoys on the Tel Aviv-Rehovoth road. One driver was wounded and two attackers were believer to have been wounded by gunfire.

At least two concrete movements to turn the anti-Jewish disorders into a jihad (holy war) were reported in the Arab world. In Baghdad, Iraq, demonstrators carried banners demanding a "Jihad for Palestine" and in Cairo instructors at the ancient Al Ashar University formed two committees to organize "a jihad to drive the wolves from Palestine."

At the southern end of the Arab world, the British colony of Aden on the coast of Arabia was partially under martial law as a result of anti-Jewish riots in which many of the colony's 4,000 Jews were injured by stones.

(One report said one person was killed in Aden.)

In the merchant town of Alleppo, Syria, Arabs razed more than 20 Jewish-owned buildings. Syrians, however, returned to work after the government terminated a protest strike.

Beirut, Lebanon's capital, and Amman, the capital of Trans-Jordan, were quiet tonight, according to telephoned reports, but Bedouin sheikhs were reported organizing Arabs in Trans-Jordan for guerrilla warfare in Palestine.

Faint Ray Of Hope

A faint hope for the end of the disorders arose tonight in Haifa when a committee of prominent local Arabs headed by Raschid Haj Ibrahim, who returned from a meeting in Lebanon with Haj Amin El Husseini, the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, issued an appeal to Arabs of the North Palestine city to "refrain from unorganized attacks and await orders."

So fearsome were the prospects

U. S. Troops Will Be Out Of Italy Before Deadline

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—The State Department said today the United States intends to withdraw remaining American occupation troops from Italy within the 90-day limit set by the Italian peace treaty.

Press Officer Lincoln White told reporters "there has never been any intention on the part of anyone to keep them there beyond the date for withdrawal as set by the treaty."

The 90-day limit expires December 15, White said. This is three months from the date the pact ratified by the United States and the other major Allies.

Woman Takes Own Life By Slashing Wrists After Strangling Baby Son

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3 (INS)—Mrs. Lena May Wartnik, 30, strangled her 11-month-old baby today then killed herself by slashing her wrists with a razor.

The body of the attractive red-haired woman was found in a Hermosa Beach hotel only a few hours after the body of her infant son, Neil, was found under blood-stained sheets in her fashionable Toluca Lake district home.

Police reported that a note beside Mrs. Wartnik's body read:

"I want to be buried with my baby in my arms. Bleeding to death is so slow . . . I am Mrs. Sam Wartnik, notify Sam Wartnik in Los Angeles."

Police said that the infant's body was found by neighbors who had noticed no sign of activity at the Wartnik home for several days. Authorities said that the baby had been dead for two days.

Detectives described the mansion where the baby was found dead as "spattered with blood from bedroom to living room," with a trail of blood leading through the nine-room home.

They found notes in the home which indicated that Mrs. Wartnik was contemplating suicide. Neighbors said that she had been despondent since November 24 when her husband, Sam H. Wartnik, 45, sportswear manufacturer, divorced her on grounds of "cruelty and intemperance."

Wartnik told police that his wife "attempted suicides on several occasions. The Wartniks were married in Las Vegas in May, 1946.

Labor Leaders Lash Hard At Taft And Hartley Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Labor leaders lashed hard at the Taft-Hartley Act today.

Joseph Curran and his National Maritime Union, CIO, filed a suit in Federal Court attacking the constitutionality of the provisions for non-Communist oaths and union financial statements.

CIO President Philip Murray said the law is being administered in favor of employers. He begged AFL President William Green for joint CIO-AFL action "to defeat the attack now being directed against us." Green's reply to such appeals in the past has been that AFL and CIO should first merge into one body.

At the same time, the National Labor Relations Board ground out two important new decisions under the controversial law which was enacted June 23 and went into full effect August 22.

The five-man board:

1. Dealt another blow to unions which refuse to have their officers sign non-Communist statements. For the first time, it ruled that such a union can't get on the ballot in a plant election even when the election has been requested by an employer. Today's order was aimed at the Fur and Leather Workers, CIO, in Gloversville, N. Y.

2. Asked the Supreme Court to force the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company to reinstate—with back pay—a foreman whom it fired for organizing other foremen into a union at its Detroit plant in 1944.

This was the first clear-cut case involving foremen to come before the Supreme Court since the Taft-Hartley Act deprived foremen of their protection against being fired for union activity. The Budd company says that because of the new law it shouldn't be required to give the foreman his job back.

Nation's Railroads Seek Additional Three Per Cent Freight Rate Hike

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The American railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a three per cent freight rate increase, bringing to 30 per cent the total rate increases asked since July. If granted, this would add approximately $2,037,000,000 to the nation's annual freight bill.

This is the figure the railroads estimated is needed to meet rising costs of operations resulting from wage increases of 15½ cents hourly already granted to members of the conductors and trainmen's brotherhoods, plus costs of similar raises pending with three others.

Prior to filing of today's petition with the ICC, the railroads had asked a 17 per cent rate hike on July 3 and on September 5 requested an additional 10 per cent boost.

While the commission was considering the railroads' request for a permanent 27 per cent increase it granted approval for a temporary 10 per cent rate hike in early October. This was in response to the carriers' plea for quick "emergency relief" to offset some of the wage adjustments which became effective September 1.

Commission representatives have just concluded a series of hearings on the proposed 27 per cent increase in Boston, Montgomery, Ala., Fort Worth, Tex., Salt Lake City, Utah, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles, Calif. The final hearing on the matter is scheduled to be held here next Monday, December 8.

French Strike Curb Measure Wins Approval

Premier Is Armed To Fight Sabotage

PARIS, Thursday, Dec. 4 (AP) — The French National Assembly approved Premier Robert Schuman's anti-sabotage and strike control bill early today after more than five days of bitter debate on the instrument designed to arm the government against a growing wave of industrial strife.

An official count showed the Assembly approved the measure 403 to 183. Only the chamber's Communists voted against the bill.

The vote came as mass demonstrations and damage to industrial equipment grew to alarming proportions throughout the nation, while leftist-inspired strikes appeared to be declining.

The whole bill was approved by approximately the same majority as each of its five component articles and dozens of amendments which were put to individual votes during 126 hours of debate on the controversial law. All of the non-Communist members of the Assembly present at the session voted approval and there were only a few absentees.

Assembly Building Guarded

Under the terms of the law, which Schuman presented to the Assembly last Saturday, he will have a new weapon against the rising incidence of sabotage. The law probably will be put into effect later today when it is published in an official government bulletin.

During the final debate, a cordon of steel-helmeted police and troops guarded the Assembly building against the possibility of a demonstration against the government.

As finally approved, the new law raises the maximum prison sentence for sabotage from six months to 10 years and fixes fines as high as 1,000,000 francs ($8,000). The use of fraud, threats or violence to start strikes, keep them going or spread them will be punishable by maximum five-year prison terms and fines up to 500,000 francs ($4,000).

One section of the law which was under heavy fire as a violation of freedom of the press was eliminated yesterday. It made equally punishable the "direct provocation" of sabotage or illegal strike tactics by "speeches, cries, threats, writings, printed matter, signs, posters or tracts."

Strikers Fire On Troops

A government communique said French troops in Northern France had been fired upon by strikers but that the troops had not fired back.

The communique said the soldiers stood the fire calmly "resisting the pressures of many hundreds of strikers."

The firing was said to have taken place mostly at "small outposts" in the Valenciennes region where striking coal miners have clashed frequently with police and troops in hand-to-hand fights.

Warned of a possible demonstration against the government in the Place De La Concord just in front of the Assembly building, a high police official said, the government stationed troops, mobile guards and police in a mile-square cordon blocking off all traffic while the assembly was in session.

When no demonstrators appeared, traffic was again allowed to pass through the area, but the steel-helmeted forces, estimated at several hundred, remained in place.

"Wave Of Panic Buying" Sweeping Russia, State Dept. Says In Broadcast

MAY FACE TRIAL—Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino (above) faces prosecution on treason charges—providing the Justice Department can locate two witnesses to say she made wartime propaganda broadcasts from Tokyo, the Associated Press reported last night. The department has issued an appeal for "any persons who witnessed the actual broadcasts" made by Mrs. D'Aquino or "recognized her voice while receiving programs broadcast by her." Born in Los Angeles, Mrs. D'Aquino has sometimes been called "Tokyo Rose," although the Justice Department has no evidence she used the name.

Rumor Of Impending Price Hikes Blamed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The State Department's official "Voice of America" radio broadcast overseas in 23 languages tonight a report of "a wave of panic buying" in Moscow and other Soviet Russian cities.

"The buying runs were reportedly caused by widespread rumors of impending price increases and changes in Soviet currency," the broadcast said, adding:

"The raids for durable goods reached such proportions that some Moscow stores were said to have been forced to close their doors."

The official radio's dispatch was under a New York dateline and was ascribed to "reports reaching here from Moscow."

It was supplemented by more detailed reports from authoritative sources here which said there were runs on savings banks and that Moscow was swept by rumors the Soviet government was preparing to put out a new currency issue December 5 which would devalue the ruble.

No Immediate Confirmation

There was no immediate confirmation in dispatches of Moscow news correspondents, which are subject to transmission facilities under Soviet control. A secretary at the Soviet Embassy here denied knowledge of such developments.

The supplementary reports, which come from persons in a position to know of Moscow developments of the last few days, nevertheless added such details as that a main Moscow department store, the Mostorg, had closed its doors, along with all its branches, and posted signs reading "store closed for repairs."

Other closed stores were said to have posted signs saying inventories were in progress. Buyers reportedly were eager to exchange rubles for dry goods, jewelry, rare books, furs—any durable goods.

The reports here said that because of pressure to withdraw funds from savings banks, withdrawals have been limited to 200 rubles a day. (At the official rate, a ruble is avalued at 20 cents American money, but its purchasing value varies. The diplomatic rate is 12½ cents United States currency.)

Rationing Changes Rumored

The advices received here reported the rumors about Soviet currency plans without expressing belief they were valid, but gave them as the explanation for the rush to buy durable goods.

Coupled with the report of a contemplated new currency issue was another that the present system of rationing would be abandoned about December 15 and its place taken by a single system of higher prices for unrationed goods.

The Soviet government in September, 1946, raised the prices of rationed goods in the hope of blotting up excess currency, officials recalled.

Although the broadcast was carried in virtually every language used by the State Department's official radio, it was not beamed to Russia itself.

House Group Says Russia Has Army Of Four Millions

Eaton Asserts Reds Out To Win World

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — Chairman Eaton (R-NJ), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, declared today that Russia is out to conquer the world, and his committee produced figures to show that the Soviets have an army of 4,050,000 to help in the attempt.

Eaton appeared before the House Rules Committee to get clearance for the opening of debate tomorrow on a bill authorizing $590,000,000 in emergency [illegible]-Communism aid to France, Italy, Austria and China.

The rules body recommended that the bill be opened for amendments after 12 hours of debate, which will take place tomorrow and Friday.

"What could stop Russia from taking over all of Europe in 24 hours?" asked Rep. Cox (D-Ga), a member of the Rules Committee.

"Not a thing," Eaton replied.

Committee Stands By Figure

The estimate of Soviet military strength was prepared by the Army Department and made public by the Foreign Affairs Committee, which said Russia was trying with "fear" and "desperation" to prevent the United States from strengthening Western Europe.

Some members cited the implied Soviet menace as a reason for raising the emergency relief fund to the $597,000,000 already authorized by the Senate for the three European countries only, leaving aid to China until later.

But the foreign affairs group stood by its own figure, saying in a report:

"We must not fall into the Soviet trop of bleeding ourselves white economically through expensive, extended and ineffective aid plans. We should plan our aid to other countries so as to remain strong at home, while strengthening free nations for all eventualities."

The committee said China, left out of the stop-gap program requested by President Truman and adopted without major change by the Senate, "is rapidly approaching the time when aid would be too late."

Stassen Decision Is Expected Soon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen's associates said today he probably will decide within a few weeks whether to challenge Sen. Taft and Gov. Dewey for a portion of Ohio's 53 and New York's 97 Republican presidential nomination delegates.

Earl E. Hart, Stassen's Washington secretary, said he recently completed a survey in Ohio which indicated Stassen stood to win eight to 20 delegates if he cared to joust with Taft-pledged slates in the big cities.

Ohio picks 44 districts and nine at-large delegates to the GOP national convention in a primary May 4. New York selects 97 delegates in a primary April 6.

Both Taft and Stassen are announced candidates. Dewey is an undeclared aspirant.

Stassen has said he will enter the New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Nebraska presidential primaries in March and April and has asked that a primary be held in Arkansas. A law there permits a primary should a presidential nomination candidate request it.

Milan's Unemployed Demand Works Projects

ROME, Dec. 3 (AP)—Several hundred jobless marched to the provincial governor's palace in Milan today demanding immediate public works projects to provide work and emergency issues of foodstuffs.

Thousands demonstrated in Milan last week protesting a proposed transfer of the province's prefect or governor. Troops were ordered to stand by. Today, 24 light armored cars carrying machine guns and a crew of two arrived at the barracks of the 23rd Anti-Tank Artillery Regiment.

Possibility of other labor trouble in that city appeared in a breakdown of negotiations between stores and their clerks. The clerks threatened to close the shops to Christmas buyers.

Meat Ceilings Are Necessary, Anderson Says

House Committee Cool To Statement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Anderson predicted today that meat price controls will be needed soon to avoid "distress everywhere" in living costs.

Unless demand drops, "I don't see how we can go through the spring" without meat ceilings, the Cabinet officer told the House Banking Committee. He got a cool reception.

Rep. Cole (R-Kans.) told Anderson there are some things worse than high prices, and one of them is regimentation, except in an extreme emergency.

Tax Avoidance Charged

Anderson said tonight in a separate statement that more than 600 persons, following "novel" trading and accounting procedures, are using the commodity future markets to avoid income taxes on profits from commodity trading or other sources.

The Secretary, while not passing on validity of the operations, said they should be stopped. He said it had contributed to more speculative trading in grain and other commodities while markets were soaring.

Anderson told the committee that the present upward trend in meat prices "need not continue, but it looks like it will unless something is done." He pointed out that the per capital meat supply next year is estimated at 146 pounds, compared with 156 this year, but still is above what the nation consumed before the war.

He observed that if a shortage develops in the spring, "fantastic prices" might result.

Wheat Prospects Boosted

Anderson informed the committee that rains in the southwest have given wheat prospects a boost, and that with reasonably good weather 1948 might produce 1,200,000,000 bushels. This year's output was 1,400,000,000.

Schwellenbach, who preceded Anderson before the committee, was accused by Rep. Smith (R-Ohio) of "asking for political control of labor." But Schwellenbach, supporting Mr. Truman's request for modified wage control authority, replied that he will offer Congress a set of standards by which it could limit any wage controls it authorizes.

OIL FIRE IS BELIEVED CLUE TO MISSING PLANE

FRANKFURT, Germany, Thursday, Dec. 4 (AP) — The United States Air Force said early today it had received what it believed to be its "best clue" to date in the six-day-old search for a missing C-47 transport plane with 20 persons aboard.

Officers at air rescue headquarters said a 30-foot-long "oil fire" had been sighted in a valley in the French zone of Germany near Berschweiler, 11 miles northwest of Kaiserlautern, late last night.

Lt. Thomas Neal, Athens, Ga., pilot of a search plane, said he sighted a black object near the fire. Each time he flew over the spot, he said a light, "almost like a pistol flash," pierced the darkness.

Air Forces planes flew immediately to the area to drop flares. Ground search parties, including radio-equipped trucks and ambulances, were ordered immediately to leave Pirmasens and go to Kaiserlautern, 30 miles to the north. Berschweiler is about 40 miles southwest of Frankfurt.

World Fliers Rest

AMARILLO, Tex., Dec. 3 (INS)—Round-the-World Flivver Pilots George W. Truman and Clifford Evans prolonged their rest in Amarilli, Tex., tonight after a heavy overcast walled in all air transportation. Next stop for Truman and Evans is Oklahoma City, Okla.

ARAB DESTRUCTION—Clouds of smoke rise in the background as Arab mobs—often numbering up to 5,000 — engage in an orgy of looting, robbing, shop-wrecking and rioting in Jerusalem. A number of automobiles were set on fire during the Arab protest against the United Nations partitioning of Palestine into Arab and Jewish states. Yesterday, skirmishes were reported in all quarters of the Holy Land with 17 Jews and 14 Arabs counted dead.

Murray "Sending Up Trial Balloon," Bunting Believes

Doesn't Think CIO Head After Pay Hike

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today he believes CIO President Philip Murray was "sending up a trial balloon" in announcing that his unions would ask "substantial" pay hikes when present contracts expire.

"I don't think Murray is after a wage increase," Bunting told a news conference at the NAM's 52nd annual congress of American industry.

Opposes General Pay Hikes

"If I were Murray, I'd send up a trial balloon and find out how the American people and CIO members feel about another wage increase."

Bunting was asked what his answer would be to Murray if he were "a $50-a-week steel worker" and the NAM president answered:

"I might say, well you got me a wage increase and you got me another and each time the cost of living went up and it hasn't done me any good. If there's any other way I'd like to see it tried."

Bunting's conference was held shortly after he had asked labor to forego demands for further general wage increases, in a speech that highlighted the opening session of the three-day congress, which is spotlighted by the slogan—"Production—key to world peace and prosperity."

Higher Meat Prices Seen

Murray made his announcement in Washington last night and said that the CIO proposal was aimed at offsetting high prices.

The NAM president, who also is president of O'Sullivan Rubber Corporation, Winchester, Va., urged labor to forego new general wage demands without corresponding in-

Three Youths Arrested For Stealing Airplane

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. (AP)—Three high school youths who liked to fly around at night were arrested today for stealing an airplane.

Police said the joy-hoppers—aged 15, 16 and 18—got an airplane away from, and back to, an airport three times before they were caught. Their final flight was a 15-minute trip over Washington last night.

The pilot was the 16-year old, who made the successful night trips although he had had but 10 hours instruction.

The boys' names were not disclosed.

Meek Man Who Killed Tattooed Lady Gets Year

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Larry Riemer, the meek little piano player who amazed everyone by marrying the tattooed lady and then did it again by killing her, got a year for it today.

Judge Joseph Sherbow said it all goes to show what a woman can do to a man.

A jury convicted the 37-year-old husband of manslaughter last week. The evidence was that Agnes Riemer, 57, and covered from head to toe with exotic needlework, badgered him into taking her out on the town the night they had been married four months. Riemer spent most of the evening trying to keep her decently quiet. Finally he strangled her with his belt. He said he didn't remember it.

Russia Proposes Two-Month Delay In Treaty Study

Suggests Big Four Each Draw Up Pact

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov surprised the Foreign Ministers Council today with a proposal that each of the Big Four powers prepare their own drafts of a German peace treaty and submit them to the council in two months.

The suggestion brought from French Foreign Minister Bidault the quick observation that if the council accepted the idea of a two-month delay it might just as well go home now.

Meanwhile, shortly before the meeting it was learned United States Republican Advisor John Foster Dulles would leave for France tomorrow on a "personal" trip to study the French situation in relation to current foreign policy and report to Secretary Marshall.

More Disagreements

The Foreign Ministers were plodding from disagreement to disagreement on procedural matters—which they finally sent to the deputies for the third time without solving any major problems—when Molotov suddenly took the floor. He made a long speech on the necessity of a German peace treaty and then made his proposal that each government produce draft German treaties within two months.

Bidault, who was presiding, asked:

"If preparation of a peace treaty is not envisaged under these items why have these items been adopted for the agenda?

"If our governments are to be asked to state their views within two months, in accordance with Mr. Molotov's proposal, it will mean a quick end of this session since our purpose here is precisely the preparation of a German peace treaty. If we are to follow Mr. Molotov's course our presence in London will become superfluous."

Key West Gives Cheering Welcome To President

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Key West put on its best holiday attire today to give a cheering welcome to President Truman on his third visit to Florida since becoming the nation's Chief Executive.

The President flew down from the cold of Washington in the C-54, the "Sacred Cow," to the tropical weather of Boca Chica airport where he took off his overcoat for the 8½-mile ride to the naval submarine base.

Streets in Key West were lined with shouting flag-waving school children as Mr. Truman moved through in a black convertible for his five-day vacation here.

U.N. Looking To Britain To Keep Holy Land Order

Lie Is Considering Visit To Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 3—(AP)—A top United Nations official indicated today that the United Nations was looking to Britain alone to maintain order in Palestine as long as the British continue administering the Holy Land under their League of Nations mandate.

This view was expressed by Assistant Secretary-General Arkady A. Sobolev, a Russian national, at a news conference where Secretary-General Trygve Lie said he was considering a visit to Palestine early next year by himself or one of his chief aides.

Lie announced the appointment of Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, an American negro formerly with the State Department, as principal secretary to the five-nation commission approved by the 1947 United Nations Assembly to supervise partitioning of the Holy Land into separate Jewish and Arab countries by next October 1.

"Hands-Off" Policy

At the same time, a six-nation working group of the United Nations Trusteeship Council began preliminary work on plans for the government of Jerusalem as an international city.

A United Nations "hands-off" policy on the Palestine disorders was indicated by Sobolev when Lie was asked whether the United Nations had taken official notice of the disturbances since the partition decision was taken last Saturday in the Assembly just before it adjourned.

"Don't forget," Sobolev said, "there is still an administering power in Palestine."

This was a reminder of the fact that the league mandate for Palestine still is in effect and will be until it is terminated by Britain. During the assembly's Palestine debate, Britain declared she would end the mandate at an "early" date and would withdraw her administration and troops by next August 1. Britain also said she would be solely responsible for law and order as long as the mandate remained in force.

U. S. Closes Pacific Atoll

Lie said he himself would leave for Europe soon after the first of the year to survey prospective sites for the 1948 Assembly.

The United States formally notified the Security Council that Eniwetok Atoll, designated Monday as a United States atomic testing ground, has been "closed for security reasons." Eniwetok Atoll, in the former Japanese-mandated Marshall Islands, is part of the Pacific trust territory which the United States administers under United Nations jurisdiction. All parts of trust territories are subject to periodic United Nations inspections unless the Security Council has been notified that they are closed as "strategic areas."

31 Are Killed And Hundreds Are Wounded

Entire Arab World Reports Disorders

JERUSALEM, Dec. 3—(AP)—The flame of hatred against those who played any part in the United Nations' decision to partition Palestine burned fiercer and hotter through the Arabian world tonight and reports from Alleppo to Aden brought news of new bloodshed, destruction and pillage.

Palestine alone counted its dead at 31—17 Jews and 14 Arabs by unofficial tabulation—and its wounded in the uncounted hundreds for the past two days as Arab mobs and Jewish defense forces, backing up British police and troops, skirmished in all quarters of the Holy Land and fought a major hand grenade and machine-gun battle on the "border" separating the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa.

In Cairo, "Queen City" of the Middle East, Egyptians stormed through the streets smashing windows and laying waste foreign property. Policemen used their clubs in beating back demonstrators before Egypt's royal palace, reports from Cairo said. British and Russian property appeared to be the main target of the Cairo mobs.

The fighting in Palestine continued tonight following the bloody battle on the Tel Aviv-Jaffa border and the nights operations indicated also the Arabs were out to inflict property damage wherever possible.

Lumber Yard Destroyed

A large, Jewish - owned lumber yard in Haifa was destroyed by fire and shortly afterward a small Arab shop in the same area was burned. Sporadic gunfire was heard in Jerusalem. Special Jewish police beat off an attack on four bus convoys on the Tel Aviv-Rehovoth road. One driver was wounded and two attackers were believer to have been wounded by gunfire.

At least two concrete movements to turn the anti-Jewish disorders into a jihad (holy war) were reported in the Arab world. In Baghdad, Iraq, demonstrators carried banners demanding a "Jihad for Palestine" and in Cairo instructors at the ancient Al Ashar University formed two committees to organize "a jihad to drive the wolves from Palestine."

At the southern end of the Arab world, the British colony of Aden on the coast of Arabia was partially under martial law as a result of anti-Jewish riots in which many of the colony's 4,000 Jews were injured by stones.

(One report said one person was killed in Aden.)

In the merchant town of Alleppo, Syria, Arabs razed more than 20 Jewish-owned buildings. Syrians, however, returned to work after the government terminated a protest strike.

Beirut, Lebanon's capital, and Amman, the capital of Trans-Jordan, were quiet tonight, according to telephoned reports, but Bedouin sheikhs were reported organizing Arabs in Trans-Jordan for guerrilla warfare in Palestine.

Faint Ray Of Hope

A faint hope for the end of the disorders arose tonight in Haifa when a committee of prominent local Arabs headed by Raschid Haj Ibrahim, who returned from a meeting in Lebanon with Haj Amin El Husseini, the exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, issued an appeal to Arabs of the North Palestine city to "refrain from unorganized attacks and await orders."

So fearsome were the prospects

U. S. Troops Will Be Out Of Italy Before Deadline

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—(AP)—The State Department said today the United States intends to withdraw remaining American occupation troops from Italy within the 90-day limit set by the Italian peace treaty.

Press Officer Lincoln White told reporters "there has never been any intention on the part of anyone to keep them there beyond the date for withdrawal as set by the treaty."

The 90-day limit expires December 15, White said. This is three months from the date the pact ratified by the United States and the other major Allies.

Woman Takes Own Life By Slashing Wrists After Strangling Baby Son

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3 (INS)—Mrs. Lena May Wartnik, 30, strangled her 11-month-old baby today then killed herself by slashing her wrists with a razor.

The body of the attractive red-haired woman was found in a Hermosa Beach hotel only a few hours after the body of her infant son, Neil, was found under blood-stained sheets in her fashionable Toluca Lake district home.

Police reported that a note beside Mrs. Wartnik's body read:

"I want to be buried with my baby in my arms. Bleeding to death is so slow . . . I am Mrs. Sam Wartnik, notify Sam Wartnik in Los Angeles."

Police said that the infant's body was found by neighbors who had noticed no sign of activity at the Wartnik home for several days. Authorities said that the baby had been dead for two days.

Detectives described the mansion where the baby was found dead as "spattered with blood from bedroom to living room," with a trail of blood leading through the nine-room home.

They found notes in the home which indicated that Mrs. Wartnik was contemplating suicide. Neighbors said that she had been despondent since November 24 when her husband, Sam H. Wartnik, 45, sportswear manufacturer, divorced her on grounds of "cruelty and intemperance."

Wartnik told police that his wife "attempted suicides on several occasions. The Wartniks were married in Las Vegas in May, 1946.

Labor Leaders Lash Hard At Taft And Hartley Law

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Labor leaders lashed hard at the Taft-Hartley Act today.

Joseph Curran and his National Maritime Union, CIO, filed a suit in Federal Court attacking the constitutionality of the provisions for non-Communist oaths and union financial statements.

CIO President Philip Murray said the law is being administered in favor of employers. He begged AFL President William Green for joint CIO-AFL action "to defeat the attack now being directed against us." Green's reply to such appeals in the past has been that AFL and CIO should first merge into one body.

At the same time, the National Labor Relations Board ground out two important new decisions under the controversial law which was enacted June 23 and went into full effect August 22.

The five-man board:

1. Dealt another blow to unions which refuse to have their officers sign non-Communist statements. For the first time, it ruled that such a union can't get on the ballot in a plant election even when the election has been requested by an employer. Today's order was aimed at the Fur and Leather Workers, CIO, in Gloversville, N. Y.

2. Asked the Supreme Court to force the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company to reinstate—with back pay—a foreman whom it fired for organizing other foremen into a union at its Detroit plant in 1944.

This was the first clear-cut case involving foremen to come before the Supreme Court since the Taft-Hartley Act deprived foremen of their protection against being fired for union activity. The Budd company says that because of the new law it shouldn't be required to give the foreman his job back.

Nation's Railroads Seek Additional Three Per Cent Freight Rate Hike

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The American railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a three per cent freight rate increase, bringing to 30 per cent the total rate increases asked since July. If granted, this would add approximately $2,037,000,000 to the nation's annual freight bill.

This is the figure the railroads estimated is needed to meet rising costs of operations resulting from wage increases of 15½ cents hourly already granted to members of the conductors and trainmen's brotherhoods, plus costs of similar raises pending with three others.

Prior to filing of today's petition with the ICC, the railroads had asked a 17 per cent rate hike on July 3 and on September 5 requested an additional 10 per cent boost.

While the commission was considering the railroads' request for a permanent 27 per cent increase it granted approval for a temporary 10 per cent rate hike in early October. This was in response to the carriers' plea for quick "emergency relief" to offset some of the wage adjustments which became effective September 1.

Commission representatives have just concluded a series of hearings on the proposed 27 per cent increase in Boston, Montgomery, Ala., Fort Worth, Tex., Salt Lake City, Utah, Portland, Ore., and Los Angeles, Calif. The final hearing on the matter is scheduled to be held here next Monday, December 8.

Grangers Greeted By Gov., Mrs. Lane

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3 (AP)—Hundreds of men and women of the Maryland State Grange attending the 73rd annual meeting filed into the Government House today to be greeted by Gov. and Mrs. Lane.

The grangers relaxed after a round of business sessions which included talks by the Governor, Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of education; Mrs. Caldwell, director of public relations of the North Carolina State Grange, and Paul W. Walker, University of Maryland tax expert.

In his morning address, Gov Lane declared he believed the people of Maryland "in spite of some grumbling" are willing to make the necessary sacrifices to gain the objectives of better health, schools, roads and agriculture.

Dr. Pullen declared "the outlook for education in Maryland, in my opinion, is brighter now than it has ever been."

He said recent innovations in the state education system made possible by the legislature had given it much higher standards.

Mrs. Caldwell told the granges "the whole world is looking to the American farmer to meet world food needs today. We have the land resources, the most machinery and technical knowledge. We must not fail."

Official American, French and British observers were not only unable to explain what Molotov's proposal meant but were also not certain whether he had "withdrawn" it or left it tabled for later discussion.

Soviet official sources could not be reached immediately after the meeting for clarification.

Soviet officials explained that Molotov submitted his proposal as a basis for discussion and that when he saw there was no support for it, he withdrew it immediately.

Dr. Husseini Khalidi, secretary of the Arab Higher Executive, said the committee refused.

A Palestine government source said the Arab Executive advised Gurney the Arabs were prepared to "take appropriate action" if the government could not maintain order.

Until now Hagana, the self-styled Jewish defense army, had been most active on the Jewish side, but late today Irgun Zvai Leumi, the underground resistance band, threatened to join the fight. An Irgun broadcast warned Arabs not to be "stampeded into continuing this fight."

"If this occurrs," the broadcast declared, "again we shall take action against you. We shall hunt out the murderers in their lairs."

5,171,600 Red Troops

In addition to Russia's estimated 4,050,000 men under arms, the Army figures put the military strength of eight Soviet statellites at 1,121,600—a total of 5,171,600 men facing 2,879,000 troops of "free European states."

The figure for the non-Russian forces included 113,000 American troops in Europe. The Army said this country has another 258,00 men within its own borders.

Asserting that "a practical revolution" is going on in France, Eaton told the Rules Committee that supplies should be provided without delay to help France and the other countries covered by the bill to resist Communist aggression.

Reps. Rizley (R-Okla) and Brown (R-Ohio) criticized the policy of the United States in continuing to send equipment to Russia, contending it is not consistent with the stop-Communism movement.

Eaton replied that shipments to Russia have nothing to do with the aid bill.

Marshall, Bevin Silent

Marshall and Bevin said nothing. Molotov then replied:

"The Soviet government does not share the chairman's interpretation of our agenda but since the other ministers have not given their support to the Soviet proposal I will not insist on its consideration."

Official American, French and British observers were not only unable to explain what Molotov's proposal meant but were also not certain whether he had "withdrawn" it or left it tabled for later discussion.

Soviet official sources could not be reached immediately after the meeting for clarification.

Soviet officials explained that Molotov submitted his proposal as a basis for discussion and that when he saw there was no support for it, he withdrew it immediately.

of full scale civil war that Chief Secretary Sir Henry Gurney, of the Palestine government, was said by Arab leaders to have appealed personally to them to call off the rest of their three-day general strike. Today was the second day of the strike.

Dr. Husseini Khalidi, secretary of the Arab Higher Executive, said the committee refused.

A Palestine government source said the Arab Executive advised Gurney the Arabs were prepared to "take appropriate action" if the government could not maintain order.

Until now Hagana, the self-styled Jewish defense army, had been most active on the Jewish side, but late today Irgun Zvai Leumi, the underground resistance band, threatened to join the fight. An Irgun broadcast warned Arabs not to be "stampeded into continuing this fight."

"If this occurrs," the broadcast declared, "again we shall take action against you. We shall hunt out the murderers in their lairs."

5,171,600 Red Troops

In addition to Russia's estimated 4,050,000 men under arms, the Army figures put the military strength of eight Soviet satellites at 1,121,600—a total of 5,171,600 men facing 2,879,000 troops of "free European states."

The figure for the non-Russian forces included 113,000 American troops in Europe. The Army said this country has another 258,000 men within its own borders.

Asserting that "a practical revolution" is going on in France, Eaton told the Rules Committee that supplies should be provided without delay to help France and the other countries covered by the bill to resist Communist aggression.

Reps. Rizley (R-Okla) and Brown (R-Ohio) criticized the policy of the United States in continuing to send equipment to Russia, contending it is not consistent with the stop-Communism movement.

Eaton replied that shipments to Russia have nothing to do with the aid bill.

Farm Officials Will Attend Meeting

Ralph E. McHenry, Allegany County farm agent, and Miss Maude A. Bean, county home demonstration agent, will participate in the program of the Maryland Extension Service which will meet in Annapolis next Wednesday.

In announcing the meeting, Dr. T. B. Symons, director of extension said there is a two-fold purpose in the meeting this year. First there are several speakers on the program of national reputation and second, considerable time will be devoted to finding ways in which extension can help Maryland agriculture.

Marry Young? Marry Old?

When Jeb Crowell's daughter, Sue, married nineteen-year-old "Slim" Blake, a lot of folks (especially older ones) began to shake their heads. Young marriages! Tut, tut!

So I looked up some figures. It's true, young American girls and boys marry younger than in other countries. And where do you suppose they had the least chance? I won't name it, but maybe you've guessed. One of those countries that before the war suppressed all individual freedom and tolerance.

That's why I'm not worried about our younger married couples. They were raised in a country that respects one another's right—a country of tolerance and temperance (a lot of bridegrooms are ex-G.I.'s, and it looked to me like their favorite beverage was beer!)

From where I sit, it isn't when you marry that's important. It's the all-important spirit of tolerance and understanding that you bring to marriage.

What Magic Will Be Used By Mr. Truman With Controls?

The Republicans in Congress, notably Senator Taft, who demand that the Administration "be specific" in its anti-inflation recommendations are asking a legitimate question. And before being called upon to consider the matter, and certainly before voting on it, they should be given a straightforward answer.

They have been told, to be sure, that the President wants authority to put into effect a selective control of prices. But there has been no mention of the commodities which would be regulated, and no hint of the manner in which he would use the power he is seeking.

The nearest approach to a literate reply was made by Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman. The Administration, he said, hoped for a roll-back on the prices of meat, steel and lumber. Everyone has that hope, but those who are realistic about it or remember the nation's experience in the days of the OPA know that the way to reach a solution of the over-all problem is not through government controls.

It is true that the government, given the police state power by Congress, could set the prices at which commodities are to be sold. But that would not mean that the commodities could be bought at that price. It would mean—and under OPA it did mean—that manufacturers would stop producing when they found they could not make a profit and that once more the nation would be in an era of scarcities and black markets—the very condition Congress should be alert above all things to prevent.

That's why the Administration is asked to "be specific." What magic does it intend to use by which it can lower prices and at the same time cause the increase in production which is so sorely needed already and will be needed in infinitely greater measure if Washington starts sending all sorts of goods to Europe?

Persons who just love to hide things under the bed must be disappointed by the certainty that there will be no food rationing.

France And Italy Find Themselves On The Brink

The recent epidemic of strikes and riots in France and Italy are generally regarded as a Communist attempt to halt or sabotage the Marshall Plan. They are that at least. They may indeed be the opening stage in a conspiracy to seize control of chaotic France and Italy and thereby extend Soviet power to the Mediterranean and the Atlantic.

For some days it has been rumored abroad that the Communist-led labor federation of France and Italy would called general strikes by the first of the present month. The general strike is the first move in the strategy of the modern coup d'etat. The pattern of strikes, riots and plant sabotage has undoubtedly been laid down by the Cominform, that revised edition of the Comintern, in which French and Italian Communist leaders are important directors.

Already upwards of 3,000,000 workers have been idle in France although the strikes are receding as the National Assembly begins giving approval to Premier Schuman's drastic strike control laws. Communications, transportation, fuel and power industries have been largely paralyzed during the past three weeks. Vital plants have been seized by strikers' committees. In Italy there is more violence, but less immediate danger of economic paralysis, for one reason because the Italian Communist Party, though bigger than the French, is less efficient.

In both France and Italy, the governments in power are supported by a majority of the people and have reacted to the Communist conspiracy with courage and vigor. Premier de Gasperi, whose Christian Democratic Party is the largest in Italy, is prepared to use all the force at his command to put down what looks more and more like an attempt to overthrow the government.

In France, Premier Schuman has asked the General Assembly for temporary, near-dictorial powers to combat agitators for strikes, riots and sabotage and curb the Communist-led movement that has threatened to strangle the republic. Schuman has already rooted out the Communist police chiefs who were installed in office by the Party during the Liberation and, with Assembly approval, has called up 200,000 troop reserves.

It is clear that the future of democratic government in France and Italy is in immediate peril. If the rank and file of workers go along with them, the Communist leaders may cripple the economic life of both countries and produce chaos in which anything could happen. But the armies have remained loyal, and the government itself, when the people in general support it, has a natural authority.

The situation in the two Latin countries is now touch-and-go. If Schuman and de Gasperi win out the world may have seen the last Communist attempt to seize Western Europe. If they lose, the western democracies will have lost the war with a vengeance.

A famous writer says "hope lends youth the wings of a butterfly." But on closer examination, it turns out to be Dad's 1936 sedan.

Where's The Slavery?

Although organized labor is still opposed to the Taft-Hartley Law, not much talk has been heard recently to the effect that the law is a plan to "enslave labor." There's a reason, and it's to be found in the report which General Counsel Denham of the National Labor Relations Board has made on the first three months' operation of the act.

During that period, which was generally regarded as providing a test for the new law, 849 cases were filed with the NLRB but only 162, or less than one-fifth were initiated by employers. Here is proof that labor's prophets of gloom were wrong when they declared that industry would use the Taft-Hartley Act as an instrument to destroy unions or that the act itself gave industry an unfair advantage. What has happened is that labor has resorted to law five times as often as management.

Not much "slavery" there!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE LAME SHOULDER

THE shoulder is one of the most versatile joints of the body. It can be moved in four directions through the co-ordination of various muscle groups. Because the "hinge" is so complex, numerous abnormalities are possible.

An injury may damage one of the bones that make up the joint as well as the muscles, tendons, or bursas surrounding the structures. Furthermore, there are many blood vessels and nerves passing through this area on their way to the arms. Any one of these might be torn or broken by a direct blow, violent exertion, or strain from continuous over-use.

When a mishap of any type occurs, pain will develop especially on motion. If certain tissues are afflicted the arm cannot be raised; with others, distress ensues only when the extremity is rotated. In so-called frozen shoulder, movements are restricted in all directions. In consequence, the arm is kept close to the side, sometimes with the elbow supported in a sling or by the opposite hand. Careful examination, including X-rays, will be necessary to determine the exact origin of the disturbance.

Arthritis is the most frequent disorder of the joints but the shoulder is the exception to the rule since it is more likely to be attacked by bursitis. Here the tissues beneath the large muscle that makes up the shoulder pad are inflamed or damaged through trauma. The resulting irritation usually brings on an accumulation of fluid, which produces exquisite tenderness in this area.

In others, calcium is deposited in the form of a tiny stone within the tissues. The overlying muscle is huge and swelling may not be obvious. When the outside of the arm is touched or any movement is attempted, the individual winces with pain. As a rule, a week or ten days of incapacity is encountered during which time distress is present regardless of whether or not the arm is used. In the next stage discomfort appears only during motion. Improvement is gradual and healing takes place eventually but recurrences are always in the offing.

Many remedies for relief during the acute phase are available. Heat is soothing whether applied by means of hot packs, diathermy, or an infra-red lamp. Aspirin and codeine are helpful and light doses of X-ray may prove beneficial. Dramatic results often follow a relatively simple procedure in which the fluid behind the muscle is withdrawn and novocaine injected.

Most physicians encourage their patients to use the arm so that adhesions will not develop. This can be done by bending the trunk and allowing the upper extremities to swing in a pendulum fashion. Various tricks are employed to raise the lame shoulder. If the sufferer holds on to the two ends of a rope which has been thrown over a shower curtain rod or an open door, he can pull on one end with the uninjured extremity and raise the other slowly. Another method is to crawl up the side of the wall with the fingers. Surgery is required in less than 10 per cent of all chronic cases. The operation consists of removing the stone and repairing the torn tissues.

DOZER

L. B. writes: Is a disease of the eyes or nervous system to blame when a person cannot stay awake after he has been in the dark for a short time? This happens even against his will.

REPLY

No. Darkness is more conducive to sleep than light.

NOSE GROWTHS

A. W. writes: How long can nasal polyps keep returning after being taken out every three months?

REPLY

Indefinitely. In many instances only the larger ones are removed at each sitting and return engagements are merely the small fry that have reached maturity.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Army, after a survey, has learned that West Coast girls are the tallest. That hasn't been my experience. Long ago I learned that West Coast girls are the hungriest.

But I can understand what makes the girls out here that way. . . It's that California sun. . .Yes sir, that's what makes 'em tall. . . Trying to stick their heads through the clouds to see it.

Some peculiar customs have sprung up on the West Coast as a result of the tall women. I listened to one marriage ceremony and the preacher said to the groom, "Do you promise to love, honor and forever wear your stilts?"

But I want to take issue with the statement that you find tall women only in the West. They're everywhere. . . I know. . . I've sat behind women at movies all over the country.

Tall girls always get so embarrassed when I take 'em to dinner. The dinner itself is all right, but when it comes time to pick up the check . . . I always seem so short.

Eventually I had to quit hanging around those tall girls. I got so used to standing on my toes. . . Three times in one week the cops picked me up as a transom suspect.

I went out walking with a girl who played center on a basketball team and it was a rather odd experience. Every time the traffic cop blew his whistle she jumped up and tapped one of the balls hanging over a pawnshop.

But that disclosure solves the puzzle of Charles Boyer. He really doesn't have a protruding lip. It's just that his pucker became turned up after kissing all those tall girls.

Air Corps Hasn't Changed Old Army Game Of Protecting Top Brass; Mike Dunn Demoted For Trying To Save Paratroopers' Lives

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Two days ago this column gave the inside story of Lt. Col. David Laux, the man who tried to prevent the further killing of American paratroopers after some 40 U. S. transport planes carrying about 800 paratroopers were shot down by our own Allied naval gunners over Sicily. When Col Laux wrote a letter to Secretary of War Stimson about Army failures to protect paratroopers, he was immediately sent to Alaska for the war's duration.

Today follows another unpleasant chapter regarding Army crackdowns on younger officers who try to clean up mistakes at the top. This is the story of Brig. Gen. Ray Aloysius ("Mike") Dunn, and what happened to him when he bucked the top brass.

Mike Dunn is a square-jawed, sharp-tongued, persistent Irishman, whose habit of speaking out doesn't help him with his superiors, but who has spent a large part of his life working on airborne infantry. Long before Hitler dropped paratroopers on France's allegedly impregnable Fort Ebensmael and thus turned the Maginot Line, Dunn had argued that dropping troops behind enemy lines could save the terrific loss of beachhead landings by boat.

However, Dunn made the mistake of being too vigorous about his ideas for protecting paratroopers. Result: He was demoted from the rank of brigadier general to colonel and transferred to the then less active South Pacific.

Here is the inside story of his demotion:

Two Generals Argue

During the African campaign, Mike Dunn was in command of the 51st Carrier Wing of the North African Airforce where he first tangled with his top boss, able, hard-working Gen. Carl "Toughy" Spaatz, now Commander of the Air Forces. Their first differences was over using Dunn's paratrooper transport planes for freight haulage at a time when Dunn wanted to use his planes for training troops.

Second and much more serious row was over adequate protection for troop-carrying planes. By that time, the top command was sold on airborne infantry and Dunn had been given the job of preparing for large-scale operations over Italy.

However, Dunn, even then, foresaw the danger of having transport planes shot down. With his paratroopers flying in C-47's, they were protected by no armor plate around the pilot's seat and no self-sealing gasoline tanks and because these planes had to fly slow and low, be feared they would be easy targets for enemy ati-aircraft. And once a bullet pierced a gasoline tank—unless equipped witsh self-sealing lining—the whole plane burst into flames. Paratroopers would have no time to bail out.

At that time—well before the Sicillian Campaign—Gen. F. A. M. Browning, air borne advisor to Gen. Eisenhower, wrote a report supporting Dunn. Browning reported that pilot morale was low due to the lack of armor around the pilot's seat and the absence of self-sealing gasoline tanks. Accordingly he recommended that the B-24 replace the C-47 as a vehicle for carrying paratroopers. (The B-24 had self-sealing tanks and some armor.)

But Gen. Spaatz, the over-all air commander, didn't agree. The persistent, sometimes disagreeable Dunn had several conferences with him, urging at least self-sealing kas tanks, but Spaatz wouldn't budge. He argued that there wasn't time to install self-sealing tanks and that armor plate plus tanks would cut down the range of the troop transports. At one meeting, attended also by other Air Force officers, Spaatz banged the table and proclaimed:

"I don't want to hear any more about it. There will not be any change."

Dutch Vs. Irish

Dunn, however, had his Irish up. He wrote a formal request to Gen. Spaatz urging self-sealing gas tanks for paratroop-carrying planes. Spaatz, a Pennsylvania Dutchman, just as stubborn as Dunn, returned this request with an abrupt veto.

Dunn then went over Spaatz's head and wrote a report direct to Washington urgently recommending protection for troop-carrying planes. This report is dated May 13, 1943.

And it was on July 13—exactly two months later—that the first wave of U. S. transport planes carrying about 400 paratroopers was shot down over Sicily. The next night another wave of like number was shot down.

And although trigger-fingered gunners of the U. S. and British Navies got the blame, a board of inquiry, appointed to establish the cause of the tragedy, made the pointed recommendation that in the future self-sealing gas tanks be installed in troop-carrying planes.

Dunn Gets Demoted

After the Sicilian tragedy, Mike Dunn, then a brigadier general, started back to Washington to make sure this tragedy was not repeated. He was met with a request that he step down to the rank of colonel for reasons of health. Dunn went to Miami for a physical exam, was given an OK, but despite that, was reduced and sent to a quiet sector of the South Pacific.

That ended the efforts of Col. Mike Dunn to protect paratroopers. But it did not end the efforts of others, notably Col. David Laux and Col. Felix Dupont.

And being reserve officers with no Army careers to jeopordize, they had the nerve to go over the heads of a long barrier of brass hats straight to General Hap Arnold, then head of the Air Forces. Arnold, after some sputtering about divided opinion among his generals, finally wrote out an order to the now-famous Gen. Benny Myers to install self-sealing tanks in troop-carrying transports.

What position Gen. Meyers took on the matter is not clear. However, nothing happened. Meanwhile, Gen. Barney Giles, one of the brass hats who opposed self-sealing tanks, sent a telegram telling Gen. Spaatz what had happened. Gen. Spaatz was then in England preparing for D-Day when several thousand more paratroopers would cross the Channel and drop down to Normandy.

Spaatz promptly wired back killing the order for self-sealing gas tanks.

It was the contention of Giles and Spaatz that the gasoline tanks could not be installed fast enough for the Normandy operation, also that extra weight would cut the plane's cruising range. Other officers, however, claimed that enough tanks were already in England to equip most of the troop carriers, and that the flight across the Channel was very short, anyway.

It was after this that Col. Laux brought the matter direct to the attention of Secretary of War Stimson—and was promptly transferred to Alaska for his pains.

This old Army habit of penalizing anyone who dares differ with the top brass is one of the things that Army should straighten out before it asks the nation to adopt peacetime military conscription for the first time in history.

Doctrine Of More Pay For Less Work To Have Serious Results

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Evidence keeps accumulating in industry after industry that the more-pay-for-less-work doctrine is not only contributing to inflation but it is contributing to a state of affairs which, unless checked somehow, must inevitably bring an economic maladjustment of serious proportions to America.

The latest disclosure is from the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of labor. It reveals the facts on output per employee in the telephone industry.

Almost everybody has been wondering why there have been delays in long-distance calls and why telephone service has not been as good as it was in pre-war days. The telephone companies say that the calls are more numerous than ever and that shortages of materials and bottlenecks in production have delayed the manufacture of much needed equipment. Little has been said publicly about the slowdowns in service and the general attitude of many employes.

Now come the official figures to show that, although during the war years output per employe was 10.5 per cent higher than in 1939, the output per employe now has slipped back to the 1939 level while the payroll costs have gone up 255 per cent of 1939.

Unit Costs Up 146.4 Per Cent

Figured on a unit-cost basis, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says that unit costs are now 146.4 per cent of what they were in 1939. This is the highest point they have reached since 1935, when figures were first collected.

The explanation for the changes in output and manhours of work as given by the bureau is that these "show the joint effect of a large number of separate though interrelated influences such as technical improvements, the rate of operations, the relative contribution to service of carriers at different levels of efficiency, as well as the skill and effort of the work force, the efficiency of management, and the state of labor relations."

There is no doubt that the "effort of the work force" and the "state of labor relations" have contributed to no small extent to the decline in output per employe, but it is only fair to say that the decline has not been as large in comparison with the war years on the part of telephone workers as it has been in such industries as building and construction.

The term "productivity" as defined by the bureau with respect to the telephone industry is in terms of "message units per manhour of work or per employe." While productivity per manhour declined between 1940 and 1943, it increased from 1943 to 1945 and then started to decline to 1939 levels. The bureau suggests that this may have been due "to a marked increase in employment in certain occupational groups, particularly construction, installation and maintenance which are not directly engaged in switchboard operations."

But the over-all costs for the telephone industry have risen substantially during the same period. The public, on the other hand, has been paying lower rates for the calls themselves while the government has come along with a high tax on messages so that telephone bills are necessarily higher to the consumer. The rates to the companies on service have by no means been raised to correspond to the higher unit costs.

It is this problem which ratemaking bodies generally will have to face.

Tendency in Official Washington

The Bureau of Labor Statistics has also given out its surveys of the telegraph business, where output per employe has declined from 1945 but is still 10.6 per cent higher than in 1939. The unit costs, on the other hand, are now 64.5 per cent higher than they were in 1939.

There is a tendency in official Washington to regard increases in labor costs in a particular industry without relation to the higher costs of materials or supplies bought from other industries where labor costs have risen. Thus Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach in his testimony before Congress this week compares the price increases in coal and steel, respectively, with the increased wage costs in those industries, forgetting that the price of an article is made up of two major factors—the direct costs of manufacture of one's own product and the direct costs of materials or machinery or other items in the cost budget of each business or industry, reflecting the other fellow's costs of labor. These have been less conspicuous but just as inflationary.

Thus the telephone and telegraph companies have to pay, in addition to their own labor costs, a higher price for the things they buy in the way of equipment.

American Aid Will Frustrate Communists, Columnist Holds

By MARK SULLIVAN

Congress is appropriating large amounts to France and Italy, probably it will be some 200 million dollars in each case. During the week or ten days in which Congress has been doing this, more than these amounts have been lost in each country by destruction or suspension of work, brought about by Communists, through strikes and otherwise. The two conditions, standing together, could possibly influence American thought, causing some to query whether we should make the grants. In fact we are not thus influenced, the grants are supported with near unanimity, the Senate vote in favor of them was 83 to 6.

The double condition is not as bad as it might seem. The grants we are making are for food and fuel immediately and urgently needed to avert distress, while the losses in the two countries by destruction or cessation of work are of a different sort. Yet the double condition does have a bearing, logical though superficial, on the larger long-term grants Congress is about to consider for industrial reconstruction under the Marshall Plan. These grants will be in part to make up for the destruction of goods and impairment of industrial production now being brought about by the Communists. But as respects the future grants, our people will undoubtedly see the true picture as clearly as they see it in the case of the grants now being made.

Aid Frustrates Communists

Fundamental in the true picture is a distinction between on the one hand the peoples and governments of France and Italy and on the other hand the Communists who are comparatively tiny parts of the populations. We are giving aid to support the peoples and their governments against attempts at revolution made by the Communists. By our aid, we frustrate the Communist attempts. The recent speeding up of their attempts is at once an effort to mislead our people into not giving aid, and rage because we are not misled because we are going on with the aid.

The picture is broader than the two countries, it is world-wide. The Communist heads in Russia are engaged in an attack upon us, as the spearhead of world resistance against Communism, an attack which, as it is frequently put, has all the aspects of war except shooting. In the immediate battle, the effort of the Communist heads is to bring about Communist domination throughout Europe, especially in France and Italy.

This attempt is challenged by the Marshall Plan. That Plan when announced made the Communist heads desperate. They knew that if France and Italy and other countries of Western Europe are restored, as contemplated by the Marshall Plan, their attempts at Communist domination of Europe would fail. For a state of economic health in France and Italy and the rest of Western Europe would be contagious, it would infiltrate into the countries adjoining Russia where Communism is already dominant. In short the Communist heads knew that loss of the battle to dominate France and Italy would be loss of the war for world domination. To prevent the Marshall Plan from going into effect, the Communist heads have fought and will continue to fight with a desperation which accounts for what is now taking place in France and Italy. Their desperation can be expressed in a brief sentence. They must beat the Marshall Plan, for if they do not, the Marshall Plan will beat them.

Believe Battle Being Won

Well-informed persons in Washington believe that the battle to save France and Italy is being won. If it is won the factors in successful resistance will include partly the prospect of immediate aid from us, now practically asured; even more, confidence in the prospect of future aid under the Marshall Plan; and most of all the peoples and governments themselves. The Communist drives in the two countries have not been as successful as the Communist heads hoped.

Apparently the Communists are hesitant about going the full length of either of the methods included in their technique. One method is a general strike, if they attempt that on an all-out scale and fail, they would be conclusively defeated. The other method is to seize local governments and ultimately achieve defacto governments of the country as a whole.

In Italy the Communists seized the government of an important city, Milan. Persons who followed that event closely believe it was intended as a test of popular sentiment. Apparently the Communists were disappointed by the attitude of the people, they held the Milan government only briefly and did not attempt other seizures,

Vigor of popular resistance in Italy has been increased by steps toward economic health taken by the Italian government. It has restricted the expansion of credit and thus checked rising prices, actually prices have been rolled back. To the same end it has brought about liquidation of large inventories of goods. These actions toward arrest of inflation have not been accompanied by unemployment. The sum of what has taken place has invigorated confidence among the Italian people and strengthened the government.

Book Reviews

FOR SOME WEEKS, we have been dealing with the movies; let us now turn to book reviews. This has become quite a business in recent years, some newspapers running a daily book review column by a sort of book columnist who pretends to read the most massive and erudite volumes in the course of an afternoon. That it cannot be done is obvious; for instance, Du Nouy's "Human Destiny" cannot be read like a Rex Stout murder.

I recently came across a review of Freda Utley's "Last Chance in China," by Harold R. Isaacs. Apparently, the editor of the "New York Times Book Review" operates like a Town Hall debate, getting someone who dislikes a book and its author to give the other side. Differing from the Town Hall, however, he permits no rebuttal, making it possible for an antagonistic reviewer to kill a book.

Now Freda Utley is a well-informed lady, an ex-Communist who has lived in Russia and China and knows what she is talking about. Long before the present converts to the "Russian menace," who are hopping on the bandwagon of anti-Communism fast, Freda Utley recognized the danger and said it out loud. In those days that was a daring thing to do, because if one risked telling the truth, the galleons of propaganda roared upon the truth-teller with hatred.

So, Isaacs says that Utley's point of view is:

". . .She believes that no present evil in the world, like the Greek monarchy, the Turkish dictatorship, or a corrupt Chinese officialdom, is comparable to the Rusian evil; that nothing was more naive than the notions that led President Roosevelt at Yalta to sign an agreement that launched Russia on its new drive for power in Asia . . ."

With that he disagrees. His view is:

"We can share Miss Utley's urgent fear of Russian totalitarianism. But it is more difficult to see how we are going to exercise the menace by joining hands with the Chiang Kai-sheks and Chen Li-fus of China or of any country. If these are the only possible allies of democracy, then Miss Utley's too is a program for darkness."

In other words, he holds that the United States can afford to pick and choose its allies and not use what is at hand. He makes the further point that Freda Utley says that it might cost us $15,000,000,000 to support Chiang. She actually said that $3,000,000,0 or $4,000,000,000 would probably suffice. She does make the point, however, that China's importance to us is so great that $10,000,000,000 or $15,000,000,000 would not be too great a cost.

I have my own doubts about all these billions just as I have my doubts about the billions for Europe, but Isaacs clearly misquotes and misrepresents Miss Utley's position, which he has no right to do. I found another such misrepresentation but do not choose to give it space.

Mr. Isaacs does not favor Chiang Kai-shek. Whom he does favor does not appear in his review, but the editor of the "New York Times Book Review," needing to decorate his page, to make it lively and attractive to the reader, fills it out with a photograph of 'Soldiers of the Chinese Communist Army," who look like any other Chinese soldiers, neither better nor worse. He could have used a photograph of the Chinese government's army against whom these boys are in rebellion. They would have looked about the same.

On the same page is a review of "Danger from the East" by Richard E. Lauterbach — a book that I have not read. It apparently is a violent attack on General MacArthur, who has done a grand job in Japan.

Friends of mine, Japanese in Japan, some of whom I have known for a quarter of a century or more, have written to me to tell me of the wonders that General MacArthur has performed in and for their country. According to the reviewer, Robert Shaplen, this is what he gets out of Lauterbach's book:

"We have forgotten that Japan is basically a world problem, Mr. Lauterbach writes, and we have made her 'a colony.' The Emperor is still revered, his throne now shared by MacArthur. . ."

I can survive without reading Lauterbach.

What Magic Will Be Used By Mr. Truman With Controls?

The Republicans in Congress, notably Senator Taft, who demand that the Administration "be specific" in its anti-inflation recommendations are asking a legitimate question. And before being called upon to consider the matter, and certainly before voting on it, they should be given a straightforward answer.

They have been told, to be sure, that the President wants authority to put into effect a selective control of prices. But there has been no mention of the commodities which would be regulated, and no hint of the manner in which he would use the power he is seeking.

The nearest approach to a literate reply was made by Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman. The Administration, he said, hoped for a roll-back on the prices of meat, steel and lumber. Everyone has that hope, but those who are realistic about it or remember the nation's experience in the days of the OPA know that the way to reach a solution of the over-all problem is not through government controls.

It is true that the government, given the police state power by Congress, could set the prices at which commodities are to be sold. But that would not mean that the commodities could be bought at that price. It would mean—and under OPA it did mean—that manufacturers would stop producing when they found they could not make a profit and that once more the nation would be in an era of scarcities and black markets—the very condition Congress should be alert above all things to prevent.

That's why the Administration is asked to "be specific." What magic does it intend to use by which it can lower prices and at the same time cause the increase in production which is so sorely needed already and will be needed in infinitely greater measure if Washington starts sending all sorts of goods to Europe?

Persons who just love to hide things under the bed must be disappointed by the certainty that there will be no food rationing.

France And Italy Find Themselves On The Brink

The recent epidemic of strikes and riots in France and Italy are generally regarded as a Communist attempt to halt or sabotage the Marshall Plan. They are that at least. They may indeed be the opening stage in a conspiracy to seize control of chaotic France and Italy and thereby extend Soviet power to the Mediterranean and the Atlantic.

For some days it has been rumored abroad that the Communist-led labor federation of France and Italy would called general strikes by the first of the present month. The general strike is the first move in the strategy of the modern coup d'etat. The pattern of strikes, riots and plant sabotage has undoubtedly been laid down by the Cominform, that revised edition of the Comintern, in which French and Italian Communist leaders are important directors.

Already upwards of 3,000,000 workers have been idle in France although the strikes are receding as the National Assembly begins giving approval to Premier Schuman's drastic strike control laws. Communications, transportation, fuel and power industries have been largely paralyzed during the past three weeks. Vital plants have been seized by strikers' committees. In Italy there is more violence, but less immediate danger of economic paralysis, for one reason because the Italian Communist Party, though bigger than the French, is less efficient.

In both France and Italy, the governments in power are supported by a majority of the people and have reacted to the Communist conspiracy with courage and vigor. Premier de Gasperi, whose Christian Democratic Party is the largest in Italy, is prepared to use all the force at his command to put down what looks more and more like an attempt to overthrow the government.

In France, Premier Schuman has asked the General Assembly for temporary, near-dictorial powers to combat agitators for strikes, riots and sabotage and curb the Communist-led movement that has threatened to strangle the republic. Schuman has already rooted out the Communist police chiefs who were installed in office by the Party during the Liberation and, with Assembly approval, has called up 200,000 troop reserves.

It is clear that the future of democratic government in France and Italy is in immediate peril. If the rank and file of workers go along with them, the Communist leaders may cripple the economic life of both countries and produce chaos in which anything could happen. But the armies have remained loyal, and the government itself, when the people in general support it, has a natural authority.

The situation in the two Latin countries is now touch-and-go. If Schuman and de Gasperi win out the world may have seen the last Communist attempt to seize Western Europe. If they lose, the western democracies will have lost the war with a vengeance.

A famous writer says "hope lends youth the wings of a butterfly." But on closer examination, it turns out to be Dad's 1936 sedan.

Where's The Slavery?

Although organized labor is still opposed to the Taft-Hartley Law, not much talk has been heard recently to the effect that the law is a plan to "enslave labor." There's a reason, and it's to be found in the report which General Counsel Denham of the National Labor Relations Board has made on the first three months' operation of the act.

During that period, which was generally regarded as providing a test for the new law, 849 cases were filed with the NLRB but only 162, or less than one-fifth were initiated by employers. Here is proof that labor's prophets of gloom were wrong when they declared that industry would use the Taft-Hartley Act as an instrument to destroy unions or that the act itself gave industry an unfair advantage. What has happened is that labor has resorted to law five times as often as management.

Not much "slavery" there!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE LAME SHOULDER

THE shoulder is one of the most versatile joints of the body. It can be moved in four directions through the co-ordination of various muscle groups. Because the "hinge" is so complex, numerous abnormalities are possible.

An injury may damage one of the bones that make up the joint as well as the muscles, tendons, or bursas surrounding the structures. Furthermore, there are many blood vessels and nerves passing through this area on their way to the arms. Any one of these might be torn or broken by a direct blow, violent exertion, or strain from continuous over-use.

When a mishap of any type occurs, pain will develop especially on motion. If certain tissues are afflicted the arm cannot be raised; with others, distress ensues only when the extremity is rotated. In so-called frozen shoulder, movements are restricted in all directions. In consequence, the arm is kept close to the side, sometimes with the elbow supported in a sling or by the opposite hand. Careful examination, including X-rays, will be necessary to determine the exact origin of the disturbance.

Arthritis is the most frequent disorder of the joints but the shoulder is the exception to the rule since it is more likely to be attacked by bursitis. Here the tissues beneath the large muscle that makes up the shoulder pad are inflamed or damaged through trauma. The resulting irritation usually brings on an accumulation of fluid, which produces exquisite tenderness in this area.

In others, calcium is deposited in the form of a tiny stone within the tissues. The overlying muscle is huge and swelling may not be obvious. When the outside of the arm is touched or any movement is attempted, the individual winces with pain. As a rule, a week or ten days of incapacity is encountered during which time distress is present regardless of whether or not the arm is used. In the next stage discomfort appears only during motion. Improvement is gradual and healing takes place eventually but recurrences are always in the offing.

Many remedies for relief during the acute phase are available. Heat is soothing whether applied by means of hot packs, diathermy, or an infra-red lamp. Aspirin and codeine are helpful and light doses of X-ray may prove beneficial. Dramatic results often follow a relatively simple procedure in which the fluid behind the muscle is withdrawn and novocaine injected.

Most physicians encourage their patients to use the arm so that adhesions will not develop. This can be done by bending the trunk and allowing the upper extremities to swing in a pendulum fashion. Various tricks are employed to raise the lame shoulder. If the sufferer holds on to the two ends of a rope which has been thrown over a shower curtain rod or an open door, he can pull on one end with the uninjured extremity and raise the other slowly. Another method is to crawl up the side of the wall with the fingers. Surgery is required in less than 10 per cent of all chronic cases. The operation consists of removing the stone and repairing the torn tissues.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The Army, after a survey, has learned that West Coast girls are the tallest. That hasn't been my experience. Long ago I learned that West Coast girls are the hungriest.

But I can understand what makes the girls out here that way. . . It's that California sun. . .Yes sir, that's what makes 'em tall. . . Trying to stick their heads through the clouds to see it.

Some peculiar customs have sprung up on the West Coast as a result of the tall women. I listened to one marriage ceremony and the preacher said to the groom, "Do you promise to love, honor and forever wear your stilts?"

But I want to take issue with the statement that you find tall women only in the West. They're everywhere. . . I know. . . I've sat behind women at movies all over the country.

Tall girls always get so embarrassed when I take 'em to dinner. The dinner itself is all right, but when it comes time to pick up the check . . . I always seem so short.

Eventually I had to quit hanging around those tall girls. I got so used to standing on my toes. . . Three times in one week the cops picked me up as a transom suspect.

I went out walking with a girl who played center on a basketball team and it was a rather odd experience. Every time the traffic cop blew his whistle she jumped up and tapped one of the balls hanging over a pawnshop.

But that disclosure solves the puzzle of Charles Boyer. He really doesn't have a protruding lip. It's just that his pucker became turned up after kissing all those tall girls.

Air Corps Hasn't Changed Old Army Game Of Protecting Top Brass; Mike Dunn Demoted For Trying To Save Paratroopers' Lives

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Two days ago this column gave the inside story of Lt. Col. David Laux, the man who tried to prevent the further killing of American paratroopers after some 40 U. S. transport planes carrying about 800 paratroopers were shot down by our own Allied naval gunners over Sicily. When Col Laux wrote a letter to Secretary of War Stimson about Army failures to protect paratroopers, he was immediately sent to Alaska for the war's duration.

Today follows another unpleasant chapter regarding Army crackdowns on younger officers who try to clean up mistakes at the top. This is the story of Brig. Gen. Ray Aloysius ("Mike") Dunn, and what happened to him when he bucked the top brass.

Mike Dunn is a square-jawed, sharp-tongued, persistent Irishman, whose habit of speaking out doesn't help him with his superiors, but who has spent a large part of his life working on airborne infantry. Long before Hitler dropped paratroopers on France's allegedly impregnable Fort Ebensmael and thus turned the Maginot Line, Dunn had argued that dropping troops behind enemy lines could save the terrific loss of beachhead landings by boat.

However, Dunn made the mistake of being too vigorous about his ideas for protecting paratroopers. Result: He was demoted from the rank of brigadier general to colonel and transferred to the then less active South Pacific.

Here is the inside story of his demotion:

Two Generals Argue

During the African campaign, Mike Dunn was in command of the 51st Carrier Wing of the North African Airforce where he first tangled with his top boss, able, hard-working Gen. Carl "Toughy" Spaatz, now Commander of the Air Forces. Their first differences was over using Dunn's paratrooper transport planes for freight haulage at a time when Dunn wanted to use his planes for training troops.

Second and much more serious row was over adequate protection for troop-carrying planes. By that time, the top command was sold on airborne infantry and Dunn had been given the job of preparing for large-scale operations over Italy.

However, Dunn, even then, foresaw the danger of having transport planes shot down. With his paratroopers flying in C-47's, they were protected by no armor plate around the pilot's seat and no self-sealing gasoline tanks and because these planes had to fly slow and low, be feared they would be easy targets for enemy ati-aircraft. And once a bullet pierced a gasoline tank—unless equipped witsh self-sealing lining—the whole plane burst into flames. Paratroopers would have no time to bail out.

At that time—well before the Sicilian Campaign—Gen. F. A. M. Browning, air borne advisor to Gen. Eisenhower, wrote a report supporting Dunn. Browning reported that pilot morale was low due to the lack of armor around the pilot's seat and the absence of self-sealing gasoline tanks. Accordingly he recommended that the B-24 replace the C-47 as a vehicle for carrying paratroopers. (The B-24 had self-sealing tanks and some armor.)

But Gen. Spaatz, the over-all air commander, didn't agree. The persistent, sometimes disagreeable Dunn had several conferences with him, urging at least self-sealing kas tanks, but Spaatz wouldn't budge. He argued that there wasn't time to install self-sealing tanks and that armor plate plus tanks would cut down the range of the troop transports. At one meeting, attended also by other Air Force officers, Spaatz banged the table and proclaimed:

"I don't want to hear any more about it. There will not be any change."

Dutch Vs. Irish

Dunn, however, had his Irish up. He wrote a formal request to Gen. Spaatz urging self-sealing gas tanks for paratroop-carrying planes. Spaatz, a Pennsylvania Dutchman, just as stubborn as Dunn, returned this request with an abrupt veto.

Dunn then went over Spaatz's head and wrote a report direct to Washington urgently recommending protection for troop-carrying planes. This report is dated May 13, 1943.

And it was on July 13—exactly two months later—that the first wave of U. S. transport planes carrying about 400 paratroopers was shot down over Sicily. The next night another wave of like number was shot down.

And although trigger-fingered gunners of the U. S. and British Navies got the blame, a board of inquiry, appointed to establish the cause of the tragedy, made the pointed recommendation that in the future self-sealing gas tanks be installed in troop-carrying planes.

Dunn Gets Demoted

After the Sicilian tragedy, Mike Dunn, then a brigadier general, started back to Washington to make sure this tragedy was not repeated. He was met with a request that he step down to the rank of colonel for reasons of health. Dunn went to Miami for a physical exam, was given an OK, but despite that, was reduced and sent to a quiet sector of the South Pacific.

That ended the efforts of Col. Mike Dunn to protect paratroopers. But it did not end the efforts of others, notably Col. David Laux and Col. Felix Dupont.

And being reserve officers with no Army careers to jeopordize, they had the nerve to go over the heads of a long barrier of brass hats straight to General Hap Arnold, then head of the Air Forces. Arnold, after some sputtering about divided opinion among his generals, finally wrote out an order to the now-famous Gen. Benny Myers to install self-sealing tanks in troop-carrying transports.

What position Gen. Meyers took on the matter is not clear. However, nothing happened. Meanwhile, Gen. Barney Giles, one of the brass hats who opposed self-sealing tanks, sent a telegram telling Gen. Spaatz what had happened. Gen. Spaatz was then in England preparing for D-Day when several thousand more paratroopers would cross the Channel and drop down to Normandy.

Spaatz promptly wired back killing the order for self-sealing gas tanks.

It was the contention of Giles and Spaatz that the gasoline tanks could not be installed fast enough for the Normandy operation, also that extra weight would cut the plane's cruising range. Other officers, however, claimed that enough tanks were already in England to equip most of the troop carriers, and that the flight across the Channel was very short, anyway.

It was after this that Col. Laux brought the matter direct to the attention of Secretary of War Stimson—and was promptly transferred to Alaska for his pains.

This old Army habit of penalizing anyone who dares differ with the top brass is one of the things that Army should straighten out before it asks the nation to adopt peacetime military conscription for the first time in history.

Doctrine Of More Pay For Less Work To Have Serious Results

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3. — Evidence keeps accumulating in industry after industry that the more-pay-for-less-work doctrine is not only contributing to inflation but it is contributing to a state of affairs which, unless checked somehow, must inevitably bring an economic maladjustment of serious proportions to America.

The latest disclosure is from the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U. S. Department of labor. It reveals the facts on output per employee in the telephone industry.

Almost everybody has been wondering why there have been delays in long-distance calls and why telephone service has not been as good as it was in pre-war days. The telephone companies say that the calls are more numerous than ever and that shortages of materials and bottlenecks in production have delayed the manufacture of much needed equipment. Little has been said publicly about the slowdowns in service and the general attitude of many employes.

Now come the official figures to show that, although during the war years output per employe was 10.5 per cent higher than in 1939, the output per employe now has slipped back to the 1939 level while the payroll costs have gone up 255 per cent of 1939.

Unit Costs Up 146.4 Per Cent

Figured on a unit-cost basis, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says that unit costs are now 146.4 per cent of what they were in 1939. This is the highest point they have reached since 1935, when figures were first collected.

The explanation for the changes in output and manhours of work as given by the bureau is that these "show the joint effect of a large number of separate though interrelated influences such as technical improvements, the rate of operations, the relative contribution to service of carriers at different levels of efficiency, as well as the skill and effort of the work force, the efficiency of management, and the state of labor relations."

There is no doubt that the "effort of the work force" and the "state of labor relations" have contributed to no small extent to the decline in output per employe, but it is only fair to say that the decline has not been as large in comparison with the war years on the part of telephone workers as it has been in such industries as building and construction.

The term "productivity" as defined by the bureau with respect to the telephone industry is in terms of "message units per manhour of work or per employe." While productivity per manhour declined between 1940 and 1943, it increased from 1943 to 1945 and then started to decline to 1939 levels. The bureau suggests that this may have been due "to a marked increase in employment in certain occupational groups, particularly construction, installation and maintenance which are not directly engaged in switchboard operations."

But the over-all costs for the telephone industry have risen substantially during the same period. The public, on the other hand, has been paying lower rates for the calls themselves while the government has come along with a high tax on messages so that telephone bills are necessarily higher to the consumer. The rates to the companies on service have by no means been raised to correspond to the higher unit costs.

It is this problem which rate-making bodies generally will have to face.

Tendency in Official Washington

The Bureau of Labor Statistics has also given out its surveys of the telegraph business, where output per employe has declined from 1945 but is still 10.6 per cent higher than in 1939. The unit costs, on the other hand, are now 64.5 per cent higher than they were in 1939.

There is a tendency in official Washington to regard increases in labor costs in a particular industry without relation to the higher costs of materials or supplies bought from other industries where labor costs have risen. Thus Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach in his testimony before Congress this week compares the price increases in coal and steel, respectively, with the increased wage costs in those industries, forgetting that the price of an article is made up of two major factors—the direct costs of manufacture of one's own product and the direct costs of materials or machinery or other items in the cost budget of each business or industry, reflecting the other fellow's costs of labor. These have been less conspicuous but just as inflationary.

Thus the telephone and telegraph companies have to pay, in addition to their own labor costs, a higher price for the things they buy in the way of equipment.

American Aid Will Frustrate Communists, Columnist Holds

By MARK SULLIVAN

Congress is appropriating large amounts to France and Italy, probably it will be some 200 million dollars in each case. During the week or ten days in which Congress has been doing this, more than these amounts have been lost in each country by destruction or suspension of work, brought about by Communists, through strikes and otherwise. The two conditions, standing together, could possibly influence American thought, causing some to query whether we should make the grants. In fact we are not thus influenced, the grants are supported with near unanimity, the Senate vote in favor of them was 83 to 6.

The double condition is not as bad as it might seem. The grants we are making are for food and fuel immediately and urgently needed to avert distress, while the losses in the two countries by destruction or cessation of work are of a different sort. Yet the double condition does have a bearing, logical though superficial, on the larger long-term grants Congress is about to consider for industrial reconstruction under the Marshall Plan. These grants will be in part to make up for the destruction of goods and impairment of industrial production now being brought about by the Communists. But as respects the future grants, our people will undoubtedly see the true picture as clearly as they see it in the case of the grants now being made.

Aid Frustrates Communists

Fundamental in the true picture is a distinction between on the one hand the peoples and governments of France and Italy and on the other hand the Communists who are comparatively tiny parts of the populations. We are giving aid to support the peoples and their governments against attempts at revolution made by the Communists. By our aid, we frustrate the Communist attempts. The recent speeding up of their attempts is at once an effort to mislead our people into not giving aid, and rage because we are not misled because we are going on with the aid.

The picture is broader than the two countries, it is world-wide. The Communist heads in Russia are engaged in an attack upon us, as the spearhead of world resistance against Communism, an attack which, as it is frequently put, has all the aspects of war except shooting. In the immediate battle, the effort of the Communist heads is to bring about Communist domination throughout Europe, especially in France and Italy.

This attempt is challenged by the Marshall Plan. That Plan when announced made the Communist heads desperate. They knew that if France and Italy and other countries of Western Europe are restored, as contemplated by the Marshall Plan, their attempts at Communist domination of Europe would fail. For a state of economic health in France and Italy and the rest of Western Europe would be contagious, it would infiltrate into the countries adjoining Russia where Communism is already dominant. In short the Communist heads knew that loss of the battle to dominate France and Italy would be loss of the war for world domination. To prevent the Marshall Plan from going into effect, the Communist heads have fought and will continue to fight with a desperation which accounts for what is now taking place in France and Italy. Their desperation can be expressed in a brief sentence. They must beat the Marshall Plan, for if they do not, the Marshall Plan will beat them.

Believe Battle Being Won

Well-informed persons in Washington believe that the battle to save France and Italy is being won. If it is won the factors in successful resistance will include partly the prospect of immediate aid from us, now practically asured; even more, confidence in the prospect of future aid under the Marshall Plan; and most of all the peoples and governments themselves. The Communist drives in the two countries have not been as successful as the Communist heads hoped.

Apparently the Communists are hesitant about going the full length of either of the methods included in their technique. One method is a general strike, if they attempt that on an all-out scale and fail, they would be conclusively defeated. The other method is to seize local governments and ultimately achieve defacto governments of the country as a whole.

In Italy the Communists seized the government of an important city, Milan. Persons who followed that event closely believe it was intended as a test of popular sentiment. Apparently the Communists were disappointed by the attitude of the people, they held the Milan government only briefly and did not attempt other seizures.

Vigor of popular resistance in Italy has been increased by steps toward economic health taken by the Italian government. It has restricted the expansion of credit and thus checked rising prices, actually prices have been rolled back. To the same end it has brought about liquidation of large inventories of goods. These actions toward arrest of inflation have not been accompanied by unemployment. The sum of what has taken place has invigorated confidence among the Italian people and strengthened the government.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Book Reviews

FOR SOME WEEKS, we have been dealing with the movies; let us now turn to book reviews. This has become quite a business in recent years, some newspapers running a daily book review column by a sort of book columnist who pretends to read the most massive and erudite volumes in the course of an afternoon. That it cannot be done is obvious; for instance, Du Nouy's "Human Destiny" cannot be read like a Rex Stout murder.

I recently came across a review of Freda Utley's "Last Chance in China," by Harold R. Isaacs. Apparently, the editor of the "New York Times Book Review" operates like a Town Hall debate, getting someone who dislikes a book and its author to give the other side. Differing from the Town Hall, however, he permits no rebuttal, making it possible for an antagonistic reviewer to kill a book.

Now Freda Utley is a well-informed lady, an ex-Communist who has lived in Russia and China and knows what she is talking about. Long before the present converts to the "Russian menace," who are hopping on the bandwagon of anti-Communism fast, Freda Utley recognized the danger and said it out loud. In those days that was a daring thing to do, because if one risked telling the truth, the galleons of propaganda roared upon the truth-teller with hatred.

So, Isaacs says that Utley's point of view is:

". . .She believes that no present evil in the world, like the Greek monarchy, the Turkish dictatorship, or a corrupt Chinese officialdom, is comparable to the Rusian evil; that nothing was more naive than the notions that led President Roosevelt at Yalta to sign an agreement that launched Russia on its new drive for power in Asia . . ."

With that he disagrees. His view is:

"We can share Miss Utley's urgent fear of Russian totalitarianism. But it is more difficult to see how we are going to exercise the menace by joining hands with the Chiang Kai-sheks and Chen Li-fus of China or of any country. If these are the only possible allies of democracy, then Miss Utley's too is a program for darkness."

In other words, he holds that the United States can afford to pick and choose its allies and not use what is at hand. He makes the further point that Freda Utley says that it might cost us $15,000,000,000 to support Chiang. She actually said that $3,000,000,0 or $4,000,000,000 would probably suffice. She does make the point, however, that China's importance to us is so great that $10,000,000,000 or $15,000,000,000 would not be too great a cost.

I have my own doubts about all these billions just as I have my doubts about the billions for Europe, but Isaacs clearly misquotes and misrepresents Miss Utley's position, which he has no right to do. I found another such misrepresentation but do not choose to give it space.

Mr. Isaacs does not favor Chiang Kai-shek. Whom he does favor does not appear in his review, but the editor of the "New York Times Book Review," needing to decorate his page, to make it lively and attractive to the reader, fills it out with a photograph of 'Soldiers of the Chinese Communist Army," who look like any other Chinese soldiers, neither better nor worse. He could have used a photograph of the Chinese government's army against whom these boys are in rebellion. They would have looked about the same.

On the same page is a review of "Danger from the East" by Richard E. Lauterbach — a book that I have not read. It apparently is a violent attack on General MacArthur, who has done a grand job in Japan.

Friends of mine, Japanese in Japan, some of whom I have known for a quarter of a century or more, have written to me to tell me of the wonders that General MacArthur has performed in and for their country. According to the reviewer, Robert Shaplen, this is what he gets out of Lauterbach's book:

"We have forgotten that Japan is basically a world problem, Mr. Lauterbach writes, and we have made her 'a colony.' The Emperor is still revered, his throne now shared by MacArthur. . ."

I can survive without reading Lauterbach.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Ladies and gentlemen, I want a little respect from here in.

Little Willie has been denounced by an official publication of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

A few days ago a United Press dispatch from Moscow reported that The Literary Gazette had called me "an illiterate slandered," "provocateur," "rogue from Broadway," "police informer," "speakeasy operator," and "yellow journalist" (as distinct from red, I suppose). It went on to say that with the aid of the F.B.I., I had opened and was operating "the biggest and most profitable brothel in the United States — the Diamond Horseshoe." The Gazette said it had plucked these biographical nosegays from Time Magazine, which it termed "one of the dirtiest publications in America."

There it is, boys, and it's official. The comrades have added me to the honored list which includes James Byrnes, General Marshall, Brooks Atkinson and Walter Winchell. A little respect, please.

Well, I haven't felt so good about anything since I was attacked some years back by the Berliner Volkischer Beobachter. It ran a picture of me and captioned it "Bolshevik White-Slaver and Enemy of the New Reich."

In my book, these two blasts rate better than a medal from the Columbia School of Journalism. If a fellow can get the Georgian bank bandit and the Bavarian rug-chewer to call him the same names, he must be doing all right.

Why did Uncle Joe's hired help take time out to throw the hammer and sickle at me? Well, according to the United Press, they didn't like my crack in a recent broadcast that the Soviet Union didn't have the industrial and mechanical know-how to make the atom bomb—even if we showed them how. I opined that I wasn't going to worry about their putting the Big Firecracker together until they learned the difference between borscht and lubricating oil.

These two lines seemed to hit the Russians where they plot.

After reading their attack on me in their top literary magazine, I think even less of their rhetoric than I do of their industrial savvy. "Yellow journalist," "rogue from Broadway," "police informer"—take it easy, boys, your invective is showing.

Judging from the bitterness of the attack, I must have been calling my shots better than I knew. A guy with a cellar full of atom bombs doesn't figure to go purple in the face because a Johnny-come-suddenly journalist in New York calls him a bum.

It's been my hunch for a long time that the Russians were in big trouble despite their big talk. The first tipoff was their refusal to let us peek behind the Iron Curtain. The second was their corny name-calling. A fellow who's doing all right for himself doesn't go around waving his arms and screeching that so-and-so is a such-and-such.

Take the recent speeches of Mr. Vishinsky. They're almost loony-bin stuff. For weeks Mr. V. has been ranting and raving like the bum he accuses everybody of being. He has been sounding off as if he wanted to prove that the Russian gutter runs right into the Kremlin. Doesn't he know that the kids around this country chalk up better words on fences?

To me, this hysteria and hair-tearing spell fright. And when a government has to hire 900,000 undercover cops, it can only be afraid of its own people. Could it be that those smiling faces in the Russian newsreels are smiling—or else?

When Molotov talked about "the overthrow of capitalism" last month, he wasn't referring to Chichicastenango—he meant us. But as long as he hollers, I'm not going to worry. When he begins to purr, that's when I'll start losing sleep.

I may be talking through my Fedora, but I don't think there's much behind that Iron Curtain—except a lot of dirty words.

Incidentally I hope that crack about my cabaret being a "brothel" doesn't provoke an international incident. Last night the show girls were planning to throw a Conga-line around the Russian Consulate.

Right up in the FOUR-FRONT

SCATTERED across this nation are some of the cagiest automobile buyers the world ever saw.

They cut their eyeteeth on a steering wheel, so to speak—they know car values from A to izzard—and you have to be plenty good to step ahead of your price class in the volume of your sales to them.

That's why it's startling—sometimes even to us—to see the double-barreled story of public preference that's written in the sales records and registration figures:

ITEM: Only three cars outsell Buick—and all of these are in the so-called "low-price field."

ITEM: In some localities—and quite often in polls that ask "Which car will you buy next?"—Buick ranks not fourth, but third, actually ahead of one of the lowest-priced three.

Naturally, the smart buyer will ask "How come?"

Well, the most standout style of the season, the style that's the clearest forecast of wonderful things to be, undoubtedly has much to do with it.

But that isn't all. The dollar is still a pretty important measuring stick.

So we don't think Buick could be where it is if it didn't offer a bigger dollar's worth—bigger in size and substance, in lift and life, in soft ride and easy handling, bigger in the all-round happiness you'll get out of your buy.

Which suggests, of course:

Why go against the solid judgment of your fellow men? Why not see your Buick dealer now—with or without a car to trade—and place the order that will put you where you belong, right up in the four-front?

Right up in the FOUR-FRONT
SCATTERED across this nation are some of the cagiest automobile buyers the world ever saw.
They cut their eyeteeth on a steering wheel, so to speak—they know car values from A to izzard—and you have to be plenty good to step ahead of your price class in the volume of your sales to them.
That's why it's startling—sometimes even to us—to see the double-barreled story of public preference that's written in the sales records and registration figures:
ITEM: Only three cars outsell Buick—and all of these are in the so-called "low-price field."
ITEM: In some localities—and quite often in polls that ask "Which car will you buy next?"—Buick ranks not fourth, but third, actually ahead of one of the lowest-priced three.
Naturally, the smart buyer will ask "How come?"
Well, the most standout style of the season, the style that's the clearest forecast of wonderful things to be, undoubtedly has much to do with it.
But that isn't all. The dollar is still a pretty important measuring stick.
So we don't think Buick could be where it is if it didn't offer a bigger dollar's worth—bigger in size and substance, in lift and life, in soft ride and easy handling, bigger in the all-round happiness you'll get out of your buy.
Which suggests, of course:
Why go against the solid judgment of your fellow men? Why not see your Buick dealer now—with or without a car to trade—and place the order that will put you where you belong, right up in the four-front?

INDIANAPOLIS SMOKE OFFICIAL CONTACTED

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he has contacted an Indianapolis smoke control official regarding the position of smoke abatement engineer in Cumberland.

The name of Harry C. Ballman, administrative assistant to the board of air pollution control in Indianapolis, was suggested to the mayor as a possible applicant by Glynn L. Coryell, chief field service engineer of the U. S. Machine Corporation, Lebanon, Ind.

Coryell said he had discussed the Cumberland vacancy with Ballman, who is also considering similar positions in Cincinnati and Richmond. Ballman is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Although Coryell has contacted members of the Stoker Manufacturers Association engineering research committee for the names of other possible Cumberland applicants, he said he has received no suggestions to date.

State Sales Tax In County Nets $203,960 In Oct.

James J. Lacy, State Comptroller and administrator of Maryland Retail Sales Tax Act, announces that $2,270,368 had been received in collections for October, including $203,960 from Allegany and $28,300 from Garrett counties.

According to Lacy this is the largest amount so far recorded since the levy went into effect July 1. The total for the four months now is $7,973,031. Returns are coming in for November and it is possible that the aggregate for the 11th month will be the largest so far received, despite the fact that the minimum bracket now is 14 cents instead of nine cents, the comptroller asserted.

Of the grand total of $5,702,663 received from all sources of revenue for the first three months, Baltimore City, as was expected, contributed $3,350,326, the 23 counties, $2,217,050, and from out-of-state $135,287. Baltimore County's share was the largest among the counties, with $319,075, followed by Montgomery, $214,447 and Allegany, $203,960. Washington county returned $194,046. The smallest return was $21,619 from Queen Anne's county.

Sophisticated small-fry of 1947 are becoming connoisseurs of phonograph records. The record companies have outdone themselves in turning out platter entertainment for the young. Subjects range from the familiar bedtime stories to full operatic recordings.

Topping the Christmas list are two big new albums of Alice in Wonderland. The Columbia version is done by Jane Powell, the Decca recording by Ginger Rogers, with a musical score by Victor Young. Others include:

Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer (RCA Victor) . . . The story of a shy reindeer whose red nose, which he thought so ugly, turned out to be a shining star for Santa. Narated by Paul Wing.

A Christmas Carol (Decca) . . . Charming dramatization of Dickens' famous Christmas story, with Ronald Colman as Scrooge.

Sparky and the Talking Train (Capitol) . . . The story of a little boy and a wonderful train that talks to him.

Rip Van Winkle (Decca) . . . With Walter Huston as narrator.

Tubby the Tuba (Decca) . . . Told and sung, with hilarious effect, by Danny Kaye.

Bozo and his Rocket Ship and Bozo at the Circus (Capitol) . . . Two album hits with the smallfry, with full-color story books timed to the records.

Why the Chimes Rang (RCA Victor) . . . As told by Ted Malone with Dick Liebert at the organ.

The Pied Piper of Hamlin (RCA Victor) . . . Alec Templeton, the versatile pianist, brings the Pied Piper to records.

For more serious music students there are Columbia's beautiful recordings of Handel's The Messiah, a selection of Sacred Arias of Johann Sebastian Bach and The Young Persons Guide to the Orchestra.

For the youngest set there's a surefire hit. Who's Who at the Zoo (Merry-Go-Round) with wonderful sound effects.

Walcott Would Welcome Change In Bout Referee

Donovan Has Handled 12 Of Louis' Fights

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The curtain of silence which has separated Jersey Joe Walcott from the outside world for the past week parted slightly today to permit the challenger's manager to say that both he and Jersey Joe would like to see some referee other than Arthur Donovan in the ring Friday night when they tackle Joe Lois at the Garden.

Arthur Donovan

"I am not questioning Donovan's ability, you understand," said Joe Webster, the Camden cafe proprietor who handles Walcott. Neither am I questioning his honesty. But he has handled most of the champion's fights and I think the fans, as well as myself and Walcott, would welcome a change."

A glance at the records shows that Donovan has, indeed, presided as the third man on 12 of the 23 occasions Louis has defended his title since he knocked out Jim Braddock in 1937. He worked the champion's most recent fight, when he knocked out Tami Maurello in the first round 14 months ago. Many qualified observers regard Donovan as the best in the business.

"I have no man in mind to suggest to the athletic commission," Webster continued. "Any one besides Donovan will delight me. I think this is a sportsmanlike request and I hope the board will act favorably on it."

Same Request Made Before

Walcott, himself, didn't say anything. Having finished his regular training yesterday in silence, the challenger—father of six—put on the finishing touches at Grenoch, N. J., today in a gymnasium session so private that even his sparring partners were made to stay in the yard.

It was after this clandestine gathering that the camp's publicity man, also excluded and no doubt beginning to crack under the strain, came up with Webster's request that Donovan sit this one out. Managers have made the same request before, but the commission never pays them any mind.

Louis once was asked facetiously if it were true that he carried a "house referee" with him (meaning Donovan), and the champion replied with a dead pan that it sure was. "Want to see it?" he asked, and held up his huge right fist for inspection.

The champ completed his boxing chores at Pompton Lakes, N. J., today, and plans no more than road work and setting-up exercises tomorrow. Among those who watched him throw punches today was Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight who might possibly find himself in the ring with Louis next summer if he isn't careful.

Champ Expects To Weigh 212

Walcott is expected to drive into the city late tomorrow and spend his last night before being hit by Louis at a local hotel. The champion and his retinue will motor in Friday morning just in time to attend the weigh-in at the Garden. He expects to scale about 212 to Walcott's 194. There was talk today that the odds against Walcott might mount to better than 10-to-1 before the bout.

Racing To Resume At Florida Track

Purses Are Boosted, Strike Is Called Off

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Gulfstream Park's two days of enforced idleness was ended late today when President James Donn and some 200 horse owners reached a compromise agreement on the increase of minimum purses and daily distribution.

At an open meeting attended by track officials, some 200 horse owners and state racing commission members, Donn agreed to boost the minimum daily purse from $2,000 to $2,400 with the added stipulation that the daily distribution be not less than $22,000—exclusive of stake events.

The compromise — the horsemen originally demanded a minimum purse of $2,500—ended a stalemate which began last Sunday when the horsemen voted unanimously to demand the purse increase.

If the demand was refused, the horsemen voted, they would not enter any mounts for Tuesday's or any other day's racing.

The high school athletes were guests of the university athletic management. Response to the plan was so great that officials have indicated a similar program will be in effect again next fall.

Allegany Beagle Club Will Elect Officers Friday

Committees For 1948 Will Be Announced

The Allegany Beagle Club will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the Woodmen of the World Home, 144 Union Street. This will be the final regular monthly meeting of the year and will be featured by the election of officers and appointment of committees for 1948.

Friday night's meeting will round out a very successful year's program for the club which, during 1947, included holding a Tri-State Association Spring Derby trial, four club point trials, an AKC sanctioned all age trial and a final club championship winner's stake. Also during 1947, the club has stocked its grounds on McMullen Highway with approximately one hundred and fifty cottontail rabbits and has had an abundance of game for each field trial as well as for members to train their hounds, and another shipment of about 100 rabbits is on order for delivery during December to insure that the supply of game is maintained.

Another feature of the year's program has been the erection of a club house on the grounds, near Barton's Dairy, and it is now in use, although plans are already underway for its enlargement by adding a basement room and a porch to the present building. This feature of the club's progress has been made possible largely by the generosity and co-operation of Harry J. Barton, prominent Allegany County business man and sportsman. Plans have also been drawn for the erection of modern dog kennels on the premises near the club house and this work will be started in the very near future.

The club was organized about two and one half years ago with an original membership of about 20 local beaglers and since its organization, has grown to a membership of more than 100 members in the three states of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. It has obtained long term leases on more than 500 hundred acres of ground for running and training purposes and is now eligible to apply for an American Kennel Club license in order to hold licensed beagle trials. This step will be taken as soon as the club's building program is completed.

R. L. Spiker of Cumberland was the first president of the club and was succeeded by Judge Hugh Stevenson of Ellerslie, who has been president during 1947. T. James Stevenson of Cumberland has been the very efficient secretary-treasurer of the club ever since its organization.

Durocher To Manage Brooklyn, Paper Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Daily Mirror said in a copyrighted story tonight that Leo Durocher has signed a contract to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1948.

The Mirror said that Durocher flew from the west coast to Dodger President Branch Rickey's farm at Chestertown, Md., and there penned the contract today.

Rickey made his decision to rehire Durocher, who was under suspension during the 1947 season, after getting the green light from Commissioner A. B. Chandler at a conference in Cincinnati earlier this week, the Mirror said it had learned.

Durocher was suspended by Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball," at the start of the season. The suspension ended with the last game of the world series.

At the same time, the Mirror said it had learned from another source that Dixie Walker, hard-hitting Dodger outfielder, had been traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates and had already signed his Corsair contract for 1948.

Dukes Lose 4th Straight Game To Pittsburgh

Pirates' Late Rally Beats Locals, 65-51

WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 3—A 20-point scoring spree enabled the East Pittsburgh Pirates to come from behind in the final quarter tonight to nose out the Cumberland Dukes of the All-American Basketball League in an exhibition game at Wilmington High School by the score of 65 to 51.

Vaniel featured for the Pirates by helping himself to 11 field goals and 23 points. Bob Pence was Cumberland's high man with 15 markers.

Two Rough Assignments

Jersey Joe Walcott and Southern California have two rugged assignments this weekend.

One has to meet Joe Louis, and the other has to meet Notre Dame. Joe Louis and Notre Dame are not two opponents I'd care to meet in a dark alley, or anywhere else. Neither is invincible but they will do until something more invincible comes along. Michigan might be the answer in one case—but there is no substitute for Joe Louis.

Michigan men from the Midwest that I have talked to are confident the Wolverines could handle the Irish, through what they consider a much better backfield, headed by Chappius and Elliott. They concede Notre Dame the better line. We want no part of this argument.

Since there is no other way to decide the issue, Southern California has kindly consented to be the guinea pig. There is, of course, the chance that Southern California might rise up and beat both. But I don't believe the Trojans have the speed to beat either.

Both Notre Dame and Michigan are well supplied with fast backs who can move in a hurry and throw the ball. Lujack and Chappius happen to be two men who can wreck you through the air if you bar the way along the ground. I doubt that Southern California can stop either along the ground, although the loss of Terry Brennan won't help Notre Dame a bit. Terry Brennan, next to Johnny Lujack, was the best man on Frank Leahy's squad.

Southern California has a big, experienced line that isn't any too fast. Trojan line-up has a number of good backs, but no great ones. The Trojans also have two fine ends. It is the type of team that well keyed up can furnish trouble to anyone. The manpower is there in abundance.

So far, the western defenders have shown neither the alertness nor the speed to beat two such teams as Notre Dame and Michigan. The UCLA game proved this point, a game Southern California barely won and might easily have lost by sounder UCLA quarterbacking on the four-yard line.

It is a tough break for a team to go this far unbeaten and suddenly, after turning the corner, find Notre Dame and Michigan in the road.

Notre Dame scouts that I have talked to are picking Notre Dame to win something like 21 to 0. Any score approaching this result would take quite an edge off the Rose Bowl game, compared to the other three major bowls, all high-class shows.

One Southern Cal Break

Southern California enjoys one happy break. It doesn't face as hard an assignment as Joe Walcott tackles. Beating Notre Dame is not impossible, but beating Joe Louis has been impossible for ten years. I can't recall any football team that has gone unbeaten for ten years.

If anything has happened to slow up Louis, if time has taken any part of its expected toll, Louis hasn't shown it. He has looked better in training than he looked to be before either the Conn or the Maurello undertakings. He is punching and boxing as well as he ever did and, unless Walcott can find some opening for a stunning punch, in the wake of a mad gamble, he looks to outclass Jersey Joe.

Pacific Coast football has been at a low ebb for several seasons. It was at a record ebb in 1945 and 1946 when Alabama and Illinois turned the Rose Bowl into something known as a shambles. Neither game was a contest.

The West Coast has come back a certain distance, but hardly far enough to be what it was under the guidance of Pop Warner, Howard Jones, Jimmy Phelan and Buck Shaw. Howard Jones never lost a Rose Bowl game. They are just as big out there as they used to be, but they don't seem to be fast or as alert. But you can't blame all of this on the coaches. There has also been a slump in material.

A Southern California victory would knock this estimate cockeyed, and it could happen to an inspired Trojan squad. It may be that this big Southern California team, in a savage defense of the prestige of West Coast football, will outplay itself against two better opponents and supply the football world with an upset.

Jersey Joe Walcott has no such opening. He is meeting a fine boxer and a deadly puncher with either hand, an opponent who has a big edge in both departments of the ring game. He is giving away something like 15 pounds and he has no exuberant youth to call on.

Jersey Joe is in a much rougher spot than Southern California is. He will need the miracle of all miracles to win, where the Trojan outfit will only need part of a miracle—maybe a one third or one half. It would be no great shock if Southern California beat Notre Dame. But a Walcott victory would rock the foundations of sport, and make every form player throw away the past-performance sheet.

In both cases it is largely a matter of the number of rounds—and the final score. How many rounds—how big a score? At least this is what the so-called, if any, smart ones are now working on.

What about four rounds for the fight and 14 to 0 for the football games, Louis and Notre Dame being the two favorites? This seems to be a trifle on the conservative side, but with Terry Brennan missing, the South Bend Simoon loses part of its gusty force.

Greenberg To Undergo Operation On Elbow

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—(INS)—Home run slugger Hank Greenberg will undergo an operation for removal of bone chips from his right elbow at Lenox Hill Hospital on Friday.

Announcement of the operation ordered by doctors after an examination of X-Ray pictures, brought forth a recurrence of rumors that Greenberg probably will finish out his baseball days in New York.

A native New Yorker, Greenberg will be 37 years old on January 1, but is believed to be eager to play one year in his home town.

He attained fame as a slugger with the Detroit Tigers and was released after last season by the Pittsburgh Pirates, with whom he played only the one season.

He hit 25 home runs for the Pirates and compiled a batting average of .251.

Tatum In Favor Of All-Star Tilt, Bill Meek Says

Assistant Grid Coach Is Heard By Jaycees

William "Bill" Meek, assistant coach of the University of Maryland's football team, declared that "Big Jim" Tatum, head coach of the Terrapins, favors the suggestion that an all-star game be played annually between scholastic elevens of Western Maryland and Baltimore City and that a state basketball tournament be staged each year with Baltimore City quints included.

The one-time Tennessee backfield star made these remarks as a guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Meek, who quarterbacked University of Tennessee teams in 1940, 1941 and 1942, coached the national service champions of Fort Benning in 1946 and played with the Vols in Sugar Bowl games against Boston College and Tulsa, came here to pinch-hit for Tatum, who was unable to keep his appointment because of Maryland's practice which began yesterday for the Gator Bowl game with Georgia's Bulldogs on New Year's Day in Jacksonville, Florida.

The speaker explained that Tatum regretted his inability to come here but hoped to come to Cumberland at a later date to show pictures of the Gator Bowl contest.

The speaker, who was introduced by Floyd "Sammy" Cozad, program chairman of the Jaycees, stressed the fact that Maryland will be competing in its first bowl game and this is Tatum's first year as coach at the College Park school.

Meek showed movies of the scoring plays in the Vanderbilt-Maryland game which the Terps won at Knoxville on November 22 by the score of 20-6. He gave a running commentary on the film.

The Terps assistant backfield coach had high praise for Fred Davis, former Fort Hill High School player, who is playing right end for the Maryland eleven.

Another speaker was City Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller, who played quarterback on the first Maryland team organized in 1892 when the institution was known as Maryland Agricultural College.

Fuller recalled the first game the team played, which was with Alexandria, Va., High School. The college team won 10-4. He commented on the various changes in the rules since his day, recalling that there were no substitutions and that players would play 35 to 40 minutes halves with no subs. If a player was injured he was taken out of the game and nobody went in for him, Fuller said.

Coaches present at the dinner were Jesse Riggleman of Ridgeley; William P. Hahn of Fort Hill; Bruce Fisher of Bedford and Joseph Hoopengardner of Beall High.

WAGERING AT MAJOR TRACKS IN MARYLAND EXCEEDS 95 MILLION

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3—(AP)—Laurel was the only one of Maryland's four big horse racing tracks to enjoy increased betting which this year amounted to $95,178,632, a drop of $6,405,224 from the all-time record of 1946.

Laurel betting was up $1,864,374 to $23,649,019 while Bowie, Havre De Grace and Pimlico all experienced a slackening off at the pari-mutuel windows. The season closed last Saturday at Bowie.

Pimlico took in the most, $27,444,150, but the total was $3,582,836 less than last year. Bowie's total of $21,801,632 was off $2,295,656, and the Havre De Grace take of $22,283,681 was down $2,391,106.

The state will get [illegible] cent of the total bet, twice as much as last year.

Trainer Vincent Glorioso, former contract rider for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, is at the Charles Town track handling Red Wrack, Aylesbury and Red Oak for Mrs. Mary Knieriem, of Cumberland.

Jack Tighe, Penn State's 165-pound Eastern Intercollegiate boxing champion of 1946, will spearhead Coach Leo Houck's 26th Nittany Lion ring team this winter.

Tighe, who appeared here last June to give a boxing demonstration at the American Legion's tournament in the state armory, was assistant trainer for Penn State's undefeated and untied football team which will play Southern Methodist University in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Believe it, or not, $10 is being charged for each ticket honoring the unbeaten, untied Brownsville (Pa.) High School football team December 15. Must have money to burn in that neck of the woods!

Here's something that a lot of present day baseball fans don't know:

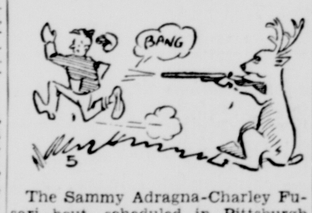

That a former resident of Piedmont (W. Va.) played with American, National and Federal League teams from 1907 through 1916.

He was Bill Louden, second baseman.

Bill was with the New York Highlanders (Yankees of today) in 1907, Detroit Tigers in 1912 and 1913; Buffalo of the Federal League in 1914 and 1915 and the Cincinnati Reds in 1916.

The deer season is in full swing but so far there have been no reports of hunters bagged by the antlered animals.

Our artist's conception of such a performance is shown below.

The Sammy Adragna-Charley Fusari bout, scheduled in Pittsburgh several weeks ago and postponed when the latter suffered an injury, has been rescheduled for Monday in the Smoky City.

Fusari is the New Jersey lad who has a long string of K. O. wins to his credit.

Aragna, who made a big hit in his lone appearance in Cumberland, is expected to give Fusari a good fight.

Quite a number of Cumberlanders plan to take in the show.

To the basketball fan who asked: Which team won the game last Friday at Chicago between the College All-Stars and the Indianapolis Kautskys, National League champions of last season?

The College All-stars won by the score of 68-62 before 20,207 fans in the Chicago Stadium.

Jack Laken, the fight manager, well known about this part of the country, is in a jam in Florida. He's facing a year's ban in six Florida cities along with a fighter he manages. Remember Eddie Finazzo, of the Baltimore Finazzos who have boxed in pro shows here in bygone days? He's the fighter involved. Eddie put on what was described as a "poor" fight with Lee Sala in Tampa.

To Challenge Winner

Pirates Obtain Romanus Basgall, Minor Loop Star

Bloodworth, Barnhart Are Sent To Montreal

By PAT ROBINSON

International News Service Sports Writer

MIAMI, Dec. 3 (INS)—The Pittsburgh Pirates relieved the trading famine at baseball's minor league convention with an announcement tonight that they had sold first baseman Elbie Fletcher to the Cleveland Indians for an undisclosed amount in cash.

The hustling Pittsburghers also closed a minor dicker with the champion Dodgers late in the day.

At the same time, Cleveland disposed of first baseman Les Fleming to the Indianapolis Club, of the American Association. It was said there was no connection between the Fleming and Fletcher deals, other than that Fletcher ostensibly was to replace Fleming on the Cleveland roster for 1948.

However, it seemed significant that Indianapolis was prominent among Pittsburgh's minor-league affiliates.

Pirates, Royals Swap

Pirate General Manager H. Roy Hamey had closed the Dodger deal by sending infielders Jimmy Bloodworth and Vic Barnhart to Brooklyn in exchange for second baseman Monty Basgall.

The latter was with Ft. Worth last season, Barnhart with Albany, of the Eastern League. Bloodworth played a split-season with Pittsburgh and Indianapolis.

Fletcher, waived out of the National League, of which he was the leading first baseman four years ago, injured his ankle in training last spring and saw little service during the 1947 season. He batted only .242. Other deals were presumably on the fire tonight, without having come to a boil.

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said that at least three clubs are seeking to land such Red standouts as catcher Ray Mueller, shortstop Eddie Miller and pitcher Johnny Vander Meer.

He indicated, however, that no transaction had been completed.

Managers Deny Trades

Bucky Harris, manager of the world champion New York Yankees, and Joe McCarthy, who will pilot the Boston Red Sox next season, flatly denied all trade rumors published and whispered.

The Red Sox had been credited with obtaining first baseman Mickey Vernon from the Washington Senators.

As an indication of the boom in baseball interest, George Trautman, czar of the minor leagues, said that at least half a dozen new minor leagues could be added to the present all-time high of 54.

He also pointed out that requirements for new leagues are now more stringent than ever before, and added that the National Association of Minor Leagues would go slow about increasing the number of circuits now in operation.

Minor league official activity tomorrow will center around several amendments to the major-minor league agreement, and a proposal barring the signing of American Legion players until the participants in this boys' baseball program cease to be eligible for legion play.

Several players were shuffled about today as follows:

Lopez To Pilot Hoosiers

Al Lopez, veteran major league catcher who has been with the Cleveland Indians of late, will manage the Indianapolis Club of the American Association next season.

Sacramento, of the Pacific Coast League, signed Joe Orengo, former St. Louis Cardinal infielder and coach, as manager. He succeeds Dick Bartell, who will manage Kansas City, of the American Association, next year.

Montreal, of the International League, recalled second baseman Romanus Basgall from Fort Worth, of the Texas League, and sent him to the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for second baseman Jimmy Bloodworth and third baseman Vic Barnhart.

Walcott Would Welcome Change In Bout Referee

Donovan Has Handled 12 Of Louis' Fights

BY GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The curtain of silence which has separated Jersey Joe Walcott from the outside world for the past week parted slightly today to permit the challenger's manager to say that both he and Jersey Joe would like to see some referee other than Arthur Donovan in the ring Friday night when they tackle Joe Lois at the Garden.

Arthur Donovan

"I am not questioning Donovan's ability, you understand," said Joe Webster, the Camden cafe proprietor who handles Walcott. Neither am I questioning his honesty. But he has handled most of the champion's fights and I think the fans, as well as myself and Walcott, would welcome a change."

A glance at the records shows that Donovan has, indeed, presided as the third man on 12 of the 23 occasions Louis has defended his title since he knocked out Jim Braddock in 1937. He worked the champion's most recent fight, when he knocked out Tami Maurello in the first round 14 months ago. Many qualified observers regard Donovan as the best in the business.

"I have no man in mind to suggest to the athletic commission," Webster continued. "Any one besides Donovan will delight me. I think this is a sportsmanlike request and I hope the board will act favorably on it."

Same Request Made Before

Walcott, himself, didn't say anything. Having finished his regular training yesterday in silence, the challenger—father of six—put on the finishing touches at Grenoch, N. J., today in a gymnasium session so private that even his sparring partners were made to stay in the yard.

It was after this clandestine gathering that the camp's publicity man, also excluded and no doubt beginning to crack under the strain, came up with Webster's request that Donovan sit this one out. Managers have made the same request before, but the commission never pays them any mind.

Louis once was asked facetiously if it were true that he carried a "house referee" with him (meaning Donovan), and the champion replied with a dead pan that it sure was. "Want to see it?" he asked, and held up his huge right fist for inspection.

The champ completed his boxing chores at Pompton Lakes, N. J., today, and plans no more than road work and setting-up exercises tomorrow. Among those who watched him throw punches today was Olle Tandberg, the Swedish heavyweight who might possibly find himself in the ring with Louis next summer if he isn't careful.

Champ Expects To Weigh 212

Walcott is expected to drive into the city late tomorrow and spend his last night before being hit by Louis at a local hotel. The champion and his retinue will motor in Friday morning just in time to attend the weigh-in at the Garden. He expects to scale about 212 to Walcott's 194. There was talk today that the odds against Walcott might mount to better than 10-to-1 before the bout.

Racing To Resume At Florida Track

Purses Are Boosted, Strike Is Called Off

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—Gulfstream Park's two days of enforced idleness was ended late today when President James Donn and some 200 horse owners reached a compromise agreement on the increase of minimum purses and daily distribution.

At an open meeting attended by track officials, some 200 horse owners and state racing commission members, Donn agreed to boost the minimum daily purse from $2,000 to $2,400 with the added stipulation that the daily distribution be not less than $22,000—exclusive of stake events.

The compromise — the horsemen originally demanded a minimum purse of $2,500—ended a stalemate which began last Sunday when the horsemen voted unanimously to demand the purse increase.

If the demand was refused, the horsemen voted, they would not enter any mounts for Tuesday's or any other day's racing.

122 High School Teams Saw Mountaineers Play

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 3—West Virginia University athletic officials said today 122 high school grid squads of this state, Ohio and Pennsylvania attended one or more of the Mountaineers' three big home football games against Kentucky, Virginia and Temple during the past season.

The high school athletes were guests of the university athletic management. Response to the plan was so great that officials have indicated a similar program will be in effect again next fall.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 3—(AP)—The Army football squad today elected William F. Yeoman of Glendale, Ariz., a center, as captain of the 1948 team. He succeeds Joe Steffy, Army's star guard.

Allegany Beagle Club Will Elect Officers Friday

Committees For 1948 Will Be Announced

The Allegany Beagle Club will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the Woodmen of the World Home, 144 Union Street. This will be the final regular monthly meeting of the year and will be featured by the election of officers and appointment of committees for 1948.

Friday night's meeting will round out a very successful year's program for the club which, during 1947, included holding a Tri-State Association Spring Derby trial, four club point trials, an AKC sanctioned all age trial and a final club championship winner's stake. Also during 1947, the club has stocked its grounds on McMullen Highway with approximately one hundred and fifty cottontail rabbits and has had an abundance of game for each field trial as well as for members to train their hounds, and another shipment of about 100 rabbits is on order for delivery during December to insure that the supply of game is maintained.

Another feature of the year's program has been the erection of a club house on the grounds, near Barton's Dairy, and it is now in use, although plans are already underway for its enlargement by adding a basement room and a porch to the present building. This feature of the club's progress has been made possible largely by the generosity and co-operation of Harry J. Barton, prominent Allegany County business man and sportsman. Plans have also been drawn for the erection of modern dog kennels on the premises near the club house and this work will be started in the very near future.

The club was organized about two and one half years ago with an original membership of about 20 local beaglers and since its organization, has grown to a membership of more than 100 members in the three states of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. It has obtained long term leases on more than 500 hundred acres of ground for running and training purposes and is now eligible to apply for an American Kennel Club license in order to hold licensed beagle trials. This step will be taken as soon as the club's building program is completed.

R. L. Spiker of Cumberland was the first president of the club and was succeeded by Judge Hugh Stevenson of Ellerslie, who has been president during 1947. T. James Stevenson of Cumberland has been the very efficient secretary-treasurer of the club ever since its organization.

Durocher To Manage Brooklyn, Paper Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Daily Mirror said in a copyrighted story tonight that Leo Durocher has signed a contract to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1948.

The Mirror said that Durocher flew from the west coast to Dodger President Branch Rickey's farm at Chestertown, Md., and there penned the contract today.

Rickey made his decision to rehire Durocher, who was under suspension during the 1947 season, after getting the green light from Commissioner A. B. Chandler at a conference in Cincinnati earlier this week, the Mirror said it had learned.

Durocher was suspended by Chandler for "conduct detrimental to baseball," at the start of the season. The suspension ended with the last game of the world series.

At the same time, the Mirror said it had learned from another source that Dixie Walker, hard-hitting Dodger outfielder, had been traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates and had already signed his Corsair contract for 1948.

Greenberg To Undergo Operation On Elbow

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—(INS)—Home run slugger Hank Greenberg will undergo an operation for removal of bone chips from his right elbow at Lenox Hill Hospital on Friday.

Announcement of the operation, ordered by doctors after an examination of X-Ray pictures, brought forth a recurrence of rumors that Greenberg probably will finish out his baseball days in New York.

A native New Yorker, Greenberg will be 37 years old on January 1, but is believed to be eager to play one year in his home town.

He attained fame as a slugger with the Detroit Tigers and was released after last season by the Pittsburgh Pirates, with whom he played only the one season.

He hit 25 home runs for the Pirates and compiled a batting average of .251.

Two Rough Assignments

Jersey Joe Walcott and Southern California have two rugged assignments this weekend.

One has to meet Joe Louis, and the other has to meet Notre Dame. Joe Louis and Notre Dame are not two opponents I'd care to meet in a dark alley, or anywhere else. Neither is invincible but they will do until something more invincible comes along. Michigan might be the answer in one case—but there is no substitute for Joe Louis.

Michigan men from the Midwest that I have talked to are confident the Wolverines could handle the Irish, through what they consider a much better backfield, headed by Chappius and Elliott. They concede Notre Dame the better line. We want no part of this argument.

Since there is no other way to decide the issue, Southern California has kindly consented to be the guinea pig. There is, of course, the chance that Southern California might rise up and beat both. But I don't believe the Trojans have the speed to beat either.

Both Notre Dame and Michigan are well supplied with fast backs who can move in a hurry and throw the ball. Lujack and Chappius happen to be two men who can wreck you through the air if you bar the way along the ground. I doubt that Southern California can stop either along the ground, although the loss of Terry Brennan won't help Notre Dame a bit. Terry Brennan, next to Johnny Lujack, was the best man on Frank Leahy's squad.

Southern California has a big, experienced line that isn't any too fast. Trojan line-up has a number of good backs, but no great ones. The Trojans also have two fine ends. It is the type of team that well keyed up can furnish trouble to anyone. The manpower is there in abundance.

So far, the western defenders have shown neither the alertness nor the speed to beat two such teams as Notre Dame and Michigan. The UCLA game proved this point, a game Southern California barely won and might easily have lost by sounder UCLA quarterbacking on the four-yard line.

It is a tough break for a team to go this far unbeaten and suddenly, after turning the corner, find Notre Dame and Michigan in the road.

Notre Dame scouts that I have talked to are picking Notre Dame to win something like 21 to 0. Any score approaching this result would take quite an edge off the Rose Bowl game, compared to the other three major bowls, all high-class shows.

One Southern Cal Break

Southern California enjoys one happy break. It doesn't face as hard an assignment as Joe Walcott tackles. Beating Notre Dame is not impossible, but beating Joe Louis has been impossible for ten years. I can't recall any football team that has gone unbeaten for ten years.

If anything has happened to slow up Louis, if time has taken any part of its expected toll, Louis hasn't shown it. He has looked better in training than he looked to be before either the Conn or the Maurello undertakings. He is punching and boxing as well as he ever did and, unless Walcott can find some opening for a stunning punch, in the wake of a mad gamble, he looks to outclass Jersey Joe.

Pacific Coast football has been at a low ebb for several seasons. It was at a record ebb in 1945 and 1946 when Alabama and Illinois turned the Rose Bowl into something known as a shambles. Neither game was a contest.

The West Coast has come back a certain distance, but hardly far enough to be what it was under the guidance of Pop Warner, Howard Jones, Jimmy Phelan and Buck Shaw. Howard Jones never lost a Rose Bowl game. They are just as big out there as they used to be, but they don't seem to be fast or as alert. But you can't blame all of this on the coaches. There has also been a slump in material.

A Southern California victory would knock this estimate cockeyed, and it could happen to an inspired Trojan squad. It may be that this big Southern California team, in a savage defense of the prestige of West Coast football, will outplay itself against two better opponents and supply the football world with an upset.

Jersey Joe Walcott has no such opening. He is meeting a fine boxer and a deadly puncher with either hand, an opponent who has a big edge in both departments of the ring game. He is giving away something like 15 pounds and he has no exuberant youth to call on.

Jersey Joe is in a much rougher spot than Southern California is. He will need the miracle of all miracles to win, where the Trojan outfit will only need part of a miracle—maybe a one third or one half. It would be no great shock if Southern California beat Notre Dame. But a Walcott victory would rock the foundations of sport, and make every form player throw away the past-performance sheet.

In both cases it is largely a matter of the number of rounds—and the final score. How many rounds—how big a score? At least this is what the so-called, if any, smart ones are now working on.

What about four rounds for the fight and 14 to 0 for the football games, Louis and Notre Dame being the two favorites? This seems to be a trifle on the conservative side, but with Terry Brennan missing, the South Bend Simeon loses part of its gusty force.

Tatum In Favor Of All-Star Tilt, Bill Meek Says

Assistant Grid Coach Is Heard By Jaycees

William "Bill" Meek, assistant coach of the University of Maryland's football team, declared that "Big Jim" Tatum, head coach of the Terrapins, favors the suggestion that an all-star game be played annually between scholastic elevens of Western Maryland and Baltimore City and that a state basketball tournament be staged each year with Baltimore City quints included.

The one-time Tennessee backfield star made these remarks as a guest speaker at the dinner meeting of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Meek, who quarterbacked University of Tennessee teams in 1940, 1941 and 1942, coached the national service champions of Fort Benning in 1946 and played with the Vols in Sugar Bowl games against Boston College and Tulsa, came here to pinch-hit for Tatum, who was unable to keep his appointment because of Maryland's practice which began yesterday for the Gator Bowl game with Georgia's Bulldogs on New Year's Day in Jacksonville, Florida.

The speaker explained that Tatum regretted his inability to come here but hoped to come to Cumberland at a later date to show pictures of the Gator Bowl contest.

The speaker, who was introduced by Floyd "Sammy" Cozad, program chairman of the Jaycees, stressed the fact that Maryland will be competing in its first bowl game and this is Tatum's first year as coach at the College Park school.

Meek showed movies of the scoring plays in the Vanderbilt-Maryland game which the Terps won at Knoxville on November 22 by the score of 20-6. He gave a running commentary on the film.

The Terps assistant backfield coach had high praise for Fred Davis, former Fort Hill High School player, who is playing right end for the Maryland eleven.

Another speaker was City Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller, who played quarterback on the first Maryland team organized in 1892 when the institution was known as Maryland Agricultural College.

Fuller recalled the first game the team played, which was with Alexandria, Va., High School. The college team won 10-4. He commented on the various changes in the rules since his day, recalling that there were no substitutions and that players would play 35 to 40 minutes halves with no subs. If a player was injured he was taken out of the game and nobody went in for him, Fuller said.

Coaches present at the dinner were Jesse Riggleman of Ridgeley; William P. Hahn of Fort Hill; Bruce Fisher of Bedford and Joseph Hoopengardner of Beall High.

Bags 15th Deer

George C. Gore, 17 South Waverly Terrace, bagged a five-point, 150-pound deer on Monday, the first day of the open season, in Pennsylvania near Lake Koon.

Gore has felled 15 deer and one bear over a period of 20 years.

WAGERING AT MAJOR TRACKS IN MARYLAND EXCEEDS 95 MILLION

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3—(AP)—Laurel was the only one of Maryland's four big horse racing tracks to enjoy increased betting which this year amounted to $95,178,632, a drop of $6,405,224 from the all-time record of 1946.

Laurel betting was up $1,864,374 to $23,649,019 while Bowie, Havre De Grace and Pimlico all experienced a slackening off at the pari-mutuel windows. The season closed last Saturday at Bowie.

Pimlico took in the most, $27,444,150, but the total was $3,582,836 less than last year. Bowie's total of $21,801,632 was off $2,295,656, and the Havre De Grace take of $22,283,681 was down $2,391,106.

The state will get [illegible] cent of the total bet, twice as much as last year.

Adragna, Fusari To Clash

Police Commissioner William Vincent Keegan informs us that Gerald "Jerry" Molloy, the clown prince of basketball arbiters, will be accompanied to Cumberland by Vinnie Farrell, another college referee, when he pays his annual visit during the Yule season.

Jerry Molloy

Molloy worked a pro game the other night and called Keegan on the phone to say hello, adding that he and Farrell will be here with bells on late this month.

"Jerry" and Vinnie will work two of LaSalle's games during the holidays.

The All-America Conference refuses to ignore the National Football League although the senior circuit has been acting awful snooty. At AA games in New York they announce National League scores.

Glad to hear Earle "Greasy" Neale landed a three-year contract as coach of the Philadelphia Eagles.

We remember "Oil" from the Middle Atlantic League days when he managed Clarksburg (W.Va.) Generals. Neale played in the outfield for the Cincinnati Reds and Phillies from 1916 through 1921.

Now that Charles Town's 18-day race meeting is under way, Albert J. Boyle, president and general manager, wants it known that the West Virginia track has not been sold, as rumors have it.

Trainer Vincent Glorioso, former contract rider for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, is at the Charles Town track handling Red Wrack, Aylesbury and Red Oak for Mrs. Mary Knieriem, of Cumberland.

Jack Tighe, Penn State's 165-pound Eastern Intercollegiate boxing champion of 1946, will spearhead Coach Leo Houck's 26th Nittany Lion ring team this winter.

Tighe, who appeared here last June to give a boxing demonstration at the American Legion's tournament in the state armory, was assistant trainer for Penn State's undefeated and untied football team which will play Southern Methodist University in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Believe it, or not, $10 is being charged for each ticket honoring the unbeaten, untied Brownsville (Pa.) High School football team December 15. Must have money to burn in that neck of the woods!

Here's something that a lot of present day baseball fans don't know:

That a former resident of Piedmont (W. Va.) played with American, National and Federal League teams from 1907 through 1916.

He was Bill Louden, second baseman.

Bill was with the New York Highlanders (Yankees of today) in 1907, Detroit Tigers in 1912 and 1913; Buffalo of the Federal League in 1914 and 1915 and the Cincinnati Reds in 1916.

The deer season is in full swing but so far there have been no reports of hunters bagged by the antlered animals.

Our artist's conception of such a performance is shown below.

The Sammy Adragna-Charley Fusari bout, scheduled in Pittsburgh several weeks ago and postponed when the latter suffered an injury, has been rescheduled for Monday in the Smoky City.

Fusari is the New Jersey lad who has a long string of K. O. wins to his credit.

Aragna, who made a big hit in his lone appearance in Cumberland, is expected to give Fusari a good fight.

Quite a number of Cumberlanders plan to take in the show.

To the basketball fan who asked: Which team won the game last Friday at Chicago between the College All-Stars and the Indianapolis Kautskys, National League champions of last season?

The College All-stars won by the score of 68-62 before 20,207 fans in the Chicago Stadium.

Jack Laken, the fight manager, well known about this part of the country, is in a jam in Florida. He's facing a year's ban in six Florida cities along with a fighter he manages. Remember Eddie Finazzo, of the Baltimore Finazzos who have boxed in pro shows here in bygone days? He's the fighter involved. Eddie put on what was described as a "poor" fight with Lee Sala in Tampa.

To Challenge Winner

Pirates Obtain Romanus Basgall, Minor Loop Star

Bloodworth, Barnhart Are Sent To Montreal

By PAT ROBINSON

International News Service Sports Writer

MIAMI, Dec. 3 (INS)—The Pittsburgh Pirates relieved the trading famine at baseball's minor league convention with an announcement tonight that they had sold first baseman Elbie Fletcher to the Cleveland Indians for an undisclosed amount in cash.

The hustling Pittsburghers also closed a minor dicker with the champion Dodgers late in the day.

At the same time, Cleveland disposed of first baseman Les Fleming to the Indianapolis Club, of the American Association. It was said there was no connection between the Fleming and Fletcher deals, other than that Fletcher ostensibly was to replace Fleming on the Cleveland roster for 1948.

However, it seemed significant that Indianapolis was prominent among Pittsburgh's minor-league affiliates.

Pirates, Royals Swap

Pirate General Manager H. Roy Hamey had closed the Dodger deal by sending infielders Jimmy Bloodworth and Vic Barnhart to Brooklyn in exchange for second baseman Monty Basgall.

The latter was with Ft. Worth last season, Barnhart with Albany, of the Eastern League. Bloodworth played a split-season with Pittsburgh and Indianapolis.

Fletcher, waived out of the National League, of which he was the leading first baseman four years ago, injured his ankle in training last spring and saw little service during the 1947 season. He batted only .242. Other deals were presumably on the fire tonight, without having come to a boil.

Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said that at least three clubs are seeking to land such Red standouts as catcher Ray Mueller, shortstop Eddie Miller and pitcher Johnny Vander Meer.

He indicated, however, that no transaction had been completed.

Managers Deny Trades

Bucky Harris, manager of the world champion New York Yankees, and Joe McCarthy, who will pilot the Boston Red Sox next season, flatly denied all trade rumors published and whispered.

The Red Sox had been credited with obtaining first baseman Mickey Vernon from the Washington Senators.

As an indication of the boom in baseball interest, George Trautman, czar of the minor leagues, said that at least half a dozen new minor leagues could be added to the present all-time high of 54.

He also pointed out that requirements for new leagues are now more stringent than ever before, and added that the National Association of Minor Leagues would go slow about increasing the number of circuits now in operation.

Minor league official activity tomorrow will center around several amendments to the major-minor league agreement, and a proposal barring the signing of American Legion players until the participants in this boys' baseball program cease to be eligible for legion play.

Several players were shuffled about today as follows:

Lopez To Pilot Hoosiers

Al Lopez, veteran major league catcher who has been with the Cleveland Indians of late, will manage the Indianapolis Club of the American Association next season.

Sacramento, of the Pacific Coast League, signed Joe Orengo, former St. Louis Cardinal infielder and coach, as manager. He succeeds Dick Bartell, who will manage Kansas City, of the American Association, next year.

Montreal, of the International League, recalled second baseman Romanus Basgall from Fort Worth, of the Texas League, and sent him to the Pittsburgh Pirates in exchange for second baseman Jimmy Bloodworth and third baseman Vic Barnhart.

Advice To The Lovelorn

You Can't Force Love, 18-Year-Old Wife And Mother Is Advised

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18, married, and have a baby seven months old. I have been married five months.

My husband and I did not get along together right after we were married. Last month he got us a home of our own, but he is hardly ever there with us. Could it be that he doesn't love either me or his daughter?

I do everything he wants me to do, and I never cause any arguments between us. It is always he who starts them. My husband and my baby are my whole life and if I should lose either of them, my life would be ruined.

"CRIS"

Dear "Cris":

Since your baby is seven months old and you have been married only five, I am wondering if the reason for the friction between yourself and your husband might perhaps be due to the fact that he resents having had to marry you.

Of course I may be wrong in this, and he may have been truly in love with you at the time of your marriage, but what you say about the two of you never having got along from the time you were married makes me wonder. It could be, of course, that he had never expected to marry you and so resents finding himself saddled both with a wife and a child. Any such attitude on his part would be completely unfair, of course, but nevertheless it is to be considered.

About all you can do right now is to try and make your home such a happy place that your husband will want to be in it. You can't force him to stay there or to treat you lovingly if he is not inclined to do so. You can only try to make yourself the kind of person he can't help loving.

She's Interested In Blind Man

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About a year ago I was introduced to a blind fellow at a dance. He is a lot of fun and so self-confident that I did not know he was blind until one of his friends told me. I have been in his company several times since and have grown quite fond of him.

I would like to take him to a dance. Do you think it would be all right for me to ask him, since he has never asked me for a date, and, if so, how can I do it so that he won't think I am asking him just because I feel sorry for him?

"BLONDIE"

Dear "Blondie":

I don't think you need worry about this young man thinking you are merely sorry for him if you invite him to the dance. On the contrary, I think the very fact that you did invite him would make him feel that you must like him for himself.

People who have handicaps seem somehow to sense instinctively how other people feel toward them, and they know the difference between pity and real friendliness. If you ask this boy in a perfectly natural way to go with you to the dance, I am sure he will respond just as naturally and be delighted that you take him for granted just as you would any other of your boy friends. You needn't be concerned about inviting him before he has ever asked you for a date. He may feel a little shy about doing so and will be grateful to you for taking the initiative.

"I'm SOLD on YOU" SAYS Personal's YES MAN

C. L. Coughenour YES MAN

● When I say that I'm sold on local people my statement is based on knowledge — on the hundreds of loans I've made to them during the past 12 months, many on salary alone, others on car or furniture.

I know that folks in this community are reliable and use common sense in managing their affairs. That's why I can say "Yes" to 4 out of 5 who ask me for a loan—oftentimes making loans that others won't.

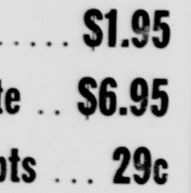

Don't borrow unnecessarily, but if increased living expenses are making things difficult, a loan may be the sensible solution to your problem. If it is, telephone or come in today.

PARSONS, W. Va.—An invitation to the Golden Gloves Tournament in Huntington is in sight for the Tucker County Boys Club, which was started here les than three months ago and already boasts a membership of more than 500 boys between the ages of 15 and 21, from the towns of Parsons, Davis, and Thomas.

Dick Luzier started the club in late August to teach a few boys how to box. From a nucleus of three boys, the club has grown to a point where Luzier's full time is demanded in the training of the boys.

Since the start of the club, several inter-town matches have been held, and twice the boys have gone to the Prison Security Farm at Huttonsville for matches as guests of Warden Briers. They also have held matches at Silver Lake and Twin Springs.

A Davis youth, Frank Zardoni, who had never seen a boxing match until the Club was started, immediately caught the attention of Luzier and of "Pudge" Stalnaker, Elkins, who referees all the matches. Zardoni has won all of his five matches, and has been featured in several exhibition matches. He won his last match in four rounds from "Buck" Stalnaker, Elkins. If Zardoni goes to Huntington, he will be the first Tucker County boy ever to have been accorded that honor.

Luzier Needs Help

Due to the outstanding work done by Luzier, and to the rapid growth of the club, he feels that he cannot handle the work alone with only volunteer part-time work. Luzier personally financed the purchase of several hundred dollars' worth of equipment needed in order to train the boys.

Since October, a talent group of boys and girls has been added to the club in Parsons. Members have appeared at shows in the American Legion home at Elkins, the American Legion at Thomas, and have presented a show for the P-TA of Hamrick School. They are featured each Saturday evening at the Moose lodge in Parsons. The members present vocal and instrumental solos and duets, tap and acrobatic dancing, and string selections. Luzier is now engaged in the organization of a similar club in Davis.

The Parsons club will present a benefit show in the Parsons Gymnasium, Saturday, December 6, featuring Singing Sam Raeburn, Beckley. The club has also accepted an invitation to return to the Security Farm in Huttonsville to present their program there on December 19, and will present their show at the Children's Home in Elkins this month.

Keyser Will Give Drivers Break On Parking Tickets

City Fathers Discuss Home Rule Charter

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER—In an effort to give motorists a break, a novel method of handling meter violators was decided on at the regular meeting of the Mayor and City Council Tuesday afternoon.

A meter will be installed in the City Office and in the Police Department for a motorist to report and insert a nickel in one of the two meters within an hour after a ticket is issued. However, if a motorist appears an hour after he has been tagged the $1 fine will be assessed.

This plan was decided on as many people return to their cars only a few minutes after they are tagged, Mayor Freeland explained, and that those should not be fined as much as the flagrant violator.

Discussions were held on the possibility of adopting a "home rule charter," whereby more initiative would be given to local government; and the establishment of a police pension fund. No definite action was taken on either.

A permit to construct a one-stall garage at 213 North Water Street was granted to Howard E. Turbin. The structure is to be of frame with a composition roof, 10 by 18 feet at an approximate cost of $100.

Permission was also granted to W. G. Pulliam to hang an electric sign in front of the Pulliam place of business, 19 Armstrong Street.

Suit Is Filed

A civil suit for damages and injuries received in an automobile accident in August, 1947, was filed in Circuit Court Tuesday with Garnett Crane, the plaintiff, asking $15,000 of Carrie Lee.

The accident is alleged to have taken place on West Virginia Route 7, August 23 when Crane was a passenger in a car owned by Carrie Lee and driven by Arch E. Lee, her husband. The plaintiff contends he received bodily injuries, external and internal, when he was thrown from the car driven at a violent and reckless rate of speed.

W.C.T.U. Meets

"Isaiah's Prophecy of the Coming of Our Lord" and "Luke's Account of His Birth" were the scriptures given by Mrs. I. S. Long at the December meeting of the W.C.T.U. held at the home of Mrs. W. S. Secrist, 404 South Main Street, recently.

Mrs. Birdie Shobe presided over the program which also included the story "The Singing Shepherd," by Mrs. Long.

A word picture of a Christmas eve in a little cottage was given by Mrs. Charles Steiding who also told the story of the "Christmas Candle".

A short playlet, "The Way Openeth," was presented by Mrs. Grace Entler, Mrs. Birdie Shobe, Mrs. Fred Norwood and Miss Anna Leary.

At the business meeting which followed it was reported that there are now 88 members in the Union with 18 new members reported. After an exchange of gifts, refreshments were served to the 47 guests.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3 (INS)—Ingrid Bergman is reading "The Heiress" in answer to an offer made her to star in the role Wendy Hiller created on the stage.

Vivien Leigh

In New York, everyone raves about the play, but I was disappointed in Wendy Hiller, who was so wonderful in "Pygmalion," but I seem to be alone in that opinion.

Basil Rathbone, who plays her father, is excellent. A funny thing, he was at the Sherman Billingsley party for me, and he was having such a good time. He said, "I hate to leave, but I dont have an understudy so I can't miss a performance."

Next day, he took his dogs out for a walk and fell and had to miss two performances, and the show did, indeed, close down until he was able to return.

Jeffrey Lynn was one of the last of the boys who went to war to get back into civilian life. He didn't return to Hollywood until Aug. 1946, and, therefore, he was a little slow in being reconverted to civilian life. But now a break has come his way.

He has been signed to play opposite Dorothy Lamour in "Let's Fall In Love." Jeffery plays a slave-driving movie director who is a perfectionist and very disliked. When Lamour becomes the amour of his life, everything is changed, and he builds her into a big star.

Jeffrey's doubly glad he's got a job now because, as we told you a few days ago, his wife expects a baby in June.

Bob Hope flew into New York without any wardrobe, the only clothes he had were on his back. He gave the rest away to people in England who had had no new clothes since the war.

So Mack Millar took him on a shopping tour and if you don't think Bob is a good will ambassador, you should have seen the crowds. They stampeded him, shouting, "How's England, Bob? What did the King and Queen say?" Seems everyone read Inez Robb's story about Bob and the laughs he gave the King and Queen.

Just what Bob is going to do about his radio contract will be decided later. I doubt very much if he will be permitted to leave—not with that Hooper rating.

Chatter from London: After a separation of five years, Margaret Lockwood, England's top box office star, is finally getting a divorce from Rupert Leon. (Don't confuse him with her business manager, Herbert De Leon—no relation).

The reason the divorce was so long held up is that Leon refused to permit his popular wife to divorce him—hoping for a reconciliation. Her tangled marital status is one reason she never accepted an offer to come to Hollywood.

Everybody wants Vivien Leigh for a movie, but RKO is so hot on her trail for "The Captain Was A Lady" that producer William Pererira leaves here Saturday to sail on the Queen Mary to try personally to get Vivien's signature on a contract.

In these days of economy, movie companies aren't sending emissaries on wild goose chases unless there's really something up.

What happened is that Vivien read the script in London and is completely sold on it. What practically cinches it is that she will not have to come to Hollywood next Summer as the picture will be shot in London and Scotland, and not until after she returns from Australia with the old Vic company.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The fans were lined up a foot deep at the Biltmore opening of "Angel Street." Why not—with Gregory Peck and Laraine Day in the cast and so many stars in the audience to applaud them?

The Joseph Cottens came with Gretchen Peck and Joe sat with her. Charles Coburn got a terrific hand when he walked into the theatre.

The Don De Fores were among the early arrivals. Charles Korvin also was there a full half hour before curtain time.

Jack Oakie, resplendent with a red carnation, and much added weight, came with Vicki Horne. Wonder if those two are ever going to get married?

Laraine Day gave a fine dramatic performance. I saw Judith Evelyn on the stage in New York in this part and I must say Laraine, I thought, was even better as the frightened wife. As for Gregory, he was good enough to get a few hisses in his meanest moments when trying to get rid of friend wife.

Bruce Cabot was with Marilyn Walsh Phillips, Lorraine Walsh's pretty daughter. They were in a party with Anita Colby, her sister and others. "Why," I asked Anita, "did you deny the story you yourself gave me about Frank Ryan?" Anita just laughed.

Collier Young, Ida Lupino's fiance, is very ill with intestinal flu.

Just what I'd expect of Tyrone Power. Even though he and Lana Turner have parted, he brought Little Cheryl some beautiful gifts from Europe.

That's all today.

Red Skelton To Be Guest Of Al Jolson Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Dec. 3—A quiz show previously projected, but the start of which was delayed, finally gets under way on the MBS network Thursday night at 9:30. It's called RFD America all because the contestants are to be farmers, and the questions are to have an agriculture slant.

Handling the queries will be Joe Kelly, he from the Quiz Kids of NBC Sunday afternoons. Besides all the other things, the prizes are supposed to be in keeping with the farm.

Because this program is at 9:30, the former occupant of that time, Block Party, has had to get out. Hereafter, or until later change, it will rest at 8:30.

Red Skelton is to do an extra broadcast this week by showing up in the Music Hall now headlined on NBC at 9 by Al Jolson. Oscar Levant, ex-Information Please, is the other regular in the present series of the hall.

Barry Fitzgerald, movie maker in the acting division, has a radio assignment at 10 to appear in the Family Theater of MBS. The script he is to read in co-operation with other actors bears the title of "Oh, Romeo, My Romeo." . . . Eileen Farrell and William Hess are to do the singing for the School of the Air's Gates to Music on CBS at 1.

Senator Glen H. Taylor of Idaho is billed to talk ABC at 10:30 about "The High Cost of Living."

Radio In Review

By JOHN CROSBY

Coffee and Extra-Sensory Perception

The husband and wife breakfast programs in which a married couple chatter amiably and aimlessly about the celebrities they run around with, one another's idiosyncracies and the products of their eighteen sponsors appear on the surface to be such a comfortable way to earn a living that everyone is trying to get into the act. It isn't easy. The couples that slipped in early are deeply intrenched and nothing short of death is going to cut them loose from this lucrative industry.

John Crosby

If you want to enter the profession at this late date, you must have something more than a marriage license and a few glamorous acquaintances. You must have a new wrinkle. The other day in Danton Walker's column I read of the newest and most revolutionary wrinkle since marriage was commercialized. A couple of mind readers, said Mr. Walker, were preparing a radio program which would combine connubial conversation with extra-sensory perception.

The idea is so pregnant with possibilities that I'm going to review this show before it opens. Just sit back, close your eyes and open your minds as wide as possible. As the curtain rises, we find Mr. and Mrs. Mentalist sitting down at the breakfast table, their appearance and their brains still a little frowzy from chasing celebrities around nightclubs all evening.

WIFE: Good morning, darling. I'm sorry about your hangover.

HUSBAND: Don't be so extra-sensory so early in the morning. Pass the. . . .

WIFE: It's right there at your elbow.

HUSBAND: Aaah, what fragrance! What bouquet! What coffee! I keep telling myself. . . .

WIFE: You keep telling yourself that no other coffee is blended from forty-two varieties of coffee bean. All shade grown except two which are grown in total darkness. You keep telling yourself for flavor, nutrition, economy it's Boucher's eight to five. And—now, don't tell me—I can see a little jingle leaping through your mind.

"Boucher's Coffee, yessirree, "Body, flavor, economy . . . ."

HUSBAND: There's no reason for both of us being on this program. I might as well go back to bed.

WIFE: Don't act like that, sweetie lamb. Pass the . . . Thank you.

HUSBAND: If I could slip a little mind-reading in here edgewise, Madge, I'd like to say that it won't do you the slightest good to keep thinking about the mink coat we saw on Rita Hayworth at the Stork Club last night. We can't afford it until we get some more sponsors.

WIFE: You might as well wash Rita Hayworth out of your skull too, lambchop. You couldn't get within arm's reach.

HUSBAND: (Stiffly) The thought of Miss Hayworth hasn't crossed my mind.

WIFE: I didn't say it had crossed. It's just standing there. And she hasn't any mink coat on either.

HUSBAND: Madge, I've told you a dozen times to stay out of that corner of my mind. A man's got to have some privacy.

WIFE: Now, hold still. I think I can work in a commercial. Yes sir, folks Rita is wearing one of the new Formflex slips, $3.95 at all drugstores. Guaranteed to hold its color and shape through snow, sleet and tornadoes. Swing and sway the Formflex way. Shaped to fit your budget as well as your body.

HUSBAND: Formflex slips may also be purchased at gas stations and most licensed saloons.

WIFE: Okay, Rita, you can slip that mink coat back on.

HUSBAND: If you'd stop rummaging around my mind for a moment, I'd like to take a small peek into your attic, my love.

WIFE: Go ahead, sugar plum. You won't find anything but thoughts of purest evil.

HUSBAND: Lordy, what a mess! A mind as disorderly as that is a disgrace to the profession. How do you find anything in it? There are four ideas that have been lying there for six months. They're getting a little moldy around the edges. And over there are a couple of half completed insults about your husband.

WIFE: I'm still working on them.

HUSBAND: What is Robert Taylor doing here?

WIFE: I'll give you two guesses, my lord and master.

HUSBAND: Oh, look there's Orson Welles lying under that grand piano you wished I'd let you buy. And right next to him is Darryl Zanuck whom we saw at 21 last night. Hi, Darryl! Guess what he's eating.

WIFE: Minsk Mints. The mint that's shaped to fit your budget as well as your bicuspid.

HUSBAND: That's exactly right. How did you manage to read the green-and-white label over the rest of the debris that clutters up your cranium.

WIFE: I stood on tiptoe, honey pie.

HUSBAND: Aaaah, good old Minsk Mints! Sweeten your breath with the odor of Old Russia. Minsk Mints cleans the gums, elevates the mind and cures warts.

Well, I'm afraid our time is up. See you tomorrow same time, same station.

Market Suffers Sharp Reverse; Leaders Lose One To Two Points

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The stock market suffered one of its sharpest reverses of the past month today with many leaders losing one to two points.

Total transactions of 920,000 shares compared with 850,000 on Tuesday.

New 1947 lows were touched by Pepsi-Cola which closed down one at 23, and by Twentieth Century-Fox, off 1⅜ at 22⅜. Declines of a point or more also were registered by Bethlehem at 98⅛, Youngstown Sheet at 75, American Smelting (ex-dividend) at 5, Johns-Manville at 41, Union Bag and Paper (after a stock offering) at 29⅞, American Woolen at 41½, Caterpillar Tractor at 55, Owens-Illinois at 69½, Santa Fe at 82¾ and International Paper at 53¾.

Public Service of New Jersey, after reaching a new low for the year, rebounded to finish up one-fourth at 20½. Other gainers included American Can, Yale and Towne (on dividend news), Woolworth and Standard Oil (N. J.).

Backsliders in the curb were Creole Petroleum, Northrop Aircraft, National Union Radio, Pantepec Oil and Kaiser-Frazer. Moving forward were Murray Ohio Manufacturing and Raytheon. Turnover of 230,000 shares here compared with 180,000 yesterday.

Selected rail issues were singled out for selling targets in the bond market but generally gains and losses were too well mixed to establish a decisive trend.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market held steady, the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 remaining at 101 bid.

Sales totaled $5,160,000, against $4,540,000 Tuesday.

Today's Talk

Pleasant People

We all like to meet pleasant people. They seem to be surrounded by an aroma of good will. I am reminded of a line that was engraved upon the tombstone of a young girl, somewhere in New England, I believe. It read: "She was so pleasant." What an epitaph to bear in mind and to remember!

We like pleasant people as neighbors, as companions, and as friends. It is something for each one of us to cultivate—ourselves to be pleasant at all times! At a recent luncheon I met Harold E. Stassen, the former Governor of Minnesota. I was most impressed with his open, intelligent and kindly personality. I have no idea whether or not he will ever be President of the United States, but he is a most pleasant and inspiring man to meet and know. And I believe he would make a fine President. He is so pleasant, and genuinely friendly.

There are people whom we all dislike to meet, for they are so unpleasant. I have always wondered why such people choose to be that way. It jails them away from so much that is beautiful and worthwhile in life—especially from warm friendships.

What is so happily inspiring as pleasant surroundings with pleasant people? All of us meet unpleasant experiences, but we can hold to our pleasantness through them all, if we will but decide to do so. It pays, too, handsomely, in the end! What an asset a pleasant home is, or a pleasant office, or a pleasant hotel. A friend of mine engaged rooms in a noted hotel last summer, but they made it so unpleasant for him that he left after two days. Greedy for the most gain they overcrowded their place and the service was bad.

Some of the most pleasant people I have ever met have been in railroad trains and on steamships, while traveling. You always look for them when lonely, or away from home. For nearly twenty years I have vacationed in Canada. I like the Canadian people for they are so pleasant and hospitable. Pleasantness can be a nation's greatest asset!

The photograph says: "Look pleasant, please!" Why should he have to say that? Why shouldn't a person want to look pleasant, without an extra urge?

SALLY'S SALLIES

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Coffee and Extra-Sensory Perception

The husband and wife breakfast programs in which a married couple chatter amiably and aimlessly about the celebrities they run around with, one another's idiosyncracies and the products of their eighteen sponsors, appear on the surface to be such a comfortable way to earn a living that everyone is trying to get into the act. It isn't easy. The couples that slipped in early are deeply intrenched and nothing short of death is going to cut them loose from this lucrative industry.

John Crosby

If you want to enter the profession at this late date, you must have something more than a marriage license and a few glamorous acquaintances. You must have a new wrinkle. The other day in Danton Walker's column I read of the newest and most revolutionary wrinkle since marriage was commercialized. A couple of mind readers, said Mr. Walker, were preparing a radio program which would combine connubial conversation with extra-sensory perception.

The idea is so pregnant with possibilities that I'm going to review this show before it opens. Just sit back, close your eyes and open your minds as wide as possible. As the curtain rises, we find Mr. and Mrs. Mentalist sitting down at the breakfast table, their appearance and their brains still a little frowzy from chasing celebrities around nightclubs all evening:

WIFE: Good morning, darling. I'm sorry about your hangover.

HUSBAND: Don't be so extra-sensory so early in the morning. Pass the . . .

WIFE: It's right there at your elbow.

HUSBAND: Aaah, what fragrance! What bouquet! What coffee! I keep telling myself . . .

WIFE: You keep telling yourself that no other coffee is blended from forty-two varieties of coffee bean. All shade grown except two which are grown in total darkness. You keep telling yourself for flavor, nutrition, economy it's Boucher's eight to five. And—now, don't tell me—I can see a little jingle leaping through your mind.

"Boucher's Coffee, yessirree,
"Body, flavor, economy . . . ."

HUSBAND: There's no reason for both of us being on this program. I might as well go back to bed.

WIFE: Don't act like that, sweetie lamb. Pass the . . . Thank you.

HUSBAND: If I could slip a little mind-reading in here edgewise, Madge, I'd like to say that it won't do you the slightest good to keep thinking about the mink coat we saw on Rita Hayworth at the Stork Club last night. We can't afford it until we get some more sponsors.

WIFE: You might as well wash Rita Hayworth out of your skull too, lambchop. You couldn't get within arm's reach.

HUSBAND: (Stiffly) The thought of Miss Hayworth hasn't crossed my mind.

WIFE: I didn't say it had crossed. It's just standing there. And she hasn't any mink coat on either.

HUSBAND: Madge, I've told you a dozen times to stay out of that corner of my mind. A man's got to have some privacy. . . .

WIFE: Now, hold still. I think I can work a swell commercial. Yes sir, folks Rita is wearing one of the new Formflex slips, $3.95 at all drugstores. Guaranteed to hold its color and shape through snow, sleet and tornadoes. Swing and sway the Formflex way. Shaped to fit your budget as well as your body.

HUSBAND: Formflex slips may also be purchased at gas stations and most licensed saloons.

WIFE: Okay, Rita, you can slip that mink coat back on.

HUSBAND: If you'd stop rummaging around my mind for a moment, I'd like to take a small peek into your attic, my love.

WIFE: Go ahead, sugar plum. You won't find anything but thoughts of purest evil.

HUSBAND: Lordy, what a mess. A mind as disorderly as that is a disgrace to the profession. How do you find anything in it? There are four ideas that have been lying there for six months. They've getting a little moldy around the edges. And over there are a couple of half completed insults about your husband.

WIFE: I'm still working on them.

HUSBAND: What is Robert Taylor doing here?

WIFE: I'll give you two guesses, my lord and master.

HUSBAND: Oh, look there's Orson Welles lying under that grand piano you wished I'd let you buy. And right next to him is Darryl Zanuck whom we saw at 21 last night. Hi, Darryl! Guess what he's eating.

WIFE: Minsk Mints. The mint that's shaped to fit your budget as well as your bicuspid.

HUSBAND: That's exactly right. How did you manage to read the green-and-white label over the rest of the debris that clutters up your cranium.

WIFE: I stood on tiptoe, honey pie.

HUSBAND: Aaaah, good old Minsk Mints! Sweeten your breath with the odor of Old Russia. Minsk Mints cleans the gums, elevates the mind and cures warts.

Well, I'm afraid our time is up. See you tomorrow same time, same station.

Market Suffers Sharp Reverse; Leaders Lose One To Two Points

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — The stock market suffered one of its sharpest reverses of the past month today with many leaders losing one to two points.

Total transactions of 920,000 shares compared with 850,000 on Tuesday.

New 1947 lows were touched by Pepsi-Cola which closed down one at 23, and by Twentieth Century-Fox, off 1⅜ at 22⅝. Declines of a point or more also were registered by Bethlehem at 98¼, Youngstown Sheet at 75, American Smelting (ex-dividend) at 5, Johns-Manville at 43, Union Bag and Paper (after stock offering) at 29⅝, American Woolen at 41½, Caterpillar Tractor at 55, Owens-Illinois at 69½, Santa Fe at 82¾ and International Paper at 53¾.

Public Service of New Jersey, after reaching a new low for the year, rebounded to finish up one-fourth at 20½. Other gainers included American Can, Yale and Towne (on dividend news), Woolworth and Standard Oil (N. J.).

Backsliders in the curb were Creole Petroleum, Northrop Aircraft, National Union Radio, Pantepec Oil and Kaiser-Frazer. Moving forward were Murray Ohio Manufacturing and Raytheon. Turnover of 230,000 shares here compared with 180,000 yesterday.

Selected rail issues were singled out for selling targets in the bond market but generally gains and losses were too well mixed to establish a decisive trend.

United States govegnments in the over-the-counter market held steady, the Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 remaining at 101 bid.

Sales totaled $5,160,000, against $4,540,000 Tuesday.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Pleasant People

We all like to meet pleasant people. They seem to be surrounded by an aroma of good will. I am reminded of a line that was engraved upon the tombstone of a young girl, somewhere in New England, I believe. It read: "She was so pleasant." What an epitaph to bear in mind and to remember!

We like pleasant people as neighbors, as companions, and as friends. It is something for each one of us to cultivate—ourselves to be pleasant at all times! At a recent luncheon I met Harold E. Stassen, the former Governor of Minnesota. I was most impressed with his open, intelligent and kindly personality. I have no idea whether or not he will ever be President of the United States, but he is a most pleasant and inspiring man to meet and know. And I believe he would make a fine President. He is so pleasant, and genuinely friendly.

There are people whom we all dislike to meet, for they are so unpleasant. I have always wondered why such people choose to be that way. It jails them away from so much that is beautiful and worthwhile in life—especially from warm friendships.

What is so happily inspiring as pleasant surroundings with pleasant people? All of us meet unpleasant experiences, but we can hold to our pleasantness through them all, if we will but decide to do so. It pays, too, handsomely, in the end! What an asset a pleasant home is, or a pleasant office, or a pleasant hotel. A friend of mine engaged rooms in a noted hotel last summer, but they made it so unpleasant for him that he left after two days. Greedy for the most gain they overcrowded their place and the service was bad.

Some of the most pleasant people I have ever met have been in railroad trains and on steamships, while traveling. You always look for them when lonely, or away from friends. For nearly twenty years I have vacationed in Canada. I like the Canadian people for they are so pleasant and hospitable. Pleasantness can be a nation's greatest asset!

The photograph says: "Look pleasant, please!" Why should he have to say that? Why shouldn't a person want to look pleasant, without an extra urge?

Railroad Worker Dies Accidentally Of Asphyxiation

Body Of Victim Is Taken To Tunnelton

The body of William Max Phillips, 34-year-old B. and O. fireman and veteran of World War II, who was found asphyxiated in his room in a Laing Avenue boarding house yesterday morning, was taken to Tunnelton, W. Va., last night.

The body will be at the Knotts Funeral Home there for a funeral service which will probably be held Friday, followed by burial in the family lot in Camp Ground Cemetery, near Tunnelton.

Phillips, who home address is 736 Ridgeway Avenue, Fairmont, W. Va., was found yesterday about 3 a. m., sprawled on the floor beside a burning gas stove in his room at 12 Laing Avenue.

The gas victim, who has been working in Cumberland about two years, went to his room early Tuesday night while waiting to be called for work. His body was discovered when a B. and O. caller came to the home at 2:45 a. m. and failed to arouse the man.

Mrs. Minnie F. Gibson, at whose home Phillips lived, was aroused by the noise and went to the door of his room, saw the lights and heard the gas burning and opened the door to find the fully dressed body lying beside the stove. Detective Ernest M. Powell investigated for city police.

Death Is Accidental

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, isued a verdict of accidental death by gas poisoning and set the time of death at between 8 and 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

He said the man was overcome by fumes from a gas stove which was turned too high. There was no ventilation in the room, he added.

Authorities surmised the man had been lying on the bed reading before he got up to turn off the stove and was overcome by the fumes before falling face down on the floor beside the stove. The flames from the stove, authorities added, burned the man slightly on the left forearm.

An autopsy performed yesterday by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic at Memorial Hospital confirmed the diagnosis of gas poisoning as the cause of death, authorities said.

An investigation by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company yesterday disclosed there was no leak or other defect in the stove, authorities added.

Was War Veteran

A native of Tunnelton, W. Va., Phillips served in the field artillery during World War II and was discharged from ser ice November 1, 1945, at Fort Meade.

He was a member of the Methodist Church and the American Legion in Grafton, W. V.., and of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Cumberland.

Surviving are three brothers, J. Carlton, Samuel S., and John W. Phillips, all of Morgantown, W. Va.

Two persons who were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while seated in the cab of a truck at Paw Paw, W. Va., Tuesday morning, were discharged from Memorial Hospital yesterday morning.

They were listed as Miss Louise Mayhew, 18, Fulton Street, and Marvin Rawlings, 36, Laurel Dale, W. Va.

The couple, authorities said, arrived in Paw Paw about 12:30 a. m. Tuesday with a load of coal for the Norton store and parked with the motor running due to the cold weather, to await unloading of the coal.

They were treated by a Paw Paw physician and rushed to the local hospital by the Paw Paw Volunteer Fire Company after they were partially revived there.

Four Bail Out Of Army Plane Before It Crashes

PROVIDENCE FORGE, Va., Dec. 3 (AP) — A burning B-25 medium bomber catapulted into a heavily-wooded section near here today but the four Army Air Force occupants parachuted to safety a few moments before it crashed to the ground.

All received only minor injuries and were taken to Camp Lee, Va., for treatment.

They were Capt. Byron B. Boon, Linden, Texas, the pilot; Capt. Milton L. Widerhold, Breham, Texas, co-pilot; First Lt. William J. Cook, Clearwater, Fla., and Staff Sgt. E. D. Waller (no hometown available), engineer and radio operator.

Army Promotes Officer Sought In Pay Theft

CAMP LEE, Va., Dec. 3 (AP)—The Army came through today with a promotion for First Lt. Edward P. Kelly, the Camp Lee officer who picked up 37 pay checks for fellow officers Monday and never returned.

A spokesman at the post said the promotion was made because of the Denville, N. J., officer's "service and aptitude," and that Lt. Kelly could become Capt. Kelly — anytime he could be found to raise his hand and take the oath.

Even as the promotion was announced, the FBI, Army MPs and state and county officers were pressing a search for the missing officer.

"Dear Ruth" Will Be Given At Fort Hill

The cast of the delightful comedy, "Dear Ruth", is working hard to make the play a tremendous success. The play, which was acclaimed by New York theatre audiences and nation-wide movie-goers, will be presented in Fort Hill Auditorium December 12.

However the cast is not the only group working on the production. Behind the cast, the Fort Hill Players are busy drawing advertisements, selling tickets, obtaining costumes and props and strangely enough, making paper apple blossoms.

There are 30 students in the Players who are working to make the little flowers. The blossoms are constructed from pink, white, and green crape paper and fastened together by wire. The goal is to make enough apple blossoms to scatter over the entire stage during a scene of the play. Other students of the art classes are also lending a helping hand, under the guidance of Miss Berle.

Tears Up License After He Wrecks Twice On Bridge

MONTEREY, Calif., Dec. 3 (AP)—The bridge over Wildcat Creek is a jinx for Deley Brown, 33.

In a borrowed automobile Brown approached the bridge. The brakes locked, the car hit the bridge and was wrecked.

Hours later Brown approached the bridge in a truck he had borrowed to tow the wrecked machine. The truck and another car collided.

Brown stepped out of the smashed truck and tore up his driver's license.

Doctors Doubt Siamese Twins Can Be Separated

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Speer baby boys of Bedford, Ind., Siamese twins joined at the top of their heads, were reported "showing progress in Riley Hospital today, but physicians doubt that they can be separated successfully.

Although a bone structure about three inches in diameter holds their heads together, they were reported doing well on an ordinary milk formula, their bodies functioning normally.

Dr. Donald Casely, director of the Indiana University Medical Center, said the babies "apparently have common brain tissue, which reduces any chance for survival, even though they appear perfectly normal otherwise."

Supreme Court To Rule On Rent Control Act

CLEVELAND, Dec. 3 (AP) — The United States Supreme Court will consider the constitutionality of the 1947 Rent Control Act "early next month," District Rent Director Karl Duldner said tonight.

Suit appealing a decision by Federal Judge Paul Jones already is in the hands of the Housing Expediter in Washington, Duldner said, and will be filed "very shortly." Judge Jones on November 20 held rent controls unconstitutional in peacetime.

"We considered the decision of such nationwide importance," said Duldner in an interview, "that we decided to go directly to the United States Supreme Court for a quick ruling. And we should have a decision before the Rent Act expires February 29."

Yule Table Decorations

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures writer

You may not be able to order a carload of snow delivered to your front door for Christmas atmosphere, but there is no reason why Yule decorations can't spread Christmas cheer within the home. Make 'em yourself, inexpensively and colorfully.

Attractive arrangements can be assembled to grace the table, fireplace, window and doors. You can use crepe paper, cotton, fluorescent lights, fancy candles, ribbon, sequins or other things which will carry out the idea.

A softly glowing table centerpiece is achieve by dressing up some fluorescent bulbs as carolers. Use a variety of colored bulbs combining blue, green, yellow, coral and orchid. Cords and sockets of the string of light bulbs are fastened to the underside of a seven-pointed star which is made of gold metallic paper. Cut a hole the size of a penny four inches from the tip of each point. Place socket through opening. Fasten cord to underside of star with gummed tape.

To make the carolers, cover the top of the bulb with yellow, brown or red crepe paper to simulate hair. The cutest hairdo, and easiest, for the carolers is a haircut of bangs with either a roll-under or roll-up long hair-comb to make the hair curl-roll, take a knitting needle, roll the crepe paper around it and stretch ever so slightly.

Eyes are made by cutting blue lawyer's seals in half and using a half for each eye. The mouths can be made of small round red seals. Lace doilies and bright red or green or silver ribbon form the collars.

Make the center caroler the queen. Shape her of cotton, dress her in crepe paper and trim her with trailing red and green ribbons.

You can put cotton around this centerpiece, and sprinkle sparkle-snow over it.

Children's Party

A children's Christmas party would never be complete without some extra-special decorations. Besides the little favors which you will give to the children to take home, you should have a special table decoration.

Angels in a candyland setting of peppermint sticks are created with a roll of cellophane tape, a few pieces of silver paper, paper doilies, and a pack of pipe cleaners will excite the children to sighs of delight.

For the body of the angels, twist two pieces of six-inch pipe cleaner loosely together. For arms, criss-cross a shorter piece of pipe cleaner and bind this to the body length with cellophane tape. Untwist part of the bottom length for the legs and fluff out the top for the head. Slip conical paper cups which have been covered with silver paper over the body. Flute two triangles of lace paper doilies and tape them onto the cones for "wings." Cut faces from old greeting cards and paste them onto the pipe-cleaner head.

Make a see-saw by cutting off the tip of a conical paper cup, covering it with silver paper, placing its large opening down and taping a candy stick across the small opening. Put two miniature angels at either end of the see-saw. Fashion clouds of white cotton batting, pulling at the edges for a cloud effect and spread around the angels.

You can make the angels into place cards instead by putting a name card into the doll's hand and fastening it with a bit of cellophane tape. The children will cherish them as charming souvenirs.

CHRISTMAS CAROLERS . . . Make 'em yourself with fluorescent bulbs, doilies, ribbon, seals.

Hutzell said, relating that when she returned home from the hospital and had recovered the Barkmans asked her to go to work.

She said she got a job in the restaurant at the Blue Ridge bus terminal in April for about a week and then was advised by Mrs. Barkman that the "best thing to do would be to get a job out of town."

Subsequently, Miss Hutzell stated, she got employment at Shipway's on Route 40 east of Cumberland and also roomed there but left the baby at the Barkman home.

She said the Barkmans previously had told her "their place would always be open to me," but after she started to work at the bus terminal restaurant she was informed "they would make a home for the baby but not the mother too."

In June Miss Hutzell said she went to work at the Cumberland Undergarment plant and went to live with a cousin at Wiley Ford, staying there until the first part of September when she stopped work and went to live with her brother-in-law and sister at Mt. Savage.

Mrs. Barkman had told her "I would always take the place of her dead daughter," Miss Hutzell said.

She added that after leaving the Barkman home and living elsewhere she had trouble in finding them or the baby at home when she called at the house.

She said that when she called and the Barkmans were away that she informed Mrs. Barkman's son, Tommy, when she would return, but that the Barkmans still were not at home when she called. The last week in August and the first week in September Miss Hutzell said she called at the Barkman home nightly and never found them or the baby there.

Later, she said, she received a letter from Mrs. Barkman postmarked at Oakland September 11 telling "Dear Daughter Elva" they had moved and that she should not worry about Carol Ann, that she was receiving the best of care.

Letter From Delmar

In October, Miss Hutzell said she received a letter dated October 9 saying the Barkmans were leaving for a visit at Delmar, Del. A few days later, she said she received a letter dated October 13 and postmarked at Delmar on October 20.

Subsequently, Miss Hutzell said she sent a letter to the Barkmans at Oakland and last Saturday received a reply, containing her opened letter, from Mrs. Sam Barkman, mother of Charles Barkman, saying that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barkman, who were living on the Sam Barkman farm, "had been through too much over me, and they didn't want me bothering them and didn't want anything from me."

The letter also advised Miss Hutzell that the Charles Parkmans had not returned from their trip but had gone on to New York City, Miss Hutzell said.

After reading the obituary on Sunday and going to Oakland, Miss Hutzell said she asked Mrs. Charles Barkman when she had returned and was told "weeks ago."

Showing the letter from Mrs. Sam Barkman to Mrs. Charles Barkman, Miss Hutzell said she asked, "Do you know the handwriting?"

"I guess I do." Miss Hutzell quoted Mrs. Barkman a. replying, whereupon, she said, the latter "grabbed the letter out of my hand and burned it in the stove."

Mrs. Barkman told a reporter last night that she and her husband were married August 3, 1945. She said she met Miss Hutzell in a local store and since she "had no place to go" offered her a home, bought her a bed, provided her with some clothing, and subseouently arranged for her to be admitted to the hospital.

The baby, who appeared to be getting good care, was baptized in the name of Barkman, Mrs. Barkman said.

Barkman, a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said he received a leave of absence after injuring his ankle at work and that he and Mrs. Barkman were spending the winter with his aged parents in order to look after them.

A $1,000 life insurance policy on the baby, taken out with the Quaker State Life Insurance Company, lapsed two weeks ago after no payments had been made for seven weeks, the manager of the local office said yesterday. He added that no attempt had been made to file a death claim on the insurance.

Mrs. Dickel said she believes the Barkmans took out the policy.

Runaway Who Wanted To Join Navy Is Held

A 17-year-old Elizabeth, N. J., youth who wanted to enlist in the Navy was taken into custody by State Police yesterday afternoon and is being held at the county jail as a runaway until his parents call for him.

State Trooper William F. Baker who, with Trooper Wolfe of the West Virginia State Police, took the youth into custody at Paw Paw, W. Va., identified him as Cornelius Cadigan.

Officers said the youth, who was apprehended at the home of his uncle, Timothy Cadigan, had applied for enlistment at the local Navy recruiting office.

Because of his age, parental consent papers were forwarded to Elizabeth and his parents contacted police asking that the youth be picked up.

Trooper Baker said Cadigan "cried like a baby" when he was taken into custody because he did not want to return home.

Railroad Worker Dies Accidentally Of Asphyxiation

Body Of Victim Is Taken To Tunnelton

The body of William Max Phillips, 34-year-old B. and O. fireman and veteran of World War II, who was found asphyxiated in his room in a Laing Avenue boarding house yesterday morning, was taken to Tunnelton, W. Va., last night.

The body will be at the Knotts Funeral Home there for a funeral service which will probably be held Friday, followed by burial in the family lot in Camp Ground Cemetery, near Tunnelton.

Phillips, who home address is 736 Ridgeway Avenue, Fairmont, W. Va., was found yesterday about 3 a. m., sprawled on the floor beside a burning gas stove in his room at 12 Laing Avenue.

The gas victim, who has been working in Cumberland about two years, went to his room early Tuesday night while waiting to be called for work. His body was discovered when a B. and O. caller came to the home at 2:45 a. m. and failed to arouse the man.

Mrs. Minnie F. Gibson, at whose home Phillips lived, was aroused by the noise and went to the door of his room, saw the lights and heard the gas burning and opened the door to find the fully dressed body lying beside the stove. Detective Ernest M. Powell investigated for city police.

Death Is Accidental

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, isued a verdict of accidental death by gas poisoning and set the time of death at between 8 and 9 o'clock Tuesday night.

He said the man was overcome by fumes from a gas stove which was turned too high. There was no ventilation in the room, he added.

Authorities surmised the man had been lying on the bed reading before he got up to turn off the stove and was overcome by the fumes before falling face down on the floor beside the stove. The flames from the stove, authorities added, burned the man slightly on the left forearm.

An autopsy performed yesterday by Dr. Benedict Skitarelic at Memorial Hospital confirmed the diagnosis of gas poisoning as the cause of death, authorities said.

An investigation by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company yesterday disclosed there was no leak or other defect in the stove, authorities added.

Yule Table Decorations

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures writer

You may not be able to order a carload of snow delivered to your front door for Christmas atmosphere, but there is no reason why Yule decorations can't spread Christmas cheer within the home. Make 'em yourself, inexpensively and colorfully.

Attractive arrangements can be assembled to grace the table, fireplace, window and doors. You can use crepe paper, cotton, fluorescent lights, fancy candles, ribbon, sequins or other things which will carry out the idea.

A softly glowing table centerpiece is achieve by dressing up some fluorescent bulbs as carolers. Use a variety of colored bulbs combining blue, green, yellow, coral and orchid. Cords and sockets of the string of light bulbs are fastened to the underside of a seven-pointed star which is made of gold metallic paper. Cut a hole the size of a penny four inches from the tip of each point. Place socket through opening. Fasten cord to underside of star with gummed tape.

To make the carolers, cover the top of the bulb with yellow, brown or red crepe paper to simulate hair. The cutest hairdo, and easiest, for the carolers is a haircut of bangs with either a roll-under or roll-up long hair-comb to make the hair curl-roll, take a knitting needle, roll the crepe paper around it and stretch ever so slightly.

Eyes are made by cutting blue lawyer's seals in half and using a half for each eye. The mouths can be made of small round red seals. Lace doilies and bright red or green or silver ribbon form the collars.

Make the center caroler the queen. Shape her of cotton, dress her in crepe paper and trim her with trailing red and green ribbons.

You can put cotton around this centerpiece, and sprinkle sparkle-snow over it.

Children's Party

A children's Christmas party would never be complete without some extra-special decorations. Besides the little favors which you will give to the children to take home, you should have a special table decoration.

Angels in a candyland setting of peppermint sticks are created with a roll of cellophane tape, a few pieces of silver paper, paper doilies, and a pack of pipe cleaners will excite the children to sighs of delight.

For the body of the angels, twist two pieces of six-inch pipe cleaner loosely together. For arms, criss-cross a shorter piece of pipe cleaner and bind this to the body length with cellophane tape. Untwist part of the bottom length for the legs and fluff out the top for the head. Slip conical paper cups which have been covered with silver paper over the body. Flute two triangles of lace paper doilies and tape them onto the cones for "wings." Cut faces from old greeting cards and paste them onto the pipe-cleaner head.

Make a see-saw by cutting off the tip of a conical paper cup, covering it with silver paper, placing its large opening down and taping a candy stick across the small opening. Put two miniature angels at either end of the see-saw. Fashion clouds of white cotton batting, pulling at the edges for a cloud effect and spread around the angels.

You can make the angels into place cards instead by putting a name card into the doll's hand and fastening it with a bit of cellophane tape. The children will cherish them as charming souvenirs.

CHRISTMAS CAROLERS . . . Make 'em yourself with fluorescent bulbs, doilies, ribbon, seals.

Infant Alive

Hutzell said, relating that when she returned home from the hospital and had recovered the Barkmans asked her to go to work.

She said she got a job in the restaurant at the Blue Ridge bus terminal in April for about a week and then was advised by Mrs. Barkman that the "best thing to do would be to get a job out of town."

Subsequently, Miss Hutzell stated, she got employment at Shipway's on Route 40 east of Cumberland and also roomed there but left the baby at the Barkman home.

She said the Barkmans previously had told her "their place would always be open to me," but after she started to work at the bus terminal restaurant she was informed "they would make a home for the baby but not the mother too."

In June Miss Hutzell said she went to work at the Cumberland Undergarment plant and went to live with a cousin at Wiley Ford, staying there until the first part of September when she stopped work and went to live with her brother-in-law and sister at Mt. Savage.

Mrs. Barkman had told her "I would always take the place of her dead daughter," Miss Hutzell said.

She added that after leaving the Barkman home and living elsewhere she had trouble in finding them or the baby at home when she called at the house.

She said that when she called and the Barkmans were away that she informed Mrs. Barkman's son, Tommy, when she would return, but that the Barkmans still were not at home when she called. The last week in August and the first week in September Miss Hutzell said she called at the Barkman home nightly and never found them or the baby there.

Later, she said, she received a letter from Mrs. Barkman postmarked at Oakland September 11 telling "Dear Daughter Elva" they had moved and that she should not worry about Carol Ann, that she was receiving the best of care.

Letter From Delmar

In October, Miss Hutzell said she received a letter dated October 9 saying the Barkmans were leaving for a visit at Delmar, Del. A few days later, she said she received a letter dated October 13 and postmarked at Delmar on October 20.

Subsequently, Miss Hutzell said she sent a letter to the Barkmans at Oakland and last Saturday received a reply, containing her opened letter, from Mrs. Sam Barkman, mother of Charles Barkman, saying that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barkman, who were living on the Sam Barkman farm, "had been through too much over me, and they didn't want me bothering them and didn't want anything from me."

The letter also advised Miss Hutzell that the Charles Parkmans had not returned from their trip but had gone on to New York City, Miss Hutzell said.

After reading the obituary on Sunday and going to Oakland, Miss Hutzell said she asked Mrs. Charles Barkman when she had returned and was told "weeks ago."

Showing the letter from Mrs. Sam Barkman to Mrs. Charles Barkman, Miss Hutzell said she asked, "Do you know the handwriting?"

"I guess I do." Miss Hutzell quoted Mrs. Barkman as replying, whereupon, she said, the latter "grabbed the letter out of my hand and burned it in the stove."

Mrs. Barkman told a reporter last night that she and her husband were married August 3, 1945. She said she met Miss Hutzell in a local store and since she "had no place to go" offered her a home, bought her a bed, provided her with some clothing, and subseouently arranged for her to be admitted to the hospital.

The baby, who appeared to be getting good care, was baptized in the name of Barkman, Mrs. Barkman said.

Barkman, a brakeman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said he received a leave of absence after injuring his ankle at work and that he and Mrs. Barkman were spending the winter with his aged parents in order to look after them.

A $1,000 life insurance policy on the baby, taken out with the Quaker State Life Insurance Company, lapsed two weeks ago after no payments had been made for seven weeks, the manager of the local office said yesterday. He added that no attempt had been made to file a death claim on the insurance.

Mrs. Dickel said she believes the Barkmans took out the policy.

Fire Underwriters Start Survey Here

Three engineers of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, New York City, arrived in Cumberland this week to determine fire insurance ratings for the city, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

One of the engineers, Gordon C. Anderson, will check with Water Department officials regarding water pressure, location and size of mains and location of fire hydrants.

Another, Thomas H. Beeson, will check the building code regarding its conformity to fire safety regulations, while the third engineer, Edward L. Zeltner, will check fire department equipment and the city's fire record.

Mayor Post said the engineers expect to complete their survey in about three weeks, and that a copy of their findings will be sent to City Hall.

The report will be reviewed and recommendations will be made in New York. The mayor said it will probably be several months before he is notified of the results.

Mother Seeks Custody Of Baby Reported Dead

Infant Alive And Well On Farm Near Oakland

Mother Terms Obituary Plan To Prevent Her From Getting Custody Of Her Daughter

Describing as very much alive her seven-months-old daughter who was reported dead in the obituary columns of local newspapers on Sunday and Monday, a 21-year-old mother said last night she intends to regain the infant's custody.

Telling a story of a weakening friendship since the child's birth between herself and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barkman, formerly of Cumberland, who now reside on a farm near Oakland, the infant's mother, Elva Hutzell, Mt. Savage, said she believes the obituary was a plan to make her believe her daughter was dead so that she would not attempt to gain custody of the infant from the Barkmans.

Shocked to read of her daughter's death in the newspaper on Sunday morning, the mother said she went later that day to the Barkman home where the baby had been living and found the child alive and well.

While she said she was first told the baby was in Delaware where the Barkmans had been visiting, the mother declared that Barkman told her the baby was not dead but "asleep upstairs" when informed of the obituary account. She added that the Barkmans said they "could not understand" how the obituary got into the newspapers.

Advised To Employ Attorney

Bringing the matter to the attention of State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Miss Hutzell said she was advised to employ an attorney and seek to gain custody of the child through court procedure. Harris confirmed that information last night.

In the meantime, Miss Hutzell said she was informed by another person, that since the Barkmans have no claim on the child, she would not be required to take legal action to gain its custody. She added that she expects to obtain her daughter "sometime this week."

At their Oakland farm home last night, Mr. and Mrs. Barkman said they did not send the obituary to the newspapers and also told a reporter they had not been to Delaware although they had planned to go.

However, J. E. Powell, Barkman's son-in-law, said at Delmar yesterday afternoon that the Barkman's had visited there. His wife said she believed the Barkman's left Delmar about October 27 or so.

Although she says she has letters from Mrs. Barkman saying she can have the baby, Carol Ann, if she has a home and place to keep her, Miss Hutzell said she and her broher-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dickel, Mt. Savage, were told Sunday by Barkman, "Don't try to take the baby or there'll be a fight."

Asked For Baby

She added that Barkman told Dickel Sunday that he would "lie, cheat and steal" before relinquishing the child.

Now living with Mr. and Mrs. Dickel, Miss Hutzell said they have agreed to give her and the baby a home, and that she had written to the Barkmans some time ago saying she would like to have her daughter.

Mrs. Barkman told her, Miss Hutzell said, that the baby would not get the care there that she was receiving with them and that it would "kill her" to give up Tommy (her son who planned to enlist in the Marines) and the baby at the same time.

Acquainted with the Barkmans for about two years, Miss Hutzell went to live with them at their home, 759 Maryland Avenue, about a month before her baby was born in Allegany Hospital on March 28, this year, and Mrs. Barkman made arrangements with a local physician for delivery of the child, according to Miss Hutzell.

She added that Mrs. Barkman told the doctor she (Miss Hutzell) was Barkman's daughter and gave the same informatioin to the hospital.

The Barkmans "treated me nice" until after the baby was born, Miss

Junior College Is Proposed For City

A renewed proposal that a junior college be established at Cumberland, then abandoning Frostburg State Teachers' College, was made yesterday by William L. Marbury, chairman of the education commission appointed by former Governor O'Conor.

With a school in Cumberland, Marbury said, the number of undergraduates remaining at Frostburg for teacher training would be so few they could be sent to Towson—with "living scholarship."

Marbury called teachers' college a "dangerous system" because of inevitable "pressure to expand the school to a liberal arts college."

Diphtheria Shots Planned For 350 South End Pupils

Two Additional Cases Reported

Provided that consent of parents is obtained, approximately 350 first and second grade pupils in four South End elementary schools will be immunized against diphtheria beginning next week, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said yesterday.

Health officials were notified yesterday of two more diphtheria cases, one at a North Centre Street address and the other at an Elder Street home, bringing the total number of county cases reported since July 1 up to 59. Of that number, 49 were reported in Cumberland.

Although the immunization schedule has not as yet been arranged, pending the preparation of consent notices to be sent to parents tomorrow, Dr. Frantz said first and second grade pupils at John Humbird, Pennsylvania Avenue, Virginia Avenue and Johnson Heights Schools will be immunized.

Those schools were selected because a majority of recent diphtheria cases have been reported in the South End section.

Pointing out that most of those children have already received immunization under the school health program, Dr. Frantz said a second injection of diphtheria toxoid is advisable to make immunity doubly sure.

In addition, plans are being made to conduct immunization clinics for pre-school children between six months and six years of age at Pennsylvania Avenue and John Humbird Schools, Dr. Frantz said. The clinic schedule will be announced later.

Meanwhile, public health nurses reported that many parents are bringing their children to health centers throughout the county for immunization against the disease.

Numerous calls were received at the Health Department yesterday regarding the availability of injections for children. Employes of the branch laboratory of the State Department of Health were reported devoting three-quarters of their time to testing throat cultures taken in suspected diphtheria cases.

In addition to monthly immunization clinics available at county health centers, injections are also available for adults and children each Saturday morning at the Health Department.

6 Musical Units Will March In Parade

Thomas F. Conlon, marshal for the Amvets parade to be held here Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, announced yesterday that six musical units have accepted invitations along with 22 organizations.

Conlon said several invitations are still outstanding but indicated that the parade will have six divisions.

The parade is being sponsored by the Amvet post in connection with their Good Neighbor observance which they will mark Sunday and Monday.

Officials said members of the post and auxiliary will attend church services Sunday in a body in memory of service men killed in World War II.

INVOLVED IN DISPUTE—Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barkman, formerly of this city, and Carol Ann Barkman, seven-months-old child who was reported dead in local newspapers on Sunday and Monday, are shown here as they were photographed last night at the home of Barkman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barkman, on a farm near Oakland where they now reside. The infant is the daughter of Elva Hutzell, Mt. Savage, who says she will attempt to gain custody of her child, although the Barkmans told a News reporter last night they do not intend to relinquish the baby to her mother and will put up any kind of a fight necessary to keep Carol Ann, who was baptized in their name.

Verner Outlines Economic Aspects Of Aid To Europe

Reviews History Of Marshall Plan

Economic collapse of Europe would greatly impair the flow of trade between the United States and European countries and their colonies, Arthur A. Verner told members of the Cumberland Lions Club yesterday in discussing the implications of the Marshall Plan.

Verner, who is sales manager in the export division of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, was guest speaker at the weekly Lions Club luncheon at Central YMCA.

Discussing the question of whether this country should send additional financial aid to Europe, Verner said that "loss of our export markets would have still greater impact upon our economy than occurred when the vast surplus and idle plants of the early 1930's produced economic stagnation."

Cites Communist Threat

From a strategic point of view, he said, the abandonment of Europe would expose 270,000,000 people and the world's second greatest industrial machine to absorption into the vast area already dominated by Communist ideology and Soviet interests.

Verner recalled Secretary of State Marshall's historic speech at Harvard University on June 5, when the cabinet officer invited European countries to co-ordinate their activities in preparing a recovery plan.

As a result, the Paris Conference was held by 16 nations of Western Europe, who met to determine their economic needs and the absolutely essential amount required for rehabilitation.

The final plan as submitted to the United States set that figure at approximately 17 billion dollars over a four-year period.

Verner stressed, however, that the present special session of Congress is considering only temporary grants to tide France, Italy and Austria over the winter. The so-called long range Marshall Plan, he explained, will not be ready for debate until the regular session of Congress in January.

On the question of whether the United States can afford to give more billions to Europe, Verner recalled the statement made by Secretary of Commerce Harriman in his report to Congress—that such aid would "nit be of the magnitude to wreck the United States economy."

National Income Listed

Verner pointed out that this country's national income is currently at a level of over 200 billions yearly, while American exports of goods and services during the first six months of this year were running at the rate of over 20 and one-half billions a year.

The basic problem, he said, is to protect the nation's price structure against continued demand for wheat, coal, steel and fertilizer, basic articles which are in great demand in Europe and in short supply here.

In conclusion, Verner outlined the three chief suggestions for operating the Marshall Plan. They are:

Creation of a special division within the State Department; creation of a new government bureau attached to one of the existing departments such as the Departments of Commerce, Interior or Agriculture; and creation of a federal corporation whose board of directors would consist of cabinet officers, thus assuring close liaison between existing government agencies while maintaining independence of operation.

McCauley To Be Moved To Death Cell At Moundsville Penitentiary

Governor Studying Report Of Case

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Dec. 3—(AP)—Preparations for the scheduled execution next Wednesday of Mark McCauley for the murder of State Police Sgt. Joseph P. Horne went forward at the state penitentiary today, even as governor Meadows studied an official report of the case.

Warden Orel J. Skeen said McCauley will be transferred to the death cell today or tomorrow.

The warden added that the prisoner devoted much of his time to reading the Bible, and that his only recent visitors have been his father and two clergymen.

The governor has asked for a report on the case, including results of an examination by a psychiatrist, from the probation and parole department, and was said to be giving it careful study.

McCauley was convicted in Mineral County of the slaying of Horne as the officer, together with Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter, attempted to arrest him on a truck theft charge. Hovatter was killed at the same time.

R. H. McCain Will Address Motor Club

The Western Maryland Motor Club will hold its annual meeting tonight at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, beginning at 7:30. All members are urged to attend.

Hugo Keller will preside at the business session, when officers and directors for the coming year will be elected. He will also introduce Russell H. McCain, Frederick, who will be the guest speaker.

Mr. McCain, member of the State Roads Commission, will speak on "Maryland Primary Roads, Past, Present and Future." He will also discuss the new roads program throughout the country.

Reservations have been made for approximately 25 members to attend the dinner preceding the business session.

Police Nab Driver At Road Block In Frostburg

Another Held After Hitting State Car

A Wichita, Kas., motorist arrested Tuesday night after State Police set up a road block in Frostburg, was convicted of drunken driving in Grantsville last night, and while being given a hearing another motorist hit a parked State Police cruiser car in front of Grantsville Magistrates Court and will be given a hearing tonight on a charge of violating two motor vehicle laws.

Convicted of drunken driving was Vanise William Southers. Arrested and facing trial today is Walter Zinko, Accident, who, State Police said, failed to stop after hitting the cruiser car of Trooper Glen Folk.

Trooper Folk said he spotted Southers seven miles east of Grantsville on Route 40, headed toward Frostburg, and that his car was weaving on the road.

Stopping the car, Folk was talk- suddenly shifted into gear, drove off and left the officer standing in the road.

Giving chase, Folk attempted to stop the vehicle but he said Southers pulled to the center of the road and tried to wreck him, preventing him from passing.

Using the police radio Folk radioed the barracks for assistance and Trooper William F. Baker sped to Frostburg where he parked his car in the center of Main Street, near the western end of the town and stopped another car at the traffic light there, preventing Southers from passing.

Taken into custody, Southers was taken to the Frostburg jail pending his hearing last night before Magistrate J. U. Stanton.

While Southers was being tried, Folk said he heard a crash, left the magistrate's office to inquire about it and was told by bystanders, "That car going up there hit your cruiser."

Folk chased the vehicle about two and a half miles west on Route 40 before taking Zinko into custody. Cpl. Thomas Veditz investigated and brought Zinko to the County Jail.

27 Applications Received For Navy College Test Here

Twenty-seven young men of the Cumberland area have applied for a college aptitude test to be given Saturday, December 13, at Allegany High School under the Naval Reserve Officers Training Program.

Ralph R. Webster, principal, said the examination is scheduled to begin at 9 a. m.

Similar tests will be given throughout the nation on that date for the selection of approximately 2,500 candidates who will be given a four-year Navy-subsidized college education under the program. High school seniors and graduates from 17 to 21 are eligible. Deadline for applications was November 10.

Successful candidates will begin the fall, 1948 term at one of the 52 colleges and universities in which NROTC units are established. The Navy will pay for their tuition, books and normal college fees and will provide each student with a monthly living allowance of $50.

The candidates may take any course leading to a baccalaureate degree provided they include certain naval science subjects. They are also required to participate in drills and cruises, and, if qualified, to accept a commission in the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

They must then serve two years on active duty, after which they may request transfer to the Navy Reserve and release to inactive duty, or retention in the regular Navy.

Applicants receiving the highest grades in the December 13 aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examinations at a later date. Their names will then be submitted to state selection committees composed of prominent civilians and naval officers.

Husband Killed, Wife Is Injured, When Hit By Car

Herbert Allison Is Held In Jail

A 28-year-old husband was killed last night at 10:15 and his 23-year-old wife seriously injured when they were struck by an automobile, which police say was driven by Herbert T. Allison, 27, Cresaptown on Route 220, 200 yards north of Rainbow Inn.

Police identified the dead man as Raymond Potter, and said he died en route to Allegany Hospital of a broken neck. His wife, Mrs. Helen Evelyn Metz Potter, suffered a fractured skull, a deep laceration in her right ear and multiple lacerations on the body.

Allison, according to police, is being held in Allegany County Jail to await a hearing on a manslaughter charge. Trooper Thomas G. Barton, who investigated, said Allison "had been drinking."

According to authorities, Mr. and Mrs. Potter, who resided in Cresaptown with Mrs. Potter's sister, Mrs. Novella Halle, had just gotten off a bus in front of Rain's Grocery Store and were walking along the right side of the road when they were struck.

Knocked 90 Feet

Potter was knocked 90 feet from the road by the impact, according to Trooper Barton, who said the entire right side of the car was damaged.

Allison, police said, was driving from the American Legion home in Cresaptown to Midway Tavern, located on McMullen Highway, about 200 feet from the scene of the accident. The trooper said three other men were passengers in Allison's car, and identified them as Richard Judy, James Skilly and Lee Miller, all of the Cresaptown section. They were not held.

The two victims were taken to Allegany Hospital by Eugene Wright, 617 Henderson Avenue, who was flagged down by unidentified persons, attempting to aid the Potters.

Mrs. Halle said Mr. and Mrs. Potter moved here only a month ago from Pennsylvania, where Potter was employed in a Navy surplus warehouse. Mrs. Potter is employed at the Cumberland Undergarment Factory, but Mr. Potter was unemployed she said.

Mrs. Potter is a native of Cumberland, but her husband, who served in the Army during World War II, is a native of Hagerstown.

Says Lights Blinded Him

Trooper Barton said Allison told him he was blinded by lights from an approaching car and was unable to see the couple walking along the side of the road.

Allison, who was taken into custody at the scene of the accident, will be questioned in the office of the State's Attorney.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who is also investigating, said a broken neck caused Potter's death.

State Police said Cpl. Harry Holsinger and Trooper William Baker were sent to the scene of the accident to take pictures.

Cumberland Man Sought In Federal Prison Break

Police Report Five Escaped Institution

Springfield, Mo., authorities last night extented their law enforcement net to re-capture a Cumberland man and four other "potentially dangerous" escaped Federal convicts after receiving reports of terror in a farming section and the theft of an airplane.

Police identified one of the three escaped "mental patients," who terrorized the Will Aven family with a home made knife and a pitchfork Tuesday night as William McClellen, 23, Cumberland, but declared they have found no trace of two other escapees who broke out of the U. S. Medical Center, Springfield, Mo., Monday night, with the trio.

Acording to police McClellen, and his two companions, who were identified from pictures by the Aven family entered the home, stole clothing and money and then escaped in a stolen automobile that belonged to a neighbor of the Aven family.

Tie Up Aged Man

The trio, according to police tied the 79-year-old Aven in a chair, held Mrs. Aven, her daughter and granddaughter prisoners while they ransacked the home and changed clothes.

While the trio was terrorizing the family, police said they are reasonably sure that a fourth escapee stole an airplane in a desperate effort to further his flight.

The plane was being warmed up when an instructor at the Rodgers Airport arrived at 6:30 a. m. In a few minutes the pilot zoomed off without using the runway and angled off to the east.

Police said they believe Charles Lee McIntosh, 24, stole the plane, and declared medical records show that he stole a plane in Indiana while AWOL from the army in 1946 and although he had no flight training, "successfully flew the plane to many parts of the country before abandoning it."

McIntosh was described as of slight build and weighing about 148 pounds. He was serving six years for violation of the Dyer Act.

McClellen Not Known Here

Police were checking last night a report that the plane had landed at Wolf Island, Mo., in the southeastern section of the state and was reported headed toward Evansville, Ind.

Other escapees were identified as Edward Elsbury, 21, Marianna, Pa.; Charles R. Maley, 24, Springfield, Ohio, and Edward Marion Harrison, 31, Little Rock, Ark.

Police said all were serving time for violations of the Dyer Act.

McClellen, according to police was serving three years for violation of the Dyer Act in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Federal, County and City officials reported they have no record of William McClellen in Cumberland.

Robb Will Head Polio Fund Drive

John M. Robb, attorney and president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, has been appointed director of the 1948 March of Dimes campaign for Allegany County, according to George L. Radcliffe, state chairman.

The campaign for funds to battle infantile paralysis will open January 15 and continue through January 30.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, said that 50 per cent of funds collected here will remain in the county for use of the League in treating local and county paralysis victims.

The remaining 50 per cent will be sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for use in scientific research, education and emergency aid in epidemics.

Mrs. Annan said the total 1947 collection in Allegany County was $8,488.51. State figures showed that the 1947 total was less than the drive results in 1946.

Jaycees Asked To Sponsor Proposed Teen-age Recreation Center In City

Footer Building Is Suggested As Site

A proposal to rent part of the old Footer Building on South Mechanic Street for use as a teen-age recreation center was taken under consideration by the youth and welfare committee of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night.

George E. Keady, 19-year-old local photographer, discussed the plan at the Jaycees dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, and asked the group to support the suggestion.

Keady estimated that an expenditure of $1,000 would take care of setting up the recreation center, exclusive of installing bowling alleys. Table tennis, dancing and other activities were proposed, as well as the operation of a snack bar.

Following the initial cost, Keady said, the recreation center could be put on a self-sustaining basis by sale of refreshments and admission charges.

Harry Kauffman and Henry Holzshu of the youth welfare committee will investigate the proposal and report at the board of directors meeting December 17.

Donald McCoy, Fort Hill senior who won the county oratorical contest sponsored by the Jaycees, delivered his winning oration on "I Speak for Democracy."

Henry Mackey was named chairman of a committee to arrange for Jaycee members to man Salvation Army kettles in the fund campaign Saturday, December 20.

The social committee announced plans for a holiday dance to be held Tuesday, December 30, at the Cumberland Country Club.

Four members named to co-operate with the current Army recruiting drive are Thomas B. Finan, Chauncey Sanner, Marvin T. Inge, Jr., and Sgt. Franklin L. Jolley.

Frostburg Chain Store To Occupy Site Of Historic Hansel Building

Two-Story Structure Planned By Firm

One of Western Maryland's historic landmarks, a six-room frame house at 27 Water Street, Frostburg, was razed during the past week to provide the site for a new building to be occupied by a nationally known chain grocery store.

The transaction was negotiated by John Stewart, Frostburg, for the Emca Company, with which he will be associated when the firm receives its charter.

The building, known to most of the present generation of this area, was the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Hansel for many years.

Prior to the purchase of the property by the Hansels, the home, then considered modern, was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Robinson, grandparents of Harry H. Robinson, this city, managing editor of the Cumberland News, and John J. Bobinson, vice president of the Liberty Trust Company.

Older Frostburg residents recall that the property was one of the homes on the west side of Water Street which escaped damage in the disastrous fire which destroyed most of that section of Frostburg, including St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in 1874.

The property was sold recently by the owners to James Neilson, of the firm of Neilson Brothers, Contractors, who will construct the proposed new building.

The tentative plans of the local concern call for the construction of a concrete block building, 50 by 125 feet, with an ornamental glass front. Apartments will be constructed on the second floor of the building if materials are available.

The building will have sufficient parking space in the rear for 25 cars and the purchase of an additional lot on the rear of the Edwards property will furnish additional parking space for the store.

The frant of the Edwards lot, facing on Mechanic Street, is the site of the original home of Water Commissioner W. J. Edwards and Webster Edwards, this city.

Mother Seeks Custody Of Baby Reported Dead

Infant Alive And Well On Farm Near Oakland

Mother Terms Obituary Plan To Prevent Her From Getting Custody Of Her Daughter

Describing as very much alive her seven-months-old daughter who was reported dead in the obituary columns of local newspapers on Sunday and Monday, a 21-year-old mother said last night she intends to regain the infant's custody.

Telling a story of a weakening friendship since the child's birth between herself and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barkman, formerly of Cumberland, who now reside on a farm near Oakland, the infant's mother, Elva Hutzell, Mt. Savage, said she believes the obituary was a plan to make her believe her daughter was dead so that she would not attempt to gain custody of the infant from the Barkmans.

Shocked to read of her daughter's death in the newspaper on Sunday morning, the mother said she went later that day to the Barkman home where the baby had been living and found the child alive and well.

While she said she was first told the baby was in Delaware where the Barkmans had been visiting, the mother declared that Barkman told her the baby was not dead but "asleep upstairs" when informed of the obituary account. She added that the Barkmans said they "could not understand" how the obituary got into the newspapers.

Advised To Employ Attorney

Bringing the matter to the attention of State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris, Miss Hutzell said she was advised to employ an attorney and seek to gain custody of the child through court procedure. Harris confirmed that information last night.

In the meantime, Miss Hutzell said she was informed by another person, that since the Barkmans have no claim on the child, she would not be required to take legal action to gain its custody. She added that she expects to obtain her daughter "sometime this week."

At their Oakland farm home last night, Mr. and Mrs. Barkman said they did not send the obituary to the newspapers and also told a reporter they had not been to Delaware although they had planned to go.

However, J. E. Powell, Barkman's son-in-law, said at Delmar yesterday afternoon that the Barkman's had visited there. His wife said she believed the Barkman's left Delmar about October 27 or 28.

Although she says she has letters from Mrs. Barkman saying she can have the baby, Carol Ann, if she has a home and place to keep her, Miss Hutzell said she and her broher-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dickel, Mt. Savage, were told Sunday by Barkman, "Don't try to take the baby or there'll be a fight."

Asked For Baby

She added that Barkman told Dickel Sunday that he would "lie, cheat and steal" before relinquishing the child.

Now living with Mr. and Mrs. Dickel, Miss Hutzell said they have agreed to give her and the baby a home, and that she had written to the Barkmans some time ago saying she would like to have her daughter.

Mrs. Barkman told her, Miss Hutzell said, that the baby would not get the care there that she was receiving with them and that it would "kill her" to give up Tommy (her son who planned to enlist in the Marines) and the baby at the same time.

Acquainted with the Barkmans for about two years, Miss Hutzell went to live with them at their home, 759 Maryland Avenue, about a month before her baby was born in Allegany Hospital on March 28, this year, and Mrs. Barkman made arrangements with a local physician for delivery of the child, according to Miss Hutzell.

She added that Mrs. Barkman told the doctor she (Miss Hutzell) was Barkman's daughter and gave the same informatioin to the hospital.

The Barkmans "treated me nice" until after the baby was born, Miss

Junior College Is Proposed For City

A renewed proposal that a junior college be established at Cumberland, then abandoning Frostburg State Teachers' College, was made yesterday by William L. Marbury, chairman of the education commission appointed by former Governor O'Conor.

With a school in Cumberland, Marbury said, the number of undergraduates remaining at Frostburg for teacher training would be so few they could be sent to Towson—with "living scholarship."

Marbury called teachers' college a "dangerous system" because of inevitable "pressure to expand the school to a liberal arts college."

Diphtheria Shots Planned For 350 South End Pupils

Two Additional Cases Reported

Provided that consent of parents is obtained, approximately 350 first and second grade pupils in four South End elementary schools will be immunized against diphtheria beginning next week, Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said yesterday.

Health officials were notified yesterday of two more diphtheria cases, one at a North Centre Street address and the other at an Elder Street home, bringing the total number of county cases reported since July 1 up to 59. Of that number, 49 were reported in Cumberland.

Although the immunization schedule has not as yet been arranged, pending the preparation of consent notices to be sent to parents tomorrow, Dr. Frantz said first and second grade pupils at John Humbird, Pennsylvania Avenue, Virginia Avenue and Johnson Heights Schools will be immunized.

Those schools were selected because a majority of recent diphtheria cases have been reported in the South End section.

Pointing out that most of those children have already received immunization under the school health program, Dr. Frantz said a second injection of diphtheria toxoid is advisable to make immunity doubly sure.

In addition, plans are being made to conduct immunization clinics for pre-school children between six months and six years of age at Pennsylvania Avenue and John Humbird Schools, Dr. Frantz said. The clinic schedule will be announced later.

Meanwhile, public health nurses reported that many parents are bringing their children to health centers throughout the county for immunization against the disease.

Numerous calls were received at the Health Department yesterday regarding the availability of injections for children. Employes of the branch laboratory of the State Department of Health were reported devoting three-quarters of their time to testing throat cultures taken in suspected diphtheria cases.

In addition to monthly immunization clinics available at county health centers, injections are also available for adults and children each Saturday morning at the Health Department.

6 Musical Units Will March In Parade

Thomas F. Conlon, marshal for the Amvets parade to be held here Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, announced yesterday that six musical units have accepted invitations along with 22 organizations.

Conlon said several invitations are still outstanding but indicated that the parade will have six divisions.

The parade is being sponsored by the Amvet post in connection with their Good Neighbor observance which they will mark Sunday and Monday.

Officials said members of the post and auxiliary will attend church services Sunday in a body in memory of service men killed in World War II.

INVOLVED IN DISPUTE—Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Barkman, formerly of this city, and Carol Ann Barkman, seven-months-old child who was reported dead in local newspapers on Sunday and Monday, are shown here as they were photographed last night at the home of Barkman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barkman, on a farm near Oakland where they now reside. The infant is the daughter of Elva Hutzell, Mt. Savage, who says she will attempt to gain custody of her child, although the Barkmans told a News reporter last night they do not intend to relinquish the baby to her mother and will put up any kind of a fight necessary to keep Carol Ann, who was baptized in their name.

Verner Outlines Economic Aspects Of Aid To Europe

Reviews History Of Marshall Plan

Economic collapse of Europe would greatly impair the flow of trade between the United States and European countries and their colonies, Arthur A. Verner told members of the Cumberland Lions Club yesterday in discussing the implications of the Marshall Plan.

Verner, who is sales manager in the export division of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, was guest speaker at the weekly Lions Club luncheon at Central YMCA.

Discussing the question of whether this country should send additional financial aid to Europe, Verner said that "loss of our export markets would have still greater impact upon our economy than occurred when the vast surplus and idle plants of the early 1930's produced economic stagnation."

Cites Communist Threat

From a strategic point of view, he said, the abandonment of Europe would expose 270,000,000 people and the world's second greatest industrial machine to absorption into the vast area already dominated by Communist ideology and Soviet interests.

Verner recalled Secretary of State Marshall's historic speech at Harvard University on June 5, when the cabinet officer invited European countries to co-ordinate their activities in preparing a recovery plan.

As a result, the Paris Conference was held by 16 nations of Western Europe, who met to determine their economic needs and the absolutely essential amount required for rehabilitation.

The final plan as submitted to the United States set that figure at approximately 17 billion dollars over a four-year period.

Verner stressed, however, that the present special session of Congress is considering only temporary grants to tide France, Italy and Austria over the winter. The so-called long range Marshall Plan, he explained, will not be ready for debate until the regular session of Congress in January.

On the question of whether the United States can afford to give more billions to Europe, Verner recalled the statement made by Secretary of Commerce Harriman in his report to Congress—that such aid would "nit be of the magnitude to wreck the United States economy."

National Income Listed

Verner pointed out that this country's national income is currently at a level of over 200 billions yearly, while American exports of goods and services during the first six months of this year were running at the rate of over 20 and one-half billions a year.

The basic problem, he said, is to protect the nation's price structure against continued demand for wheat, coal, steel and fertilizer, basic articles which are in great demand in Europe and in short supply here.

In conclusion, Verner outlined the three chief suggestions for operating the Marshall Plan. They are:

Creation of a special division within the State Department; creation of a new government bureau attached to one of the existing departments such as the Departments of Commerce, Interior or Agriculture; and creation of a federal corporation whose board of directors would consist of cabinet officers, thus assuring close liaison between existing government agencies while maintaining independence of operation.

Police Nab Driver At Road Block In Frostburg

Another Held After Hitting State Car

A Wichita, Kas., motorist arrested Tuesday night after State Police set up a road block in Frostburg, was convicted of drunken driving in Grantsville last night, and while being given a hearing another motorist hit a parked State Police cruiser car in front of Grantsville Magistrates Court and will be given a hearing tonight on a charge of violating two motor vehicle laws.

Convicted of drunken driving was Vanise William Southers. Arrested and facing trial today is Walter Zinko, Accident, who, State Police said, failed to stop after hitting the cruiser car of Trooper Glen Folk.

Trooper Folk said he spotted Southers seven miles east of Grantsville on Route 40, headed toward Frostburg, and that his car was weaving on the road.

Stopping the car, Folk was talk- suddenly shifted into gear, drove off and left the officer standing in the road.

Giving chase, Folk attempted to stop the vehicle but he said Southers pulled to the center of the road and tried to wreck him, preventing him from passing.

Using the police radio Folk radioed the barracks for assistance and Trooper William F. Baker sped to Frostburg where he parked his car in the center of Main Street, near the western end of the town and stopped another car at the traffic light there, preventing Southers from passing.

Taken into custody, Southers was taken to the Frostburg jail pending his hearing last night before Magistrate J. U. Stanton.

While Southers was being tried, Folk said he heard a crash, left the magistrate's office to inquire about it and was told by bystanders, "That car going up there hit your cruiser."

Folk chased the vehicle about two and a half miles west on Route 40 before taking Zinko into custody. Cpl. Thomas Veditz investigated and brought Zinko to the County Jail.

Husband Killed, Wife Is Injured, When Hit By Car

Herbert Allison Is Held In Jail

A 28-year-old husband was killed last night at 10:15 and his 23-year-old wife seriously injured when they were struck by an automobile, which police say was driven by Herbert T. Allison, 27, Cresaptown on Route 220, 200 yards north of Rainbow Inn.

Police identified the dead man as Raymond Potter, and said he died en route to Allegany Hospital of a broken neck. His wife, Mrs. Helen Evelyn Metz Potter, suffered a fractured skull, a deep laceration in her right ear and multiple lacerations on the body.

Allison, according to police, is being held in Allegany County Jail to await a hearing on a manslaughter charge. Trooper Thomas G. Barton, who investigated, said Allison "had been drinking."

According to authorities, Mr. and Mrs. Potter, who resided in Cresaptown with Mrs. Potter's sister, Mrs. Novella Halle, had just gotten off a bus in front of Rain's Grocery Store and were walking along the right side of the road when they were struck.

Knocked 90 Feet

Potter was knocked 90 feet from the road by the impact, according to Trooper Barton, who said the entire right side of the car was damaged.

Allison, police said, was driving from the American Legion home in Cresaptown to Midway Tavern, located on McMullen Highway, about 200 feet from the scene of the accident. The trooper said three other men were passengers in Allison's car, and identified them as Richard Judy, James Skilly and Lee Miller, all of the Cresaptown section. They were not held.

The two victims were taken to Allegany Hospital by Eugene Wright, 617 Henderson Avenue, who was flagged down by unidentified persons, attempting to aid the Potters.

Mrs. Halle said Mr. and Mrs. Potter moved here only a month ago from Pennsylvania, where Potter was employed in a Navy surplus warehouse. Mrs. Potter is employed at the Cumberland Undergarment Factory, but Mr. Potter was unemployed she said.

Mrs. Potter is a native of Cumberland, but her husband, who served in the Army during World War II, is a native of Hagerstown.

Says Lights Blinded Him

Trooper Barton said Allison told him he was blinded by lights from an approaching car and was unable to see the couple walking along the side of the road.

Allison, who was taken into custody at the scene of the accident, will be questioned in the office of the State's Attorney.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who is also investigating, said a broken neck caused Potter's death.

State Police said Cpl. Harry Holsinger and Trooper William Baker were sent to the scene of the accident to take pictures.

Md. Phone Operators Favor CIO Affiliation

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Maryland's telephone operators have voted to affiliate with the CIO Telephone Workers Organizing Committee, officials of the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union (Ind.) announced tonight.

A "yes" or "no" ballot was sent to the state's 3,500 telephone workers to decide whether they wanted to affiliate with the CIO a few weeks ago.

No figures on how many ballots were cast or the size of the majority by which the operators decided to give up their independent union were released.

Cumberland Man Sought In Federal Prison Break

Police Report Five Escaped Institution

Springfield, Mo., authorities last night extented their law enforcement net to re-capture a Cumberland man and four other "potentially dangerous" escaped Federal convicts after receiving reports of terror in a farming section and the theft of an airplane.

Police identified one of the three escaped "mental patients," who terrorized the Will Aven family with a home made knife and a pitchfork Tuesday night as William McClellen, 23, Cumberland, but declared they have found no trace of two other escapees who broke out of the U. S. Medical Center, Springfield, Mo., Monday night, with the trio.

According to police McClellen, and his two companions, who were identified from pictures by the Aven family entered the home, stole clothing and money and then escaped in a stolen automobile that belonged to a neighbor of the Aven family.

Tie Up Aged Man

The trio, according to police tied the 79-year-old Aven in a chair, held Mrs. Aven, her daughter and granddaughter prisoners while they ransacked the home and changed clothes.

While the trio was terrorizing the family, police said they are reasonably sure that a fourth escapee stole an airplane in a desperate effort to further his flight.

The plane was being warmed up when an instructor at the Rodgers Airport arrived at 6:30 a. m. In a few minutes the pilot zoomed off without using the runway and angled off to the east.

Police said they believe Charles Lee McIntosh, 24, stole the plane, and declared medical records show that he stole a plane in Indiana while AWOL from the army in 1946 and although he had no flight training, "successfully flew the plane to many parts of the country before abandoning it."

McIntosh was described as of slight build and weighing about 148 pounds. He was serving six years for violation of the Dyer Act.

McClellen Not Known Here

Police were checking last night a report that the plane had landed at Wolf Island, Mo., in the southeastern section of the state and was reported headed toward Evansville, Ind.

Other escapees were identified as Edward Elsbury, 21, Marianna, Pa.; Charles R. Maley, 24, Springfield, Ohio, and Edward Marion Harrison, 31, Little Rock, Ark.

Police said all were serving time for violations of the Dyer Act.

McClellen, according to police was serving three years for violation of the Dyer Act in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Federal, County and City officials reported they have no record of William McClellen in Cumberland.

Robb Will Head Polio Fund Drive

John M. Robb, attorney and president of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, has been appointed director of the 1948 March of Dimes campaign for Allegany County, according to George L. Radcliffe, state chairman.

The campaign for funds to battle infantile paralysis will open January 15 and continue through January 30.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, said that 50 per cent of funds collected here will remain in the county for use of the League in treating local and county paralysis victims.

The remaining 50 per cent will be sent to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for use in scientific research, education and emergency aid in epidemics.

Mrs. Annan said the total 1947 collection in Allegany County was $8,488.51. State figures showed that the 1947 total was less than the drive results in 1946.

Jaycees Asked To Sponsor Proposed Teen-age Recreation Center In City

Footer Building Is Suggested As Site

A proposal to rent part of the old Footer Building on South Mechanic Street for use as a teen-age recreation center was taken under consideration by the youth and welfare committee of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night.

George E. Keady, 19-year-old local photographer, discussed the plan at the Jaycees dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, and asked the group to support the suggestion.

Keady estimated that an expenditure of $1,000 would take care of setting up the recreation center, exclusive of installing bowling alleys. Table tennis, dancing and other activities were proposed, as well as the operation of a snack bar.

Following the initial cost, Keady said, the recreation center could be put on a self-sustaining basis by sale of refreshments and admission charges.

Harry Kauffman and Henry Holzshu of the youth welfare committee will investigate the proposal and report at the board of directors meeting December 17.

Donald McCoy, Fort Hill senior who won the county oratorical contest sponsored by the Jaycees, delivered his winning oration on "I Speak for Democracy."

Henry Mackey was named chairman of a committee to arrange for Jaycee members to man Salvation Army kettles in the fund campaign Saturday, December 20.

The social committee announced plans for a holiday dance to be held Tuesday, December 30, at the Cumberland Country Club.

Four members named to co-operate with the current Army recruiting drive are Thomas B. Finan, Chauncey Sanner, Marvin T. Inge, Jr., and Sgt. Franklin L. Jolley,

Frostburg Chain Store To Occupy Site Of Historic Hansel Building

Two-Story Structure Planned By Firm

One of Western Maryland's historic landmarks, a six-room frame house at 27 Water Street, Frostburg, was razed during the past week to provide the site for a new building to be occupied by a nationally known chain grocery store.

The transaction was negotiated by John Stewart, Frostburg, for the Emca Company, with which he will be associated when the firm receives its charter.

The building, known to most of the present generation of this area, was the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Hansel for many years.

Prior to the purchase of the property by the Hansels, the home, then considered modern, was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Robinson, grandparents of Harry H. Robinson, this city, managing editor of the Cumberland News, and John J. Bobinson, vice president of the Liberty Trust Company.

Older Frostburg residents recall that the property was one of the homes on the west side of Water Street which escaped damage in the disastrous fire which destroyed most of that section of Frostburg, including St. Paul's Lutheran Church, in 1874.

The property was sold recently by the owners to James Neilson, of the firm of Neilson Brothers, Contractors, who will construct the proposed new building.

The tentative plans of the local concern call for the construction of a concrete block building, 50 by 125 feet, with an ornamental glass front. Apartments will be constructed on the second floor of the building if materials are available.

The building will have sufficient parking space in the rear for 25 cars and the purchase of an additional lot on the rear of the Edwards property will furnish additional parking space for the store.

The frant of the Edwards lot, facing on Mechanic Street, is the site of the original home of Water Commissioner W. J. Edwards and Webster Edwards, this city.
